Bonded Debt — Not Invalid as Continuing Appropriation: Plaintiff filed a complaint for declaratory judgment in the Supreme Court seeking to determine the validity of several acts of the Legislature allowing the issuance of state revenue bonds. The bonds would be financed by coal severance taxes to provide proceeds for development of state water resources. Plaintiff contended that this was an invalid "continuing appropriation". Plaintiff contended that the 48th Legislature by enacting the program could not constitutionally bind future Legislatures to "appropriate" the coal tax money necessary to service the bonds; that the principal of the coal severance tax trust funds had been invaded for years; and that each bond issue requires a separate appropriation of coal severance tax revenues by a three-fourths vote of each house of the Legislature. The Supreme Court harmonized the various constitutional provisions involved. The court held that the Legislature can authorize long-term borrowing by issuing and selling bonds and can provide for the servicing for such indebtedness by repayment or refunding. The court found nothing making the coal severance tax trust fund immune from use as a source of funding for long-term state bonds. When the Legislature validly acts to establish a debt, that indebtedness becomes a state obligation extending over the life of the indebtedness, and every succeeding Legislature has an unavoidable duty to provide for it in the manner required by the authorizing law. Grossman v. St., 209 M 427, 682 P2d 1319, 41 St. Rep. 804 (1984).

Case Notes

Amount of Funding Indefinite — Certainty Upon Sale of Bonds: Plaintiff filed a complaint for declaratory judgment in the Supreme Court seeking to determine the validity of several acts of the Legislature allowing the issuance of state revenue bonds. The plaintiff contended that H.B. 846, L. 1981, whereby the Legislature authorized issuance of up to $10 million in coal severance tax bonds for the state's share of construction costs of Tongue River Dam rehabilitation, violated Art. VIII, sec. 14, and Art. IX, sec. 5, Mont. Const., in that the amount of money necessary to finance the project was not definite or certain. The court found that at the time of the bill's passage, it was impossible for the Legislature to determine the exact cost. The authorization is contingent on legislative approval of a detailed project plan. Sections 17-5-709 and 17-5-710 place limits on the bonds that may be issued. The court found that no legislative assembly can be expected to predict the interest rate which will meet the market for the issuance of state bonds. The court found that when the bonds are issued and sold, the interest rate to be paid by the state will become certain. The amounts necessary to service and repay the indebtedness will be definite. The court relied on State ex rel. Toomey v. St. Bd. of Examiners, 74 M 1, 238 P 316 (1925), which held "that is certain which can be made certain", to uphold the authorization for the project. Grossman v. St., 209 M 427, 682 P2d 1319, 41 St. Rep. 804 (1984).

Attorney General's Opinions

Montana Higher Education Student Assistance Corporation Not State Bond Issuer — Bond Fee Inapplicable: A reasonable interpretation of this section is that it governs application of the audit fee for entities issuing private activity bonds, while 17-5-2201 governs application of the fee for all other types of bond issuance. The Montana Higher Education Student Assistance Corporation is not a state bond issuer as that term is used in 17-5-2201; therefore, the fees in that section do not apply to bonds issued by the Corporation. 47 A.G. It is the intention of the legislature that in implementing the rulemaking provisions of the bill, the board will examine the procedures used in other states to take advantage of proven methods of soliciting and reviewing applications for loans. It is further the intention of the legislature that in the examination of the rules provided for assessment of a collection of fees in connection with its programs, the board shall make a concerted effort to consider not only the needs of the board, but the needs of the potential borrowers of the state and the general need for capital investment in Montana. Where possible, the board shall use proven methods of operation which have been provided through the experience of other boards in the state and the experience of other states. The rules should also provide for a local hearing to be held to determine whether a proposed project is in the public interest."

Attorney General's Opinions

Solid Waste Management District Not Considered Political Subdivision for Municipal Finance Consolidation Purposes: A solid waste management district created under Title 7, chapter 13, part 2 (now repealed), is not governed by an independent board autonomous from the supervisory control of the Board of County Commissioners. Therefore, a solid waste management district is not considered a political subdivision for purposes of funding under the Municipal Finance Consolidation Act. 44 A.G. Op. 28 (1992).

Refuse District Not Special Taxing District or Political Subdivision: Under the rationale of this section and 42 A.G. Op. 80 (1988), a refuse disposal district has no independent governing body and therefore does not fall within the definition of "special taxing district". Further, under the rationale of 43 A.G. Op. 56 (1990), because a refuse board is not a separate and independent body and has not been delegated supervisory authority over a refuse disposal district, a refuse disposal district cannot be considered a political subdivision, as that term is used in this section. 43 A.G. Op. 68 (1990).

Attorney General's Opinions

Montana Higher Education Student Assistance Corporation Not State Bond Issuer — Bond Fee Inapplicable: A reasonable interpretation of 17-5-1312 is that it governs application of the audit fee for entities issuing private activity bonds, while this section governs application of the fee for all other types of bond issuance. The Montana Higher Education Student Assistance Corporation is not a state bond issuer as that term is used in this section; therefore, the fees in this section do not apply to bonds issued by the Corporation. 47 A.G. Op. 1 (1997).

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 349, L. 2011, provided: "WHEREAS, the Legislature finds that members of the Montana National Guard, residents of Montana in the federal reserves, and Montana residents serving on active duty in the armed forces have all made sacrifices of various kinds in order to serve the state and their country in times of war or national emergency; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature further finds that while those sacrifices may be difficult to quantify or compare because they range from loss of time with family and friends due to demands of reserve duty to loss of life in the service of the country, those sacrifices have in common that they occurred because of the status of the individual as a member of the armed forces; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature further finds that it has the authority pursuant to Article II, section 35, of the Montana Constitution to recognize and reward this status by providing special consideration to the status of service members and veterans; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature finds that it is appropriate to reward this status and the sacrifices the status represents by facilitating the fulfillment of the American dream of home ownership for those who serve or have served in the American armed forces; and

WHEREAS, the purpose of the Montana Veterans' Home Loan Mortgage Program Act is not to provide the most substantial return on the investment of money in the coal tax trust fund used for the program but to use some of the money in the trust fund for a mortgage loan program so that first-time home buyers who are eligible veterans can acquire a mortgage loan at a rate lower than prevailing market rates and in this way reward those eligible veterans who have served this country well and reward the unremarried spouses of eligible veterans who have made the ultimate sacrifice in service to their country."

Case Notes

Accounting System Allowing Commingling of State Trust Revenue Constitutional: Plaintiff challenged the state's alleged improper commingling of state land trust assets, including rental and bonus payments on certain coal leases, into the general fund, asserting that the accounting system violated the state's duty to obtain full market value for school trust lands. The District Court concluded that plaintiff failed to prove financial harm to the school trust beneficiaries, particularly when the Legislature's appropriation to public schools far exceeded the combined money provided by the interest income and the bonus payments. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed. The state satisfied its trust obligations by demonstrating that its accounting system was sufficiently accurate and complete to allow plaintiff to ascertain that all trust revenue goes to benefit public schools, while plaintiff failed to carry its burden of proving that the state withheld either the interest income or the bonus payments or improperly diverted those funds to nontrust purposes. Thus, the state statutory scheme did not breach the state's trustee duty by requiring the deposit of interest income and bonus payments into the general fund. Foreclosure and Disposal of Real Property: Arguably, if the Board of Investments has the authority to invest in first mortgages, it should have the authority to foreclose and dispose of the real property involved. However, no such specific authority exists. Therefore, once title to real property passes to the state, its administration, control, and subsequent disposition come under the direction and supervision of the Board of Land Commissioners. 1985 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 418 deleted former (1) through (3) that read: "(1) The following securities are permissible investments for all investment funds referred to in 17-6-203, except as indicated:

(a) any securities authorized to be pledged to secure deposits of public funds under 17-6-103;

(b) bonds, notes, debentures, equipment obligations, or any other kind of absolute obligation of any corporation organized and operating in any state of the United States or in Canada, if the obligations purchased are payable in United States dollars, or of any corporation in which the United States government is a voting shareholder by act of congress; provided that all investments under this subsection (1)(b) must be rated by one nationally recognized rating agency among the top third of their quality categories, not applicable to defaulted bonds;

(c) commercial paper of highest quality, as defined by one nationally recognized rating agency, issued by any corporation organized and operating in any state of the United States, provided that:

(i) such securities mature in 270 days or less;

(ii) the issuing corporation or the parent company of a finance subsidiary issuing commercial paper, at the time of the last financial reporting period, had received net income averaging $1 million or more annually for the preceding 5 years; and

(iii) no investment may be made at any time under this subsection (1)(c) which would cause the book value of such investments in any investment fund to exceed 10% of the book value of such fund or would cause the commercial paper of any one corporation to exceed 2% of the book value of such fund;

(d) bankers' acceptances guaranteed by any bank having its principal office in any state of the United States and having deposits in excess of $500 million;

(e) interest-bearing deposits in banks, building and loan associations, savings and loan associations, and credit unions located in Montana; provided, however, that the board of investments shall require pledged securities as specified in 17-6-102 (interest on said deposits shall not be less than the prevailing rate of interest being paid on deposits of private funds);

(f) unencumbered real property, first mortgages, and participations in first mortgages on unencumbered real property as provided in this subsection (1)(f) and subsection (5), provided that:

(i) no such mortgage or mortgage participation may be purchased unless:

(A) the principal amount of the loan secured by the mortgage or mortgage participation is 80% or less of the appraised value of the property;

(B) the principal amount of the loan secured by the mortgage or mortgage participation exceeds 80% of the appraised value of the property but the amount of the loan in excess of 80%, determined at the time the loan was made, is guaranteed or insured by a mortgage insurance company which the board of investments has determined to be a qualified private insurer;

(C) 25% or more of the loan or participation therein secured is guaranteed or insured in the event of default by the United States of America or an agency thereof; or

(D) the mortgagor has leased the mortgaged property to a person, firm, or corporation whose rental payments under the lease are guaranteed for the full term of the loan or participation therein by an agency of the United States; and

(ii) no investment shall be made at any time under subsection (1)(f) which would cause the book value of such investments in any investment fund to exceed 50% of the book value of such fund; and

(g) any other investment in any business activity in the state, including activities that continue existing jobs or create new jobs in Montana, provided that investments which do not meet the requirements of subsections (1)(a) through (1)(f) may not, in the aggregate, exceed 10% of the fund from which each such investment is made.

(2) Investments from the pooled investment fund shall be restricted to fixed income securities described in subsections (1)(a) to (1)(e) above.

(3) Retirement funds and the fund provided for in 17-6-203, subsection (4) may be invested in preferred and common stocks of any corporation organized and operating in any state of the United States, provided that:

(a) the corporation has assets of a value not less than $10 million;

(b) if the investment is preferred stock, the corporation's aggregate earnings available for payment of interest and preferred dividends, for a period of 5 consecutive years immediately before the date of investment, have been at least 1½ times the aggregate of interest and preferred dividends required to be paid during this period;

(c) no investment may be made at any time under subsection (3) which would cause the book value of such investments in any retirement fund to exceed 50% of the book value of such fund or would cause the stock of one corporation to exceed 2% of the book value of such retirement fund;

(d) subsection (3)(c) does not apply to funds provided for in 17-6-203(4)"; in first sentence of (1), after "and/or", substituted "financial institutions" for "banks"; at beginning of (2), deleted former first sentence that read: "The board may invest in mortgage loans financed by the board of housing if the mortgages are not in default and meet the requirements of subsection (1)(f)"; and deleted former (6) that read: "The Montana economic development board created in 2-15-1805 may invest the Montana in-state investment fund in any in-state investment authorized by its rules in addition to those investments authorized by this section."

Chapter 421 in (1) in first sentence, after "firms", inserted "credit unions".

Chapter 418 substituted "financial institutions" for "banks". Chapter 421 inserted "credit unions" before "banks". Because the term "financial institutions" includes credit unions, the Code Commissioner has not inserted "credit unions".

Interim Study Committee Bill: Chapter 418, L. 1985, was introduced by request of Joint Interim Subcommittee No. 3. See the committee report entitled "Effective Management of State Investments", Montana Legislative Council, December 1984. (The committee bill was substantially amended during the legislative process.)

1983 Amendments — Composite: Chapter 358, near beginning of (1)(c) before "quality", changed "prime" to "highest"; and in (1)(c)(ii) after "reporting period," deleted "had a ratio of current assets to current liabilities, including among current liabilities long-term debt maturing within 1 year, of at least 1½ to 1 and".

Chapter 360, in (1)(f), inserted "as provided in this subsection (1)(f) and subsection (5)"; and inserted (5) authorizing commitment agreement with Board of Housing.

Chapter 387, in (1)(e), after "associations" inserted ", and credit unions"; inserted (1)(g) authorizing investment in any business activity that continues or creates jobs in Montana.

Chapter 677, in (4), following "to direct", inserted "its portion of"; and inserted (6) allowing Board to authorize in-state investments by rule.

1981 Amendment: Deleted former subsection (3)(c) restricting investments in common stock to stocks that have paid cash dividends in each of at least 5 years immediately preceding purchase and to stocks of corporations with aggregate earnings at least equal to aggregate dividends paid and limiting to 2% the assets of a retirement fund that may be invested in stocks that didn't qualify under the above restrictions; increased the percent of book value from 20% to 50% and the percent of one corporation's stock from 1% to 2% in subsection (3)(c).

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 677, L. 1983, provided: "(1) A statement of intent is required for this bill because it grants rulemaking authority to the Montana economic development board [now the Board of Investments] in section 16. These rules will include definitions of small- and medium-sized businesses, a method of commitment of funds to financial institutions, setting service fees for loans, defining types of permissible investments, and procedural rules to govern the board's proceedings.

(2) It is the intent of the legislature that:

(a) the definitions of small- and medium-sized business be based on either the number of employees of the business, the level of capitalization of the business, or a combination of these factors;

(b) the method of committing funds to financial institutions be similar to the method utilized by the board of housing for committing funds for housing developments to financial institutions;

(c) the level of service fees be set to cover the costs associated with processing the investment and be similar to those charged by financial institutions;

(d) the permissible investments adopted by rules be based on the long-term benefit to the Montana economy and adhere to the prudent-man rule. The investments should be aimed at diversifying, strengthening, and stabilizing the Montana economy and increasing employment opportunities while maintaining and improving a clean and healthful environment; and

(e) the procedural rules be based on the Attorney General's model rules."

1985 Amendment: Inserted definition of clean and healthful environment.

Incorrect Internal References: (1) Section 2(1), Ch. 677, L. 1983, provided: "(1) Board means the Montana economic development board established in [section 19]." The "Board", however, was created in section 17 because sections 17 and 18 of the bill as introduced were deleted, which resulted in section 19 being renumbered as section 17.

(2) Section 2(3), Ch. 677, L. 1983, provided: "(3) Committee means the Economic Development Oversight Committee created by [section 17]." The Economic Development Oversight Committee was deleted from the bill prior to passage and this definition was inadvertently left in the bill. The Code Commissioner therefore has not codified the subsection.

Attorney General's Opinions

Board of Investments Allowed to Complete Grants Entered Between Board of Science and Technology Development and University System: In 1989, the Legislature created the Board of Science and Technology Development and allowed that Board to administer a statutorily allocated amount of money from the in-state investment fund for seed capital project loans. From 1989 to 1997, the Legislature continued to fund the Board of Science and Technology Development, which used the money to enter into research and development loans with different units of the Montana University System. In 1997, the Legislature deleted the Board of Science and Technology Development's authority to make loans that had been authorized in previous sessions, effective July 1, 1999, but authorized the Board of Science and Technology Development to grant up to $2 million of interest and income from investments to university research and development projects during the interim between 1997 and 1999. Relying on that authority, the Board of Science and Technology Development entered into six separate grant agreements with the University System, and the various units relied on the grants to secure matching federal funds for the projects. In 1999, in an attempt to make the coal tax permanent trust fund whole, the Legislature dismantled the Board of Science and Technology Development and directed the Board of Investments to administer agreements entered into by the Board of Science and Technology Development that had been funded with coal tax permanent trust funds and, at the same time, eliminated the funds set aside for the completion of the agreements, creating an inherent statutory conflict. Nevertheless, the agreements were fully integrated, binding contracts. The Attorney General concluded that the 1999 elimination of the Board of Investment's ability to complete the grant obligations to the University System would constitute a substantial impairment of contracts. Further, without the funds, the University System would not be able to complete the projects and federal matching funds would be jeopardized. To harmonize the conflict and avoid a contract impairment, the Attorney General held that the Board of Investments could complete the payment of grants to the University System from interest and income derived from Board of Science and Technology Development loans. 49 A.G. WHEREAS, the Legislature further finds that while those sacrifices may be difficult to quantify or compare because they range from loss of time with family and friends due to demands of reserve duty to loss of life in the service of the country, those sacrifices have in common that they occurred because of the status of the individual as a member of the armed forces; and Provisions Permitting Use of In-State Investment Fund to Guarantee Private Loans or Bonds Unconstitutional: The provisions of this section which permit the use of in-state investment fund money derived from taxation to guarantee loans or bonds of private individuals or private entities either directly or through the capital reserve account or through the economic development guaranty fund are unconstitutional from the viewpoint of Art. V, sec. 11(5), Art. VIII, sec. 1, and Art. VIII, sec. 13(1), Mont. Const. Hollow v. St., 222 M 478, 723 P2d 227, 43 St. Rep. 1435 (1986).

When Environmental Impact Statement Required in Conjunction With Loan Participation Agreement: A determination by the Montana Board of Investments to enter into a loan participation agreement constitutes a major action of state government under the Montana Environmental Policy Act (MEPA). Therefore, the Board must comply with the environmental impact statement requirements of MEPA when considering whether to enter into a loan participation agreement when the underlying project benefiting from the agreement may significantly affect the quality of the human environment. 43 A.G. Part Compiler's Comments Repeal of Audit and Evaluation of Microbusiness Finance Program: Section 4, Ch. 88, L. 1993, repealed sec. 9, Ch. 602, L. 1991, which required an audit and evaluation of the microbusiness finance program and a report to the Legislature. Repealer effective March 10, 1993.

1991 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 602, L. 1991, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 4 and 7] [17-6-406 and 17-6-411, now repealed] authorize the department of commerce to adopt rules for the administration of the microbusiness finance program and for the nomination of candidates to the microbusiness advisory council. [This act] [Title 17, ch. 6, part 4] is intended to provide a significant portion of the capital for a network of institutions that will, taken together, provide access throughout Montana to small loans for economically sound and feasible microbusiness projects that because of the high costs and diseconomies of scale of small lending or unconventional collateral are unlikely to receive financing from conventional public or private sources. The rules must ensure that a certified microbusiness development corporation receiving funds under this program:

(1) is prepared and qualified to provide or furnish access to management training and technical assistance to loan applicants and to conduct credit investigation and analysis and revolving loan fund administration in a prudent and professional manner;

(2) has identified adequate sources of operating income and sufficient prospective business clients; and

(3) includes in the membership of its board of directors representation of minorities, women, and low-income persons.

Ensuring management training capability, prudent revolving loan fund administration, and adequate operating income and market base must be balanced against the requirement to achieve geographic and rural-to-urban equity and equity for minorities, women, and low-income persons.

The rules must require that applicants to be certified as microbusiness development corporations submit cooperative proposals that propose to serve a multicounty region of the state and incorporate as partners or have the explicit approval of a significant number of development institutions and service providers within the communities to be served, including but not limited to local governments, certified community lead organizations, financial institutions, business incubators, business assistance groups, women, and representatives of low-income and minority populations.

Interest rates paid to the department by certified microbusiness development corporations receiving development loans must be at least sufficient, when the development loan fund is fully invested in development loans, to cover the department's administrative costs of the microbusiness finance program. Rates generally must be kept at the minimum necessary to provide for the department's administrative costs in order to provide the corporations with an interest earnings spread to be used for their own operating expenses.

Development loans generally must be interest-only loans, renewable at terms not to exceed 8 years. When the department chooses not to renew an interest-only development loan that has come to term and the corporation receiving the loan has administered its funds according to the program's criteria, the department shall attempt to negotiate an amortization schedule for repaying the loan that does not disrupt the operations or earnings of the corporation.

For maximum interest rates that certified microbusiness development corporations may charge on microbusiness loans, the rules must attempt to ensure that microbusiness development corporations comply with federal and state usury laws and other federal and state statutes and regulations regarding maximum rates to be charged by financial institutions. The department shall develop guidelines designed to reflect prevailing market conditions and specific loan risk and portfolio risk and may establish specific rate limits based on standard industry benchmarks, such as the New York prime rate, with the objective of allowing modest interest premiums, on the order of 1% to 3% above prevailing market rates, to be charged.

For minimum interest rates on microbusiness loans, the rules must consider prevailing market conditions and established industry benchmarks, such as the New York prime rate, in attempting to ensure that microbusiness development corporations are charging at least a prevailing market rate for loans of similar nature, term, and risk."

Audit and Evaluation of Microbusiness Finance Program — Report to Legislature: Section 9, Ch. 602, L. 1991, provided: "An audit, an analysis of costs and benefits, and an evaluation of the microbusiness finance program must be conducted by the office of the legislative auditor, beginning October 1, 1994, and the findings of this audit, analysis, and evaluation must be reported to the legislature no later than January 15, 1995." Effective April 24, 1991.

Appropriation — Approval of Three-Fourths of Members Required — Severability: Section 11, Ch. 602, L. 1991, provided: "(1) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of 17-6-308 and 17-6-309 and recognizing that the provisions of [sections 1 through 9] [Title 17, ch. 6, part 4] are consistent with 17-6-304 and 17-6-305 and that [sections 1 through 9] [Title 17, ch. 6, part 4] will result in long-term benefits to the economy of the state, there is appropriated, subject to the provisions of subsections (1)(b) and (1)(c), to the department of commerce from the in-state investment fund [now permanent coal tax trust fund] in 17-6-306 [now repealed] during the biennium beginning July 1, 1991, $3,250,000 for the microbusiness finance program established in [section 4] [17-6-406]. Funds appropriated from the in-state investment fund [now permanent coal tax trust fund] must be deposited in the microbusiness development loan account and are appropriated to the department for the purpose of making development loans pursuant to [sections 1 through 9] [Title 17, ch. 6, part 4].

(b) The funds appropriated in subsection (1)(a) from the in-state investment fund [now permanent coal tax trust fund] to the department of commerce must remain in the in-state investment fund [now permanent coal tax trust fund] until the department has decided to make a loan to a certified microbusiness development corporation under the provisions of [section 5] [17-6-407]. When the department has made the decision to make a loan to a certified microbusiness development corporation under the provisions of [section 5] [17-6-407], the director of the department shall notify the state treasurer of the decision and direct him to transfer an amount equal to the amount of the loan from the in-state investment fund [now permanent coal tax trust fund] to the microbusiness development loan account created in [section 5] [17-6-407].

(c) Funds may not be transferred from the in-state investment fund [now permanent coal tax trust fund] to the microbusiness development loan account for the purposes of [sections 1 through 9] [Title 17, ch. 6, part 4] except as provided in subsection (1)(b).

(2) Because subsection (1) appropriates money from the principal of the permanent coal tax trust fund, the appropriation requires a vote of three-fourths of the members of each house of the legislature. If [this act] is approved by a vote of less than three-fourths of the members of each house, this section is void and the remaining sections of [this act] are valid and remain in effect in all valid applications upon enactment." The final vote requirement necessary to implement the provisions of this appropriation was met; therefore, the appropriation is valid. Section 13, Ch. 602, L. 1991, a coordination section, provided: "If Senate Bill No. 26 is passed and approved and if it includes provisions eliminating the in-state investment fund, the code commissioner is instructed to substitute "permanent coal tax trust" for "in-state investment fund" where it appears in [this act], unless the context requires otherwise." Senate Bill No. 26 was approved April 24, 1991, as Ch. 589, L. 1991; therefore, the references in this appropriation to the in-state investment fund are construed to mean the permanent coal tax trust fund. Section 14(2), Ch. 602, L. 1991, provided that this appropriation is effective July 1, 1991.

Appropriation: Section 12, Ch. 602, L. 1991, provided: "There is appropriated to the microbusiness finance program administrative account created in [section 5] [17-6-407] from the general fund $64,600 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1992." Section 14(2), Ch. 602, L. 1991, provided that this appropriation is effective July 1, 1991.

Part Attorney General's Opinions

No Encumbrance of Unexpended Microbusiness Development Funds After End of Fiscal Year: The Department of Commerce entered into contracts with several microbusiness development corporations in June 1997, contingent upon matching funds being provided by September 30, 1997. However, when the matching funds were not received by that date, the Department amended the contracts to extend the time for providing matching funds to September 30, 1999. The Legislative Auditor conceded that Department rules allowed a valid encumbrance through September 30, 1997 (see ARM 8.99.505(3)), but maintained that after that time, the funds were no longer validly encumbered and should have reverted to the coal tax trust fund from which they were appropriated. The Attorney General agreed. In light of the balanced budget requirement in Art. VIII, sec. 9, Mont. Const., 17-7-304 contemplates that an appropriation for a specific purpose will revert to the fund or account from which it was appropriated after the expiration of the time for which it was appropriated, and appropriations for an unspecified period of time must revert at the end of the biennium. In this case, the appropriation was subject to reversion on June 30, 1997. The Department had administrative authority to create a valid encumbrance until September 30, 1997, but once that contingency expired, the Department had no authority to contract further in order to encumber the funds. There is no legal provision allowing encumbrance of funds after the end of a fiscal year. Because the Department's commitments were made after fiscal yearend, they were not valid obligations pursuant to 17-7-302; thus any unexpended balance from the appropriation should have reverted to the coal tax trust fund as of September 30, 1997. 48 A.G. Attorney General's Opinions

No Encumbrance of Unexpended Microbusiness Development Funds After End of Fiscal Year: The Department of Commerce entered into contracts with several microbusiness development corporations in June 1997, contingent upon matching funds being provided by September 30, 1997. However, when the matching funds were not received by that date, the Department amended the contracts to extend the time for providing matching funds to September 30, 1999. The Legislative Auditor conceded that Department rules allowed a valid encumbrance through September 30, 1997 (see ARM 8.99.505(3)), but maintained that after that time, the funds were no longer validly encumbered and should have reverted to the coal tax trust fund from which they were appropriated. The Attorney General agreed. In light of the balanced budget requirement in Art. VIII, sec. 9, Mont. Const., 17-7-304 contemplates that an appropriation for a specific purpose will revert to the fund or account from which it was appropriated after the expiration of the time for which it was appropriated, and appropriations for an unspecified period of time must revert at the end of the biennium. In this case, the appropriation was subject to reversion on June 30, 1997. The Department had administrative authority to create a valid encumbrance until September 30, 1997, but once that contingency expired, the Department had no authority to contract further in order to encumber the funds. There is no legal provision allowing encumbrance of funds after the end of a fiscal year. Because the Department's commitments were made after fiscal yearend, they were not valid obligations pursuant to 17-7-302; thus any unexpended balance from the appropriation should have reverted to the coal tax trust fund as of September 30, 1997. 48 A.G. Op. 26 (2000). See also 40 A.G. Op. 4 (1983).

Budget Systems and Program Plans

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Appropriations to Community Colleges: The budget for community college districts must be approved by the Board of Regents and fit into the Budget Act procedure of 17-7-101, et seq. It is a budget request which may be altered by the chief budget officer and which is ultimately subject to legislative approval. While 65% of state funding of community colleges is the goal, the Legislature may or may not appropriate an amount equal to 65% of the districts' proposed budgets. If it does not, an additional levy, which must be approved by the voters in the district, is authorized to make up the deficiency. The General Appropriations Act of 1979 does no more than reflect this entire statutory scheme, especially the requirements of 20-15-301, et seq. The General Appropriations Act of 1979 properly appropriates state funds to the community colleges. 38 A.G. Op. 54 (1979).

Water Adjudication Program Not Void Given Sufficient Line Item Appropriations to Avoid Voidness: A contingent voidness clause attached to legislation establishing the water adjudication account required that at least $2 million each fiscal year be appropriated to the water adjudication account by line item appropriation. Although the line item appropriations were directed to two agencies instead of being included in a single programmatic line item, the Attorney General concluded that more than $2 million had been appropriated from state sources other than the water adjudication account to avoid the contingent voidness provision. 51 A.G. Case Notes

County Properly Ordered to Pay County Attorney's Salary Increase: Although the Board of County Commissioners had been notified that the state would be unable to pay an increased contribution to the County Attorney's salary, the Board awarded the County Attorney a salary in excess of twice the amount appropriated by the state. When the state's one-half share of the salary failed to cover the salary increase, the County Attorney sued the county for the shortfall. The District Court ordered the county to pay the salary increase, and the county appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that counties are responsible for any increases in County Attorneys' salaries that are not taken into account and included in the state appropriation for paying County Attorneys' salaries. Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of Budget Amendment Process to Statutory Appropriations: Legislative history and case law support the conclusion that the scope of the budget amendment process is restricted to the expenditure of funds by state agencies in excess of their appropriations. The budget amendment process does not apply to "statutory appropriations", which are those appropriations accomplished by legislative enactment, either with or without specific appropriation laws. Attorney General's Opinions

No Encumbrance of Unexpended Microbusiness Development Funds After End of Fiscal Year: The Department of Commerce entered into contracts with several microbusiness development corporations in June 1997, contingent upon matching funds being provided by September 30, 1997. However, when the matching funds were not received by that date, the Department amended the contracts to extend the time for providing matching funds to September 30, 1999. The Legislative Auditor conceded that Department rules allowed a valid encumbrance through September 30, 1997 (see ARM 8.99.505(3)), but maintained that after that time, the funds were no longer validly encumbered and should have reverted to the coal tax trust fund from which they were appropriated. The Attorney General agreed. In light of the balanced budget requirement in Art. VIII, sec. 9, Mont. Const., 17-7-304 contemplates that an appropriation for a specific purpose will revert to the fund or account from which it was appropriated after the expiration of the time for which it was appropriated, and appropriations for an unspecified period of time must revert at the end of the biennium. In this case, the appropriation was subject to reversion on June 30, 1997. The Department had administrative authority to create a valid encumbrance until September 30, 1997, but once that contingency expired, the Department had no authority to contract further in order to encumber the funds. There is no legal provision allowing encumbrance of funds after the end of a fiscal year. Because the Department's commitments were made after fiscal yearend, they were not valid obligations pursuant to this section; thus any unexpended balance from the appropriation should have reverted to the coal tax trust fund as of September 30, 1997. 48 A.G. Op. 26 (2000). See also 40 A.G. Op. 4 (1983).

Encumbrance of Funds — Valid Obligation: The Coal Board may encumber funds at the close of a fiscal year only by incurring a "valid obligation" against them under 17-7-302. The Coal Board does not incur a valid obligation against its appropriation by inviting a full application for a grant after screening a preapplication since it is not legally bound to approve the application. 40 A.G. Op. 4 (1983).

1995 Amendment: Chapter 308 in temporary version in (2), in first sentence, substituted "university of Montana campuses at Missoula, Butte, Dillon, and Helena and the Montana state university campuses at Bozeman, Billings, Havre, and Great Falls" for former language that read: "university of Montana at Missoula, Montana state university at Bozeman, Montana college of mineral science and technology at Butte, eastern Montana college at Billings, northern Montana college at Havre, western Montana college of the university of Montana at Dillon" and after "offices in Butte" deleted "and the vocational-technical centers at Billings, Butte, Great Falls, Helena, and Missoula"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

Termination Removed: Chapter 128 removed the termination dates formerly applicable to this section found in sec. 5, Ch. 5, Sp. L. No Encumbrance of Unexpended Microbusiness Development Funds After End of Fiscal Year: The Department of Commerce entered into contracts with several microbusiness development corporations in June 1997, contingent upon matching funds being provided by September 30,

General Fund Responsible for Payment of Airport Loan Program Shortfall: Proceeds from bonds issued under the long-range building program were appropriated for use by the airport improvement program. As bond retirement occurred, a deficit shortfall was created between the bond payments and the repayment of the loans. Although the Legislature in 1993 established a different loan program with imposition of a 1-cent tax on aviation fuel pursuant to 67-1-301, there was no suggestion that proceeds from that tax were to be used for payment of bond proceeds under the previous loan program. Despite the fact that a legislative audit recommended that payment of the shortfall on the bonds should be paid from either of two special revenue accounts of the Aeronautics Division, the Attorney General held that both the bond instrument and the appropriation of bond proceeds clearly showed that the general fund was the proper source for payment on the bond shortfall. 47 A.G. Op. 7 (1997).

Reversion of Coal Board Funds: The provision of 17-7-304, requiring the reversion of unexpended and unencumbered portions of appropriations at the close of the fiscal year, applies to the appropriations to the Coal Board from the local impact and education trust fund. The Legislature appropriates money to the Coal Board as a discretionary matter under 90-6-207. There is no constitutional impediment to the reversion of the funds, nor is there any indication of legislative intent to except the Coal Board grant money from the operation of 17-7-304. The Board must follow the legislatively created financial requirements. 40 A.G. Op. 4 (1983).

Part 4
Budget Amendments

Part Compiler's Comments

Severability: Section 10, Ch. 536, L. 1983, was a severability section.

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of Budget Amendment Process to Statutory Appropriations: Legislative history and case law support the conclusion that the scope of the budget amendment process is restricted to the expenditure of funds by state agencies in excess of their appropriations. The budget amendment process does not apply to "statutory appropriations", which are those appropriations accomplished by legislative enactment, either with or without specific appropriation laws. (See Title 17, ch. 7, part 5.) 40 A.G. Op. 25 (1983).

Failure to Deduct Carryover Balance — Not Subject to Appropriation: In determining the amount of the fee, the Department of Revenue failed to deduct the carryover balance from the previous year. This unappropriated balance was not available to the office of Consumer Counsel for expenditure under a budget amendment. Rather, the balance inures to the benefit of the regulated companies in the form of a corresponding lower fee for the succeeding year. 39 A.G. Op. 59 (1982).

Attorney General's Opinions

Disaster and Emergency Payments — Budget Amendment Process Inapplicable: The budget amendment process was not applicable to a request to pay the costs associated with the suppression of forest fires. The budget amendment process is not intended to permit a loan from the state's general fund when the only anticipated revenue for repayment is the possibility of a subsequent appropriation of funds from the general fund. 42 A.G. Op. 123 (1988).

Chapter 415 in (3) deleted "53-6-1304" from list of statutory references. Amendment effective July 1, 2019, and terminates June 30, 2025, on occurrence of contingency. However, because the original inclusion of the reference to 53-6-1304 was scheduled to terminate at the same time that 53-6-1304 terminated, the reference to 53-6-1304 would not be reinserted and the contingent termination of this amendment is effectively ineffective.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 383, L. 2015, provided: "WHEREAS, Libby Dam, located in Lincoln County, Montana, is the fourth dam constructed under the Columbia River Treaty, which the Canadian government and the United States government entered into in 1964, and is located on the Kootenai River, which is the third largest tributary to the Columbia River and contributes almost 20% of the total water in the lower Columbia River; and

WHEREAS, Libby Dam was dedicated on August 24, 1975, and spans the Kootenai River 17 miles upstream from the town of Libby, Montana; and

WHEREAS, Lake Koocanusa, the reservoir behind Libby Dam, extends 90 miles north of the dam, with 48 miles of Lake Koocanusa located in Lincoln County and the remainder in British Columbia, Canada; and

WHEREAS, Libby Dam, in Montana's northwest corner, and three dams in Canada were constructed to protect downstream areas from flooding, and Libby Dam holds back an average of 5,800,000 acre-feet of water; and

WHEREAS, economic benefits have been derived from the storage of these floodwaters and the coordinated, timely release of those waters through generation of electricity, irrigation, navigation, and recreation; and

WHEREAS, the construction of Libby Dam placed many thousands of acres of land in Lincoln County underwater, leading to decreased real property tax revenues for the county and a loss of timber sales and wildlife and fish habitat, among other losses; and

WHEREAS, the Canadian government was compensated for construction of the dams and storage of floodwaters through a sharing of dollars on electricity from additional power generated at downstream dams and hydropower generating facilities, leading to the formation of the Columbia Basin Trust; and

WHEREAS, citizens of Lincoln County did not participate in the negotiations for the terms of the Columbia River Treaty and no compensation has been received by Lincoln County; and

WHEREAS, the renegotiation of the treaty is currently being considered, and there is a possibility that compensation could be provided to Lincoln County as a result of federal legislation, litigation, determination of regulations, and the renegotiation of the treaty; and

WHEREAS, Montana Highway Patrol officer positions have been placed into the alternative pay and classification plan, which allows market-based salary survey adjustments, to recruit and retain officers; and

WHEREAS, market-based salary information from county Sheriff departments, which are recruiting and hiring Montana Highway Patrol officers because of higher salaries, is readily available to establish market-based salary rates to compensate Montana Highway Patrol officers and reduce attrition in these positions; and

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 276, L. 1997, provided: "WHEREAS, it is the intent of the state compensation insurance fund to assist all Montanans by reducing the unfunded liability of the old fund, terminating the old fund liability tax when the old fund is adequately funded, which is currently estimated to occur as early as June 30, 1999, providing for the payment of dividends to policyholders, and maintaining a viable state compensation insurance fund; and

WHEREAS, there was an unfunded liability of $355 million as of June 30, 1996, for claims for workers' compensation injuries occurring before July 1, 1990, in the old fund, which included $129 million in outstanding bond debt; and

WHEREAS, the old fund is funded with the old fund liability tax paid by employers, employees, and self-employed persons, generating as much as $50 million each year; and

WHEREAS, the surplus of $231 in the new fund as of June 30, 1996, allowed the Board of Directors of the State Fund to declare a dividend of up to $109 million to retire the outstanding bond debt in the old fund; and

WHEREAS, the unfunded liability in the old fund will be an estimated $200 million deficit by June 30, 1997, and the surplus or the excess of assets above the reserves that are set aside to meet the claim liability in the new fund will be an estimated $127 million by June 30, 1997; and

WHEREAS, current state law requires the State Fund to use dividends to be applied first to old fund outstanding liability rather than paying dividends directly to policyholders, the State Fund shall, no later than June 30, 1998, transfer $63.8 million to the old fund account to pay old fund claims to allow direct payment of dividends to policyholders; and

WHEREAS, the $20 million appropriation received by the State Fund from the general fund during the June 1989 Special Session partially addressed the unfunded liability issue existing at that time in the old fund and cancelled a planned 22% rate increase; and

WHEREAS, the State Fund now agrees to repay the $20 million appropriation to the general fund by June 30, 1999, in lieu of transferring additional funds to the old fund account to provide the general fund with additional revenue and to remove any perception that the State Fund remains a burden on the general fund; and

WHEREAS, because decreases in premium rates totaled 35% in fiscal years 1996 and 1997 and legislative changes in benefit levels have resulted in the return of private carriers, the 15% limitation on administration expenses as a percent of the prior year's premium will significantly impact the State Fund's ability to provide service to policyholders and their injured workers; and

WHEREAS, the State Fund seeks to improve the level of services provided to customers without increasing existing State Fund staffing levels by working with private sector-licensed insurance producers; and

WHEREAS, in response to Haag v. Montana Schools Group Insurance Authority, 274 M 109, 906 P.2d 693 (1995), in which the Montana Supreme Court ruled that an insurer's failure to comply with the time limitations for accepting or denying a workers' compensation claim constituted acceptance of the claim, current law needs to be clarified to provide that the failure to comply with the time limitations does not constitute acceptance of the claim."

Purported 1993 Amendment — Coordination: Section 13(1), Ch. 352, L. 1993, provided: "If House Bill No. 92 is passed and approved and if it amends the State-Tribal Cooperative Agreements Act to specifically include the assessment and collection of a tax or license or permit fee and provides for revenue sharing, then [sections 3 through 5 of this act] are void." House Bill No. 92 was approved as Ch. 625, L. 1993, and contained the provisions alluded to in the coordination instruction. Chapter 352 inserted references in the (3) list of statutory references to sections 4 and 5 of Ch. 352, L. 1993, which were enacted but subsequently rendered void by the enactment of Ch. 625, L. 1993. The effect was that this section, although purportedly amended by sec. 11, Ch. 352, was not actually amended by that chapter.

1993 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 450, L. 1993, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [section 2] [19-8-817(4)] gives the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules to implement the cost-of-living adjustment provided in the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to provide a one-time ad hoc cost-of-living adjustment to each member of the game wardens' retirement system [now game wardens' and peace officers' retirement system] who has been retired for 5 years or more, to the member's beneficiary, or to the member's contingent annuitant. The cost of the adjustment will be paid by increasing the amortization period of the system's unfunded liabilities.

It is further the intent of the legislature that the proposed statutory retirement committee established in House Bill No. 65 be assigned by the legislative council to develop legislation providing an equitable guaranteed annual benefit adjustment for each of Montana's statewide public retirement systems and that the legislation be presented to the 54th legislature for consideration. It is further the intent of the legislature that the cost of holding hearings and developing the legislation be paid by retirement systems and donations from public employee and retiree associations."

Coordination: Section 7, Ch. 450, L. 1993, provided: "If Senate Bill No. 203 is not passed and approved, then [this act] is void." Senate Bill No. 203 was passed and approved as Ch. 367, L. 1993; therefore, Ch. 450, L. 1993, is valid.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 10, Sp. L. January 1992, provided: "WHEREAS, Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, provided, among other things, for adjustment payments to retirees of state, local, and teacher retirement systems who are also Montana residents; and

WHEREAS, the first adjustment payments were intended to be made for the 1991 tax year and to be payable to retirees by June 1, 1992; and

WHEREAS, the language of section 5, Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, which provides for the payment of the retirement adjustments by June 1 of each year, read together with the May 24, 1991, effective date of Chapter 823 created confusion and a question of whether the adjustment payments were required to be paid beginning June 1, 1991, for the 1990 tax year, which was not the intended result; and

WHEREAS, the additional, unintended payments have not been made at this time; and

WHEREAS, the impact on the general fund of beginning the adjustment payments a year earlier than intended is estimated to be approximately $2.9 million; and

WHEREAS, this act is intended as a curative amendment to Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, to clarify that the intent of the 52nd Legislature in enacting Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, was to make the first adjustment payments beginning June 1, 1992.

THEREFORE, the Legislature of the State of Montana finds it is appropriate to amend the effective date and applicability date of Chapter 823, Laws of 1991."

Code Commissioner Correction: Section 21, Ch. 461, L. 1987, erroneously referred to sec. 7, Ch. 461, L. 1987, as the section of the chapter providing a statutory appropriation. The statutory appropriation is actually contained in sec. 12, Ch. 461, L. 1987, codified as 90-3-412 (now repealed). The Code Commissioner has inserted the correct reference in subsection (3) to reflect the chapter content.

Severability: Section 27, Ch. 401, L. 1987, was a severability section.

1985 Amendments: In (3) Ch. 244 inserted reference to 75-7-305; Ch. 395 inserted reference to 90-15-103; Ch. 635 inserted reference to 10-4-301; Ch. 688 inserted reference to 37-51-501; Ch. 701 inserted references to 90-3-301 and 90-3-302; Ch. 720 inserted reference to 23-5-612; HB 861 inserted references to 17-5-424 and Sec. 13, HB 861; HB 922 inserted reference to 75-1-1101.

Chapter 415 in (3) deleted 53-6-1304 from list of statutory references. Amendment effective July 1, 2019, and terminates June 30, 2025, on occurrence of contingency. However, because the original inclusion of the reference to 53-6-1304 was scheduled to terminate at the same time that 53-6-1304 terminated, the reference to 53-6-1304 would not be reinserted and the contingent termination of this amendment is effectively ineffective.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 383, L. 2015, provided: "WHEREAS, Libby Dam, located in Lincoln County, Montana, is the fourth dam constructed under the Columbia River Treaty, which the Canadian government and the United States government entered into in 1964, and is located on the Kootenai River, which is the third largest tributary to the Columbia River and contributes almost 20% of the total water in the lower Columbia River; and

WHEREAS, Libby Dam was dedicated on August 24, 1975, and spans the Kootenai River 17 miles upstream from the town of Libby, Montana; and

WHEREAS, Lake Koocanusa, the reservoir behind Libby Dam, extends 90 miles north of the dam, with 48 miles of Lake Koocanusa located in Lincoln County and the remainder in British Columbia, Canada; and

WHEREAS, Libby Dam, in Montana's northwest corner, and three dams in Canada were constructed to protect downstream areas from flooding, and Libby Dam holds back an average of 5,800,000 acre-feet of water; and

WHEREAS, economic benefits have been derived from the storage of these floodwaters and the coordinated, timely release of those waters through generation of electricity, irrigation, navigation, and recreation; and

WHEREAS, the construction of Libby Dam placed many thousands of acres of land in Lincoln County underwater, leading to decreased real property tax revenues for the county and a loss of timber sales and wildlife and fish habitat, among other losses; and

WHEREAS, the Canadian government was compensated for construction of the dams and storage of floodwaters through a sharing of dollars on electricity from additional power generated at downstream dams and hydropower generating facilities, leading to the formation of the Columbia Basin Trust; and

WHEREAS, citizens of Lincoln County did not participate in the negotiations for the terms of the Columbia River Treaty and no compensation has been received by Lincoln County; and

WHEREAS, the renegotiation of the treaty is currently being considered, and there is a possibility that compensation could be provided to Lincoln County as a result of federal legislation, litigation, determination of regulations, and the renegotiation of the treaty; and

WHEREAS, the purpose of this legislation is to address how, if the compensation is paid directly to the state instead of to Lincoln County, the compensation should be distributed."

Because these section references were not changed when new sections 20 and 22 were added to the bill by amendment, the code commissioner has determined that "[section 19 or 20]" should be replaced with "[section 19 or 21]" [25-3-106 or 27-2-205].

Because these section references were not changed when new sections 20 and 22 were added to the bill by amendment, the code commissioner has determined that the reference to "[Sections 11, 19, 20, and 21]" should have been to "[Sections 11, 19, 21, and 23]" [53-6-1316, 25-3-106, 27-2-205, and section 23, a noncodified transition section].

WHEREAS, the standing House and Senate State Administration Committees of the 58th Legislature, recognizing the unique nature of law enforcement services and the importance of retaining qualified law enforcement personnel, directed the Attorney General to report to the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee on recruitment and retention efforts, to conduct a salary survey, and to develop draft legislation to implement recommendations; and

WHEREAS, Montana Highway Patrol officer positions have been placed into the alternative pay and classification plan, which allows market-based salary survey adjustments, to recruit and retain officers; and

WHEREAS, market-based salary information from county Sheriff departments, which are recruiting and hiring Montana Highway Patrol officers because of higher salaries, is readily available to establish market-based salary rates to compensate Montana Highway Patrol officers and reduce attrition in these positions; and

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 276, L. 1997, provided: "WHEREAS, it is the intent of the state compensation insurance fund to assist all Montanans by reducing the unfunded liability of the old fund, terminating the old fund liability tax when the old fund is adequately funded, which is currently estimated to occur as early as June 30, 1999, providing for the payment of dividends to policyholders, and maintaining a viable state compensation insurance fund; and

WHEREAS, there was an unfunded liability of $355 million as of June 30, 1996, for claims for workers' compensation injuries occurring before July 1, 1990, in the old fund, which included $129 million in outstanding bond debt; and

WHEREAS, the old fund is funded with the old fund liability tax paid by employers, employees, and self-employed persons, generating as much as $50 million each year; and

WHEREAS, the surplus of $231 in the new fund as of June 30, 1996, allowed the Board of Directors of the State Fund to declare a dividend of up to $109 million to retire the outstanding bond debt in the old fund; and

WHEREAS, the unfunded liability in the old fund will be an estimated $200 million deficit by June 30, 1997, and the surplus or the excess of assets above the reserves that are set aside to meet the claim liability in the new fund will be an estimated $127 million by June 30, 1997; and

WHEREAS, current state law requires the State Fund to use dividends to be applied first to old fund outstanding liability rather than paying dividends directly to policyholders, the State Fund shall, no later than June 30, 1998, transfer $63.8 million to the old fund account to pay old fund claims to allow direct payment of dividends to policyholders; and

WHEREAS, the $20 million appropriation received by the State Fund from the general fund during the June 1989 Special Session partially addressed the unfunded liability issue existing at that time in the old fund and canceled a planned 22% rate increase; and

WHEREAS, the State Fund now agrees to repay the $20 million appropriation to the general fund by June 30, 1999, in lieu of transferring additional funds to the old fund account to provide the general fund with additional revenue and to remove any perception that the State Fund remains a burden on the general fund; and

WHEREAS, because decreases in premium rates totaled 35% in fiscal years 1996 and 1997 and legislative changes in benefit levels have resulted in the return of private carriers, the 15% limitation on administration expenses as a percent of the prior year's premium will significantly impact the State Fund's ability to provide service to policyholders and their injured workers; and

WHEREAS, the State Fund seeks to improve the level of services provided to customers without increasing existing State Fund staffing levels by working with private sector-licensed insurance producers; and

WHEREAS, in response to Haag v. Montana Schools Group Insurance Authority, 274 M 109, 906 P.2d 693 (1995), in which the Montana Supreme Court ruled that an insurer's failure to comply with the time limitations for accepting or denying a workers' compensation claim constituted acceptance of the claim, current law needs to be clarified to provide that the failure to comply with the time limitations does not constitute acceptance of the claim."

Purported 1993 Amendment — Coordination: Section 13(1), Ch. 352, L. 1993, provided: "If House Bill No. 92 is passed and approved and if it amends the State-Tribal Cooperative Agreements Act to specifically include the assessment and collection of a tax or license or permit fee and provides for revenue sharing, then [sections 3 through 5 of this act] are void." House Bill No. 92 was approved as Ch. 625, L. 1993, and contained the provisions alluded to in the coordination instruction. Chapter 352 inserted references in the (3) list of statutory references to sections 4 and 5 of Ch. 352, L. 1993, which were enacted but subsequently rendered void by the enactment of Ch. 625, L. 1993. The effect was that this section, although purportedly amended by sec. 11, Ch. 352, was not actually amended by that chapter.

1993 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 450, L. 1993, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [section 2] [19-8-817(4)] gives the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules to implement the cost-of-living adjustment provided in the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to provide a one-time ad hoc cost-of-living adjustment to each member of the game wardens' retirement system [now game wardens' and peace officers' retirement system] who has been retired for 5 years or more, to the member's beneficiary, or to the member's contingent annuitant. The cost of the adjustment will be paid by increasing the amortization period of the system's unfunded liabilities.

It is further the intent of the legislature that the proposed statutory retirement committee established in House Bill No. 65 be assigned by the legislative council to develop legislation providing an equitable guaranteed annual benefit adjustment for each of Montana's statewide public retirement systems and that the legislation be presented to the 54th legislature for consideration. It is further the intent of the legislature that the cost of holding hearings and developing the legislation be paid by retirement systems and donations from public employee and retiree associations."

Coordination: Section 7, Ch. 450, L. 1993, provided: "If Senate Bill No. 203 is not passed and approved, then [this act] is void." Senate Bill No. 203 was passed and approved as Ch. 367, L. 1993; therefore, Ch. 450, L. 1993, is valid.

Severability: Section 12, Ch. 534, L. 1993, was a severability clause.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 8, Ch. 625, L. 1993, provided: "[This act] is effective July 1, 1993, and applies to agreements entered into on or after July 1, 1993."

Severability: Section 15, Ch. 630, L. 1993, was a severability clause.

Saving Clause: Section 16, Ch. 630, L. 1993, was a saving clause.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 10, Sp. L. January 1992, provided: "WHEREAS, Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, provided, among other things, for adjustment payments to retirees of state, local, and teacher retirement systems who are also Montana residents; and

WHEREAS, the first adjustment payments were intended to be made for the 1991 tax year and to be payable to retirees by June 1, 1992; and

WHEREAS, the language of section 5, Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, which provides for the payment of the retirement adjustments by June 1 of each year, read together with the May 24, 1991, effective date of Chapter 823 created confusion and a question of whether the adjustment payments were required to be paid beginning June 1, 1991, for the 1990 tax year, which was not the intended result; and

WHEREAS, the additional, unintended payments have not been made at this time; and

WHEREAS, the impact on the general fund of beginning the adjustment payments a year earlier than intended is estimated to be approximately $2.9 million; and

WHEREAS, this act is intended as a curative amendment to Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, to clarify that the intent of the 52nd Legislature in enacting Chapter 823, Laws of 1991, was to make the first adjustment payments beginning June 1, 1992.

Attorney General's Opinions

Appropriations — Legislative Control Over Marketing Assessment Funds: Although the control of the Legislature over appropriations to state agencies is based upon broad constitutional provisions, certain money may either be exempt from the appropriation process or the purposes for which that money may be appropriated may be limited by statute. Thus, the Legislature may control appropriations from the Wheat Marketing and Research Account, but those appropriations are subject to the statutorily stated purposes of the Account. Any attempt by the Legislature in an appropriation bill to alter the purposes for which appropriations from the Account are made is subject to the constitutional restriction that the purpose of legislation must be clearly stated in the title of the bill. 39 A.G. Op. 3 (1981).

1983 Amendments: Chapter 536, near middle of (1), substituted ", including any approved, authorized, and valid budget amendment," for "or authorized budget amendment"; and at end of (1) made similar change.

Subsection (2) was enacted by sec. 1, Ch. 693, L. 1983. The codification instruction was to include sec. 1, Ch. 693 as an integral part of Title 17, ch. 8. The Code Commissioner codified section as subsection (2) of this section because of close coherence of the subject matter.

Preamble: The preamble to Ch. 693, L. 1983, which enacted subsection (2) provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, Section 12, Constitution of Montana requires the legislature to insure by law the strict accountability of all revenue received and money spent by state and local governments; and

WHEREAS, Article VIII, Section 14, Constitution of Montana prohibits the payment of money, except for interest on the public debt, from the treasury unless upon an appropriation made by law and a warrant drawn by the proper officer."

Case Notes

Additional Expenditures: Under former law, mandate was issued by the Supreme Court to compel State Board of Public Welfare to present to the state Board of Examiners forthwith written application setting forth the circumstances confronting it with reference to the need for money to carry out the relief program in Silver Bow County and requesting authorization for expenditures to meet the relief requirements in Silver Bow County. 17-8-106. Expenditure limitation — exception.

Attorney General's Opinions

Expenditure Limits Not Extended to Future Biennial Budget Cycles: A County Commissioner questioned whether this section (enacted 1981) limited the power of subsequent Legislatures to appropriate funds by establishing a cap on expenditures in the 1981 budget biennium and for future biennial budget cycles. The Attorney General noted that, consistent with constitutional design, the Legislature lacks the power to pass a law that purports to establish binding legislative spending policy for future Legislatures. Each Legislature is vested with full legislative power, and there is no cap on state spending in the Montana Constitution. Thus, the 1981 enactment of this section placed no enforceable limits on the spending power of subsequent Legislatures. 51 A.G. Op. 4 (2005).

17-8-107. Limitations on spending deferred inflows of resources — exception — definition.

Part 2
Claims

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Penalties for Fraudulent Benefits Claim — Specific Remedy Controlling Over General Remedy: Although 17-8-231 (now repealed) appears to provide a penalty for fraudulent claiming of unemployment insurance benefits, that statute is a general one which provides a penalty in conflict with the more specific penalty provided under 39-51-3201. Because the more particular statute must control to the extent of any inconsistency, the Department of Labor and Industry is limited to recovery of those amounts of benefits wrongfully received by the claimant. The Department may not sue a claimant for all benefits paid to the claimant or for the additional penalty provided in 17-8-231 (now repealed), but may disqualify the claimant under 39-51-3201 from receipt of future benefits. 40 A.G. Op. 21 (1983).

Case Notes

No Application of Statute to Leases — Time for Filing — Prejudice Required: Where the State executed a 6-year lease of certain communications equipment with the plaintiff's assignor in 1973 and, prior to notice of the assignment of the lease to the plaintiff, unilaterally terminated the lease in 1977, the court did not err in holding the State liable for damages for termination of the lease. The State cannot rely for a defense upon the failure of the assignor to give notice of the assignment to the State because: (1) 17-8-211(1) applies to assignments of "claims", not leases; (2) the statute does not require filing within a time certain, and filing was eventually made prior to suit; and (3) the State can claim no prejudice, as it had actual notice of the assignment. Leaseamerica Corp. of Wis. v. St., 191 M 462, 625 P2d 68, 38 St. Rep. 378 (1981).

17-8-242. Interest assessed on amounts due.

Case Notes

Claim Against the State — Employee Health Benefits Plan — Interest Calculated From Time of Court Decision Declaring Provision Unenforceable: The plaintiff's right to recover prejudgment interest did not vest until the Supreme Court's decision in Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Mont. v. Mont. St. Auditor & Comm'r of Ins., 2009 MT 318, 352 Mont. 423, 218 P.3d 475 (BCBS), which held for the first time that the state employee health benefits plan's coordination of benefits provision violated Montana's made-whole laws. The coordination of benefits provision at issue was enforceable under Montana law until the BCBS decision. Thus, the particular day on which the plaintiff's right to recover vested was 30 days after the Supreme Court's remittitur in BCBS. Diaz v. St., 2016 MT 270, 385 Mont. 220, 383 P.3d 206.

The private citizen shall file a complaint with the government attorney that includes a written disclosure of material evidence and information alleging violations"; inserted (2) requiring copy of complaint and other material to be served on government attorney and requiring complaint to be sealed and not served until the court orders; in (3) in first sentence near beginning after "receiving" deleted "a notice and", after "complaint" inserted "and the material evidence and information", after "elect to" deleted "file a civil action and" and inserted language authorizing government attorney to proceed or decline to proceed with action, inserted second sentence providing that person bringing action may conduct action if government attorney declines, and in third sentence inserted "The government attorney" and at end substituted "during which the complaint remains under seal" for "for filing an action"; inserted (4) providing that defendant is not required to respond to complaint until 20 days after complaint is unsealed and served; in (5) in first sentence after "government attorney" substituted "proceeds with the action, the government attorney has the primary responsibility for prosecuting the action and is not bound by an act of the person bringing the action" for "files a civil action, the private citizen may enter the action as a coplaintiff, but the government attorney has control of the plaintiffs' strategy, tactics, and other decisionmaking. If the government attorney does not file a civil action within the time allowed under subsection (2), the private citizen may file a civil action" and inserted second sentence providing that a person bringing the action may continue as a party to the action; deleted former (4) that read: "(4) The court shall permit the government attorney to intervene in an action that the government attorney declined to file under subsection (2) if the court determines that the interests of the governmental entity are not being adequately represented by the private citizen. If intervention is allowed, the private citizen retains principal responsibility for and control of the action and any damages, civil penalty, costs, and attorney fees must be awarded under 17-8-410 and 17-8-411 as if the government attorney had not intervened"; inserted (6)(a) regarding provision of certain copies to the government attorney or governmental entity by a person if the government attorney elects not to proceed with the action; inserted (6)(b) allowing the court to permit the attorney to intervene in the action; in (7) at beginning substituted "When a person" for "After a private citizen", after "civil action" inserted "pursuant to this section", and substituted "no person other than the government attorney may intervene or bring a related action" for "no other private citizen may file a civil action"; inserted (8) allowing the court to impose limitations on the person's participation; and made minor changes in style. TITLE 18
PUBLIC CONTRACTS

CHAPTER 1
PUBLIC CONTRACTS GENERALLY

Chapter Case Notes

Cost of Overrun — Material Issue of Reliance on Plans: Kalispell argued that contract documents plainly advised all bidders to make their own determination as to the amount of material to be moved and not to rely on the figures on the city's plans and specifications. By entering into the contract, the bidders allegedly bound themselves to do the rough grading at the price bid and should get no additional compensation for overrun. However, the District Court rejected the city's argument that the plaintiffs' complaint, therefore, failed to state a claim and that there could be no issues of material fact before the District Court. Based on a recent line of cases from the Supreme Court, the District Judge determined that the fact finder had to hear the evidence in order to find whether or not the contractors justifiably relied on the plans. Stenerson v. Kalispell, 193 M 8, 629 P2d 773, 38 St. Rep. 938 (1981), followed in Clark Bros. Contractors v. St., 218 M 490, 710 P2d 41, 42 St. Rep. 1765 (1985).

Part 1
Preferences and General Matters

18-1-101. Definitions.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 181 deleted definition of Montana-made that read: ""Montana-made" means manufactured or produced in this state and made with the:

(i) use of parts, materials, or supplies of which 50% or more were manufactured or produced in this state; or

(ii) employment of persons of whom 50% or more are bona fide residents of Montana as defined in 18-2-401"; in definition of public agency inserted (ii) providing that a public agency does not include a political subdivision for the purposes of 18-1-102(1)(b); and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Applicability: Section 28, Ch. 181, L. 2001, provided: "[This act] applies to contracts for which the contracting government entity begins the contracting process after October 1, 2001."

1997 Amendment: Chapter 443 inserted definition of written; and made minor changes in style.

Severability: Section 22, Ch. 443, L. 1997, was a severability clause. Effective April 30, 1997.

1987 Amendment: Inserted definitions of goods, Montana-made, nonresident bidder, public agency, and resident bidder.

18-1-102. State contracts to lowest bidder — reciprocity.

Compiler's Comments

2005 Amendment: Chapter 574 in (1) in introductory clause near end inserted exception clause. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 181 in (1) at beginning deleted "Except as provided in subsection (1)(b)"; in (1)(b) substituted language requiring a public agency to award a public contract without regard to residency unless a nonresident's state or country allows a preference for residents for former language that read: "a public contract for the purchase of goods, if the goods are comparable in quality and performance, to the lowest responsible resident bidder whose:

(A) bid is not more than 3% higher than that of the lowest responsible nonresident bidder;

(B) offered goods are Montana-made and whose bid is not more than 5% higher than that of the lowest responsible nonresident bidder; or

(C) offered goods are Montana-made and whose bid is not more than 3% higher than that of the lowest responsible resident bidder whose offered goods are not Montana-made.

(b) The transportation commission or the department of transportation may not enter into a contract for a state-funded highway project or a construction project with a bidder whose operations are not headquartered in the United States unless:

(i) the foreign country in which the bidder is headquartered affords companies based in the United States open, fair, and nondiscriminatory access to bidding on highway projects and construction projects located in the foreign country; and

(ii) the department of transportation has entered into a reciprocity agreement with the foreign country that addresses:

(A) the equal and fair treatment of bids originating in the United States and in the foreign country;

(B) specific ownership requirements and tax policies in the United States and in the foreign country that may result in the unequal treatment of all bids received, regardless of their origin;

(C) the means by which contractors from both the United States and the foreign country are notified of highway projects and construction projects available for bid; and

(D) any other differences in public policy or procedure that may result in the unequal treatment of bids originating in the United States or in the foreign country for projects located in either the United States or the foreign country.

(c) (i) If both subsections (1)(a)(ii)(B) and (1)(a)(ii)(C) are applicable to bids for a contract, the contract must be awarded to the resident bidder whose offered goods are Montana-made if the bid is:

(A) not more than 3% higher than that of a resident bidder whose offered goods are not Montana-made; and

(B) not more than 5% higher than that of the nonresident bidder.

(ii) However, a combination of preferences under this subsection (1)(c) may not exceed 5%"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Applicability: Section 28, Ch. 181, L. 2001, provided: "[This act] applies to contracts for which the contracting government entity begins the contracting process after October 1, 2001."

1999 Amendment: Chapter 306 at beginning of (1) inserted exception clause; inserted (1)(b) prohibiting department of transportation and transportation commission from entering into contracts for highway construction projects with bidders not headquartered in United States unless reciprocity agreement in place; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 14, 1999.

Contingent Voidness: Section 3, Ch. 306, L. 1999, provided: "Contingent voidness. (1) If the federal government notifies the state in writing that the enforcement of [this act] places at risk this state's eligibility to receive federal funds for highway projects, then the bracketed language in [this act] is void pursuant to subsection (2).

(2) The bracketed language in [this act] is void on the date that the director of the department of transportation certifies to the governor in writing that the director has received written notice of the federal government's intention to terminate allocation of highway funds to Montana because of the enforcement of [this act]." On April 13, 1999, the federal government notified the state that the provisions of Senate Bill No. 330 (Ch. 306, L. 1999) are contrary to federal highway laws. On March 3, 2000, the director of the department of transportation certified to the governor that the written notice was received.

1991 Amendment: In (1)(a)(i) deleted language that gave a resident bidder preference over nonresident bidders equal to the greater of 3% or the percentage of preference the nonresident bidder would receive against nonresident bidders in his state of residence and inserted language allowing no preference except against a nonresident bidder from any state or country enforcing a preference for resident bidders. Amendment effective February 19, 1991.

1987 Amendment: Substituted existing text (see 1987 Session Law) for former text that read: "(1) In order to provide for an orderly administration of the business of the state of Montana in awarding contracts for materials, supplies, equipment, construction, repair, and public works of all kinds, it shall be the duty of each board, commission, officer, or individual charged by law with the responsibility for the execution of the contract on behalf of the state, board, commission, political subdivision, agency, school district, or a public corporation of the state of Montana to award such contract to the lowest responsible bidder who is a resident of the state of Montana and whose bid is not more than 3% higher than that of the lowest responsible bidder who is a nonresident of this state.

(2) In awarding contracts for purchase of products, materials, supplies, or equipment, such board, commission, officer, or individual shall award the contract to any such resident whose offered materials, supplies, or equipment are manufactured or produced in this state by Montana industry and labor and whose bid is not more than 3% higher than that of the lowest responsible resident bidder whose offered materials, supplies, or equipment are not so manufactured or produced, provided that such products, materials, supplies, and equipment are comparable in quality and performance.

(3) In awarding contracts for construction, repair, and public works of all kinds, bids received from nonresident bidders are subject to the 3% preference, or that percent that applies to a Montana bidder in the award of public contracts in the nonresident bidder's state of residence, whichever is greater.

(4) This requirement shall prevail whether the law requires advertisement for bids or does not require advertisement for bids, and it shall apply to contracts involving funds obtained from the federal government unless expressly prohibited by the laws of the United States or regulations adopted pursuant thereto."

1985 Amendment: Inserted (3) referring to preference percentage of nonresident bidder's state of residence.

Case Notes

Misapplication of State Law Not Basis for Claim of Denial of Equal Protection: ISC argued that its allegations that the Department of Administration had applied the Montana Procurement Act in a discriminatory fashion in not awarding ISC a contract supported its claim that it had been denied equal protection. The Supreme Court held that ISC's claim failed because at most, it amounted to an allegation that state law was misapplied in an individual case and did not constitute invidious discrimination in violation of the equal protection clause. ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

No Property Right Created When Government's Award of Contract Is Discretionary: ISC argued that the Department of Administration had violated its right to due process when the Department did not award ISC a contract that had been put out for bid. The Supreme Court held that a property right that would support a due process claim is not created when a state agency is not required to award a contract on a sufficiently objective basis. ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

Contractor Not Allowed to Submit Bid — Inability to Show Bid Would Have Been Lowest: Petri attempted to submit a hand-carried, written bid to state officials for a painting contract at Montana State University (now Montana State University-Bozeman). Petri arrived at the site of the bid opening several minutes after the announced closing of the time for submitting bids. As a result, the bid was rejected. The Supreme Court held that Petri cannot prove a violation of MSU's statutory duty to accept the lowest bid because he could not prove that the bid would have been the lowest given the fact that it was rejected from consideration by MSU. Petri v. Mont. St. Univ., 260 M 392, 860 P2d 154, 50 St. Rep. 1133 (1993).

Janitorial and Maintenance Services: Although this section provides percentage preference for resident bidders, it also establishes a general policy of requiring competitive bidding, including contracts for janitorial services for Capitol complex, and such contracts must be let by competitive bidding. State ex rel. Great Falls Mr. Klean v. Bd. of Examiners, 153 M 220, 456 P2d 278 (1969).

"Responsible Bidder" Interpreted: The term "responsible bidder" as used in the phrase "lowest responsible bidder" does not refer to pecuniary responsibility only but includes judgment, skill, ability, capacity, and integrity. The officers entrusted with the duty of awarding a contract to the lowest responsible bidder must exercise official discretion in determining the question. They cannot be compelled by mandamus to award a contract to a particular bidder merely because he has offered the lowest bid or tendered a sufficient bond. State ex rel. Eaves v. Rickards, 16 M 145, 40 P 216 (1895).

Attorney General's Opinions

Acquisition of Resident Status for Preference Purposes: A joint venture may qualify for resident status as a partnership enterprise for purposes of the preference under this section, but 18-1-103 requires that a majority of the venture's partners must have been Montana residents for at least 1 year immediately prior to the involved bidding in order to acquire resident status. (See 2001 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 107 (1988).

Restriction of Competitive Bidding Process by Resident Bidder's Preference Prohibited: Both the federal circular A-102 (1981), incorporated into the regulations of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and subsection (2)(b) of this section prohibit restriction of the competitive bidding process by resident bidder's preference for state and local contracts funded in part by grants-in-aid from that agency. 42 A.G. Op. 35 (1987), partially overruling 37 A.G. Op. 59 (1977).

Preference for Resident Bidder Construed: When a bid letting involves a resident using out-of-state materials, a resident using in-state materials, and a nonresident as the three lowest bidders, the resident bidder preference would not require awarding the bid to the resident using in-state materials if his bid was more than 3% higher than the lowest responsible nonresident bidder. (See 1991 and 2001 amendments.) 40 A.G. Op. 79 (1984).

Preference for Resident Contractors — Federal Funding: A county water and sewer district is required to apply a 3% preference to the lowest responsible resident bidder with respect to the entire contract cost regardless of the source of funds. (See 2001 amendment.) 37 A.G. Op. 59 (1977).

Service Contracts: Contracts for the preparation and service of meals need not be awarded by competitive bidding. 29 A.G. Op. 49 (1962).

18-1-103. Resident defined.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 181 in (1) near beginning after "18-1-102" deleted "18-1-111"; in (2) near beginning inserted "limited liability company"; deleted former (4) that read: "(4) Notwithstanding the foregoing, any bidder on a contract for the purchase of goods, whether an individual, partnership, or corporation, foreign or domestic and regardless of ownership thereof, whose offered goods are Montana-made is a resident for the purpose of 18-1-102, 18-1-111, and this section"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Applicability: Section 28, Ch. 181, L. 2001, provided: "[This act] applies to contracts for which the contracting government entity begins the contracting process after October 1, 2001."

1997 Amendment: Chapter 42 in (1) and (4) substituted "18-1-111, and this section" for "18-1-103, and 18-1-111"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 12, 1997.

1987 Amendments: Chapter 284 in (1) and (4) inserted reference to 18-1-111.

Chapter 370 in (1) and (4) deleted reference to 18-1-112.

Chapter 512 in (4), after "purchase of", substituted "goods" for "products, materials, supplies, or equipment", after "offered" substituted "goods" for "materials, supplies, or equipment", and in middle of sentence substituted "Montana-made is" for "manufactured or produced in this state by industry located in Montana and Montana labor shall be deemed to be".

Attorney General's Opinions

Acquisition of Resident Status for Preference Purposes: A joint venture may qualify for resident status as a partnership enterprise for purposes of the preference under 18-1-102, but this section requires that a majority of the venture's partners must have been Montana residents for at least 1 year immediately prior to the involved bidding in order to acquire resident status. (See 2001 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 107 (1988).

18-1-106. Department of labor and industry to determine residency of selected contractors — applications for redetermination — determination as prima facie evidence.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 483 throughout section substituted references to department of labor and industry for references to department of commerce; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 558 in (1), after "certain contractors", deleted "issued public contractor's licenses under the provisions of Title 37, chapter 71"; in (2), in two places, and in (3), before "public contractor", deleted "licensed"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 26, 1995.

1985 Amendment: In three places substituted "department of commerce" for "department of revenue"; and in first sentence substituted "Title 37, chapter 71" for "Title 15, chapter 50".

Case Notes

Challenge of Issuance of Certificate: Under 18-1-104 (repealed and replaced by this section), a resident contractor had standing to challenge, by original application for a Writ of Mandate, the validity of the residency certificate issued by Department of Revenue (now Department of Labor and Industry) to a nonresident contractor. Since the resident was not a party to or given notice of administrative proceedings awarding the certificate of residency, he had no administrative remedies to exhaust. State ex rel. Sletten Constr. Co. v. Great Falls, 163 M 307, 516 P2d 1149 (1973), distinguished in ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

Insufficient Affidavit: Under 18-1-104 (repealed and replaced by this section), a foreign corporation which stated that it would use Montana products and materials "insofar as they are available" and that it would use Montana labor "except for selected supervisory personnel" did not qualify for certification as a resident contractor. State ex rel. Sletten Constr. Co. v. Great Falls, 163 M 307, 516 P2d 1149 (1973).

18-1-110. Hiring preference for residents of Indian reservations for state construction projects within reservation — rules.

Compiler's Comments

1991 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 506, L. 1991, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 2] [2-18-111 and 18-1-110] direct the commissioner of labor and industry to adopt rules to implement [sections 1 and 2] [2-18-111 and 18-1-110]. It is the intent of the legislature that the rules also be designed to assist the commissioner of labor and industry to enforce the provisions of [sections 1 and 2] [2-18-111 and 18-1-110] and to investigate complaints of any violations of law, as provided in [sections 1 and 2] [2-18-111 and 18-1-110]."

Applicability: Section 7, Ch. 506, L. 1991, provided: "[This act] applies to hiring for vacancies in state agency or state construction project positions within an Indian reservation that occur after [the effective date of this act] [effective October 1, 1991]."

Case Notes

Conditions of Tribal Affiliation Applicable to Indian Hiring Preference — Status of Individual Indian Not Controlling: Schmasow claimed that the Native American Center (NAC) should have hired her as executive director pursuant to an Indian employment preference provision, 25 U.S.C. 450e(b), that was contained in the NAC's contract with the Indian Health Service. The NAC instead hired Shield, another Indian, but Schmasow contended that Shield did not qualify for the employment preference because he was a member of the Little Shell Chippewa Tribe, which is not a federally recognized tribe listed by the U.S. Secretary of the Interior under 25 U.S.C. 479a-1. The District Court concluded that Shield was eligible for the preference, and Schmasow appealed. In affirming the District Court, the Supreme Court held that in order to satisfy the definitions of Indian and Indian tribe in the preference law, one must establish that the hired person's tribe is itself eligible for the health care benefits and that the status of an individual Indian is not controlling. The Little Shell Chippewa Tribe fits the definition of Indian tribe because it is part of an Indian community that receives federal Indian funding for special programs and services, even though it is not a federally recognized tribe. Because Shield was an enrolled member of the Little Shell Chippewa Tribe, he satisfied the definition of Indian and was eligible for the hiring preference. Schmasow v. Native Am. Center, 1999 MT 49, 293 M 382, 978 P2d 304, 56 St. Rep. 198 (1999).

18-1-111. Impartiality to be shown in letting contracts.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 181 near middle inserted "not provided for by law" and at end deleted "and shall be absolutely fair and impartial. Where both the bids and quality of goods offered are the same, preference shall be given to articles of local and domestic production and manufacture, and where both the bids and the quality of goods offered are the same, preference shall be given to resident bidders as defined in 18-1-103 over nonresident bidders." Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

The legislature intends that the rules should prevent bidders from circumventing the preference provisions by creating business entities specifically to obtain residency status or to gain an award of a public contract for goods after being disqualified for submitting a false affidavit. The rules should also specify the contents of an affidavit to be submitted by a bidder as required under section 6 [18-1-113]."

During this transition, the executive director may authenticate documents as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act]. Appropriate changes on the statewide budgeting and accounting system and the payroll, personnel, and position control system must also be made and authorized as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act].

No Standing to Challenge to Award of Public School Transportation Contract on Statutory Grounds: Plaintiff provided bus service to a school district for about 24 years, but in 2001, the district elected to accept bids for the service. Plaintiff submitted the lowest bid, but the district decided to reject the bid on grounds that plaintiff was not a responsible bidder. The contract was awarded to another bidder, and plaintiff challenged the contract on statutory grounds, claiming that the district violated 20-9-204, 20-10-125, and this section. The Supreme Court declined to address any statutory violations because plaintiff lacked standing to bring the complaint under the criteria in Debcon, Inc. v. Glasgow, 2001 MT 124, 305 M 391, 28 P3d 478 (2001). Hickey v. Baker School District No. 12, 2002 MT 322, 313 M 162, 60 P3d 966 (2002), distinguishing State ex rel. Sletten Constr. Co. v. Great Falls, 163 M 307, 516 P2d 1149 (1973), and E.H. Oftedal & Sons, Inc. v. St., 2002 MT 1, 308 M 50, 40 P3d 349 (2002).

Competitive Bidding — Contract Formed by Execution of Written Instrument, Not by Award of Project — No Requirement That State Be Notified of Bidding Error Prior to Award of Project: After E.H. Oftedal and Sons, Inc. (Oftedal), submitted a bid on a highway project, but before the actual contract was signed, Oftedal notified the state that $789,000 in errors had been discovered. Oftedal requested that the bid be withdrawn or that the contract amount be adjusted upward, but the requests were denied. Oftedal appealed, but the District Court held that Oftedal did not give timely notice of the mistakes prior to the acceptance of the bid, so equitable relief was unavailable under 28-2-1611. The Supreme Court disagreed and reversed. As a matter of law, no contract for performance of the highway project was formed by the award of the project, prior to execution of the written contract, so there could be no requirement that the state have knowledge of Oftedal's unilateral mistake prior to the award of the project. No notice of the mistake was necessary at that time to obtain equitable relief under 28-2-1611. E.H. Oftedal & Sons, Inc. v. St., 2002 MT 1, 308 M 50, 40 P3d 349 (2002), distinguishing Baker v. St., 218 M 235, 707 P2d 20 (1985).

Equitable Relief Available to Correct Inadvertent Bidding Errors in Revising Highway Construction Project: Contractor E.H. Oftedal and Sons, Inc. (Oftedal), submitted a bid on a Montana highway project. Because Oftedal's was the lowest bid, the state awarded the contract to Oftedal, but upon later investigation, Oftedal determined that the bid contained several errors amounting to $789,000, and requested that the bid be withdrawn. The request was denied, so Oftedal requested an upward revision of the bid to reflect the mistakes. Even if the contract amount was revised upward to reflect the errors, Oftedal's bid would still have been lowest. Although the state recognized that Oftedal had made an unintended mistake, the request for upward revision was also denied, in part because the Federal Highway Administration would not allow any federal money to be used to cover any state cost over Oftedal's original bid. To avoid losing its substantial bid bond, Oftedal signed the contract under protest for the original amount and petitioned the District Court for equitable relief under 28-2-1611 through an upward revision of the contract sum. The District Court denied relief and granted summary judgment to the state. Oftedal appealed to the Supreme Court, seeking an upward revision to reflect the amount of the error and an order for specific performance of the revised contract. The Supreme Court found that equitable relief was appropriate because of mistake, and remanded to the District Court with instructions to reform the contract to reflect the true intentions of the parties. The mistakes in this case were inadvertent, and even though some negligence might have been inherent in the mistakes, they could not be said to preclude equitable relief when viewed in light of the parties' agreed assessment of the nature of the errors. Negligence of the party creating the mistake is not necessarily a bar to judicial reformation of a contract. Under 28-2-1612, for the purpose of revising a contract, a court must presume that all parties intended to make an equitable and conscientious agreement, and it could not be presumed that either party intended Oftedal to incur the hardship of supplying $789,000 of work and material to the state without compensation. E.H. Oftedal & Sons, Inc. v. St., 2002 MT 1, 308 M 50, 40 P3d 349 (2002).

Public Contracts Subject to Fundamental Contract Analysis — Public Bidding and Contract Modification Statutes Not Inherently Inconsistent: Public contracts are not necessarily exempt from fundamental contract analysis because competitive bidding statutes were established for the benefit of the public rather than to establish the rights of bidders. Nothing in the competitive bidding statutes places public contracts out of reach of remedies at law or the equitable relief provided under 28-2-1611 if a party is otherwise qualified for relief under the terms of the statute. Further, public bidding statutes and contract modification statutes are not inherently inconsistent, so 28-2-1611 may be applied to public contracts. E.H. Oftedal & Sons, Inc. v. St., 2002 MT 1, 308 M 50, 40 P3d 349 (2002).

Waiver of State Immunity — Applies Only to Express Contracts: Although 18-1-404 appears to provide a specific waiver of the state's immunity as to all contract actions, express or implied, the section is ambiguous when read and construed in conjunction with other provisions in part 4, specifically this section which expressly grants District Courts jurisdiction over only express contract actions. Legislative history demonstrates that the Legislature intended to waive only the state's immunity as to express contracts. Section 18-1-404 does not subject the state to liability on implied contracts. Peretti v. St., 238 M 239, 777 P2d 329, 46 St. Rep. 1235 (1989).

Defamation and Tortious Interference Claims Rooted in Tort Despite Employment Relationship — Statute of Limitations Governing State Contracts Did Not Apply: A university soccer coach was dismissed after an investigation involving his university-issued cell phone revealed text and telephone communications that were allegedly with agents of an escort service. The dismissal was covered by local and national news outlets, and some articles included information from the coach's personnel file and cell phone. The coach sued the university, alleging violation of his right of privacy, defamation, and breach of contract in his initial complaint and substituting claims for tortious interference, negligence, and invasion of privacy in an amended complaint. The District Court found that the 1-year statute of limitations in 18-1-402 applied because the coach's claims all sounded in contract, and so the complaint was untimely filed. On appeal, the Supreme Court found that the coach's right of privacy, invasion of privacy, and negligence claims all arose out of his contract-based employment relationship with the university and thus were contractual claims subject to the 1-year statute of limitations. However, it found that his claims for defamation and tortious interference were tort-based. It found that the university's duty to not commit the acts alleged by the coach arose independently from its employment relationship with the coach and would have existed even in the absence of such a contractual relationship. Because those claims sounded in tort, the longer statute of limitations in 27-2-204 applied and those claims were not barred. Plakorus v. Univ. of Mont., 2020 MT 312, 402 Mont. 263, 477 P.3d 311.

Implied Warranty — Plans and Specifications: A contractor can rely on plans and specifications and need not verify them. The owner warrants and is responsible for the accuracy of the descriptions in the plans and specifications of the contract. The contract impliedly warrants that the plans are suitable and accurate. The implied warranty is as much a part of the contract as the express terms and is subject to the statute of limitations pertaining to the contract. Lutey Constr. v. St., 257 M 387, 851 P2d 1037, 50 St. Rep. 321 (1993).

Commencement of Period of Limitations: A claim or dispute arises at the time the state submits a final estimate to the contractor for his approval or rejection. Zook Bros. Constr. Co. v. St., 171 M 64, 556 P2d 911 (1976), followed in Lutey Constr. v. St., 257 M 387, 851 P2d 1037, 50 St. Rep. 321 (1993).

Estoppel: The state led the contractor to believe that his claim would receive timely attention and would be reviewed by the state pending an administrative decision on its merits. The contractor relied on the assurances, and the state is therefore foreclosed from raising a Statute of Limitations defense. Zook Bros. Constr. Co. v. St., 171 M 64, 556 P2d 911 (1976), followed in Lutey Constr. v. St., 257 M 387, 851 P2d 1037, 50 St. Rep. 321 (1993).

Attorney General's Opinions

Application of One-Year Statute of Limitations in Contract Actions Against the State: Three separate periods of limitation apply to disputes arising from express contracts with state agencies. (1) A contractor who fails to submit his claim to an agency having an administrative procedure for resolving contract disputes within the time limits prescribed in the contract or, if no time is specified, within 90 days after the dispute arises, is barred from thereafter submitting his claim to the agency or litigating the question in District Court. (2) A contractor who timely submits his dispute to an agency having an administrative procedure but who fails to bring an action in District Court within 1 year after a final adverse decision by the agency is barred from litigating his claim in District Court. (3) In cases where no settlement procedure is provided by a contracting agency, a 1-year Statute of Limitations, commencing at the time the cause of action arises, applies. 37 A.G. Op. 40 (1977).

Contract Forum Selection Clauses Void: A Montana distributor sued an out-of-state manufacturer in Montana court for tort and contract claims arising from their agreement which provided that Minnesota would be the sole forum for such disputes. The District Court denied defendant's motion to dismiss. Claim Against the State — Employee Health Benefits Plan — Interest Calculated From Time of Court Decision Declaring Provision Unenforceable: The plaintiff's right to recover prejudgment interest did not vest until the Supreme Court's decision in Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Mont. v. Mont. St. Auditor & Comm'r of Ins., 2009 MT 318, 352 Mont. 423, 218 P.3d 475 (BCBS), which held for the first time that the state employee health benefits plan's coordination of benefits provision violated Montana's made-whole laws. The coordination of benefits provision at issue was enforceable under Montana law until the BCBS decision. Thus, the particular day on which the plaintiff's right to recover vested was 30 days after the Supreme Court's remittitur in BCBS. Diaz v. St., 2016 MT 270, 385 Mont. 220, 383 P.3d 206.

No State Prosecutorial Immunity for Actions of County Attorney: McDaniel was sentenced to 20 years for burglary, with the sentence suspended subject to several conditions. About 4 months after sentencing, McDaniel tested positive for drugs, and the probation officer elected to initiate an intervention hearing, where an agreement was entered into in lieu of a formal violation being filed. Upon learning of the intervention hearing, the County Attorney filed a petition to revoke McDaniel's suspended sentence based on McDaniel's drug use. McDaniel moved to dismiss on grounds that in filing the revocation petition, the state breached the agreement. The District Court granted McDaniel's motions, and the revocation petition was dismissed. McDaniel subsequently filed an action against the state for damages, claiming that the state breached the written agreement and deprived McDaniel of property in violation of due process. The state asserted that because the County Attorney was acting within the scope of his duties as an agent of the state when filing the revocation petition, the state was entitled to prosecutorial immunity. The District Court agreed and granted the state's motion for summary judgment. On appeal, the state contended that prosecutorial immunity should be extended to include county and state governments employing prosecutors who are named as defendants in tort actions. However, for the state to extend the County Attorney's immunity to itself, the state must establish that the County Attorney could raise prosecutorial immunity as a defense if the claims were brought against the County Attorney rather than the state. Here, the County Attorney was not a party to the intervention agreement, so there was no factual or legal basis for McDaniel to bring a contract-based claim against the County Attorney, and absent a basis for the prosecutor to assert prosecutorial immunity, there was no basis for the state to extend immunity to itself. The Legislature intended to waive state immunity as to express contracts, so it was incongruous for the state to assert immunity as a defense to the alleged contract violation. The Supreme Court reversed. McDaniel v. St., 2009 MT 159, 350 M 422, 208 P3d 817 (2009).

Moratory Interest on Borrowed Funds Not Recoverable: Relying upon the accuracy of plans supplied by the state, Martel Construction (Martel) contracted with the state to construct a new highway bridge to replace one originally built in 1936. In preparing its plans, the state had relied on plans used to construct the 1936 bridge, incorrectly believing that those plans represented the elevation and dimensions needed for the new bridge. As a result of this error, Martel was required to perform extra work not contemplated under the contract. The District Court awarded Martel damages for the actual construction costs for the extra work performed and damages for "moratory interest" or the interest paid on funds borrowed to finance the extra work. The Supreme Court reversed the portion of the ruling allowing recovery of "moratory interest", holding that the state is not liable for prejudgment or postjudgment interest unless the interest is part of actual damages resulting from the state's breach of contract. Martel Constr., Inc. v. St., 249 M 507, 817 P2d 677, 48 St. Rep. 812 (1991).

Waiver of State Immunity — Applies Only to Express Contracts: Although this section appears to provide a specific waiver of the state's immunity as to all contract actions, express or implied, the section is ambiguous when read and construed in conjunction with other provisions in part 4, specifically 18-1-401 that expressly grants District Courts jurisdiction over only express contract actions. Legislative history demonstrates that the Legislature intended to waive only the state's immunity as to express contracts. This section does not subject the state to liability on implied contracts. Peretti v. St., 238 M 239, 777 P2d 329, 46 St. Rep. 1235 (1989).

Findings of Court in Error — No Waiver of Indemnity Reimbursement From State: Appellant contracted with the state to build a segment of highway. Respondent subcontracted with appellant to do certain concrete work on bridges. The state designed cuts through a mountainous area that were too steep and had to be redone for stability. This delayed the project and the availability of concrete, increasing costs of construction. Appellant entered a supplemental agreement with the state that purported to waive claims for extra costs. The Supreme Court reversed the lower court finding that this provision precluded appellant from indemnity reimbursement from the state for extra money paid to respondent because of the delay. Under the waiver provision, the contractor could still claim expenses from conditions not within the knowledge of the parties at execution of the agreement. Unavailability of concrete because of delay was such a condition. The court noted that the judgment against the state was subject to 18-1-404. E.F. Matelich Constr. Co. v. Goodfellow Bros., Inc., 217 M 29, 702 P2d 967, 42 St. Rep. 1004 (1985).

Constitutionality of Limitation of Interest: In an action in which the plaintiff was awarded damages for the unilateral and unlawful termination of a lease of certain communications equipment by the state, the trial court did not err in holding the limitation of interest on judgments in contract actions constitutional. The transcripts of the Constitutional Convention debates show that the purpose of the delegates in adopting Art. II, sec. 18, was to limit nonimmunity to torts committed by the state. Leaseamerica Corp. of Wis. v. St., 191 M 462, 625 P2d 68, 38 St. Rep. 398 (1981).

Contractual Liability for Attorney Fees — Fees Not "Costs" Absent Bad Faith: Where the State executed a 6-year lease of certain communications equipment with the plaintiff in a lease providing that the State would pay the lessor for "legal expenses" incurred as a result of any default by the State and unilaterally terminated the lease 3 years later, the trial court did not err in holding the State liable for attorney fees under the indemnity provisions in the lease. A reading of the applicable statutes indicates that liability for attorney fees can arise from contract but cannot be awarded as "costs" absent bad faith on the State's part. Leaseamerica Corp. of Wis. v. St., 191 M 462, 625 P2d 68, 38 St. Rep. 398 (1981).

Exclusive Jurisdiction in District Court: Appellees were students enrolled in a 2-year aviation technology program at the Missoula Technical Center, a vocational-technical center operated by the state. Because of budget cutbacks, the program was terminated after the first year. The students sued for damages in federal District Court, alleging that the termination of the program violated their rights of equal protection and due process. The District Court held the state had contracted with the students to provide 2 years of instruction and that termination constituted a breach of that contract. The court then ruled that the breach violated the students' due process rights. The U.S. Court of Appeals reversed, saying that the 11th amendment to the United States Constitution explicitly withholds from the U.S. courts jurisdiction over suits brought against a state by citizens of another state or another country. Also, the 11th amendment has always been interpreted to provide that an unconsenting state is immune from suits brought in federal courts by her own citizens, unless the state waives such immunity. Article 2, sec. 18, Mont. Const., waives state immunity from suit. The U.S. Court of Appeals held that in order to waive immunity from suit in federal courts, Art. II, sec. 18, Mont. Const., would expressly have to extend to federal suits, which it does not. The District Court had concluded that alternate jurisdiction could lie under 18-1-404, but that provision holding the state liable on contracts grants Montana state District Courts exclusive jurisdiction over such contract disputes. St. v. Peretti, 661 F2d 756 (9th Cir. 1981).

No Sovereign Immunity in Contract Actions: An action arising out of a contract is an action for injury to property; therefore the state, counties, towns, and all other local governmental entities have no sovereign immunity in contract actions. Peretti v. St. Bd. of Education, 464 F. Supp. 784 (D.C. Mont. 1979).

Contract Action Against State: In a contract action against the state, the same rules of construction apply as in contract actions between private parties. Sornsin Constr. Co. v. St., 180 M 248, 590 P2d 125 (1978).

Failure of Corporation to Possess Articles of Incorporation: The failure of a corporation to possess articles of incorporation until 21 days after the execution of the contract with the state does not constitute an illegal purpose which would void the agreement from its inception. On the contrary, this defect rendered the contract voidable at the state's option. Mont. Ass'n of Underwriters v. Dept. of Administration, 172 M 211, 563 P2d 577 (1977).

CHAPTER 2
CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Exemption of Certain Projects — Conditions — Termination: Section 4, Ch. 303, L. 1999, provided: "(1) If the nondenominational chapel project at Montana tech of the university of Montana is authorized in House Bill No. 5, then the design of this project is not subject to the requirements of 18-2-112 or Title 18, chapter 8, part 2.

(2) (a) It is the intent of the legislature, with regard to the classroom-laboratory building authorized in section 4, Chapter 469, Laws of 1997, that the department of administration contract as provided in this subsection (2). The department shall contract for combinations of services, materials, and labor related to innovative building technologies, not otherwise expressly allowed under Title 18, if the innovative technologies:

(i) have the potential to produce energy or operational savings for the state over the life cycle of the building;

(ii) demonstrate the use of recycled material; or

(iii) demonstrate the use of indigenous material for which a new local, regional, or national market may be developed.

(b) The conditions in subsection (2)(a) must specifically apply to individual building systems or components and not to the general contract for construction or for any project service, including design. The terms, guaranties, and conditions related to the innovations must be negotiated by the department in the best interests of the state and must provide that there is no express or implied commitment of state appropriations for construction, operations, or maintenance." Section 6, Ch. 303, L. 1999, provided that sec. 4, Ch. 303, L. 1999, terminates June 30, 2003.

Authorizing Inmate Labor for Construction of Prison Projects — 1989 Capital Projects Bill: Section 22, House Bill No. 777, L. 1989, provided: "For the purposes of constructing a 96-man housing unit authorized in [section 6]; the ranch housing units and the irrigation system at Montana state prison authorized in [section 7]; and the inspection, study, and renovation of dams at Montana state prison authorized in [section 10(2)]; the department of institutions [now department of corrections] may use inmate labor to construct the projects and is exempt, for the purposes of completing these projects, from the provisions of 53-1-301(1)(g). The department of administration may exempt these projects from any provisions of Montana law relating to public bidding, bonding, workers' compensation coverage, or labor and wage requirements." House Bill No. 777 was successfully challenged in the First Judicial District Court in Cause No. ADV-89-914. The District Court held that the title of the bill did not contain any reference to the substantive change the bill created in state law requirements for competitive bidding and that such a substantive change did not belong in an appropriation bill. A special session of the Legislature was called on May 21, 1990, and House Bill No. 1 was passed allowing for the use of convict labor and exempting the project from competitive bidding requirements.

Chapter Case Notes

Architect Liable for Inadequate Specifications: There was sufficient evidence presented to the District Court to support its findings that the architect's water system specifications for a new school building were inadequate. A contractor is not responsible for errors or defects in the plans and is not liable, absent negligence on his part, when the owner's plans and specifications prove defective. Ace Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. School District, 204 M 81, 662 P2d 1327, 40 St. Rep. 678 (1983).

Effect of Unanticipated Condition on Contractor's Obligation: Even though a contract incorporates by reference federal, state, or local laws, a contractor is not required to alter construction plans to comply with health standards when the condition to be alleviated is abnormal, unanticipated, or substantially different from those in the contract plans and drawings. Ace Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. School District, 204 M 81, 662 P2d 1327, 40 St. Rep. 678 (1983).

Contract Made Without License: The District Court erred in concluding that the contract entered into between the parties was illegal and therefore void. Appellant admits that it did not have a public contractor's license as required by statute when it accepted the bid proposal. It admits that it may have violated the law and may be assessed a misdemeanor fine. Nowhere in the statutes is it declared that a contract made without a license is unenforceable or void. Taurman v. Cascade, 192 M 529, 629 P2d 226, 38 St. Rep. 906 (1981).

Part Case Notes

Implied Warranty — Plans and Specifications: A contractor can rely on plans and specifications and need not verify them. The owner warrants and is responsible for the accuracy of the descriptions in the plans and specifications of the contract. The contract impliedly warrants that the plans are suitable and accurate. The implied warranty is as much a part of the contract as the express terms and is subject to the statute of limitations pertaining to the contract. Lutey Constr. v. St., 257 M 387, 851 P2d 1037, 50 St. Rep. 321 (1993).

Daly Mansion Restoration Subject to Public Construction Contracts: The Daly Mansion is a "building" within the definition in this section, and work on the mansion constitutes "construction" under the statute. Amendment effective April 24, 1993.

1985 Amendment: Inserted (2)(d) allowing Department of Military Affairs to authorize construction of certain buildings.

Case Notes

Consent by Appropriation — Effect of Statute Allowing Committee Decision on Location of Legislative Chambers: The directive in 5-17-102 (renumbered 2-17-805) to the Capitol Building and Planning Committee (abolished in 1993) to decide the location of legislative chambers belies the contention that the Legislature consented under this section to relocation of the Senate chambers when the Legislature passed an appropriation for a capitol renovation project. Goodover v. Dept. of Administration, 201 M 92, 651 P2d 1005, 39 St. Rep. 1975 (1982).

Consent to Remodeling: This section's provision for legislative consent to "construction" of a building requires legislative consent to a remodeling project that will cost in excess of $25,000 (see 1993 and 1997 amendments), and the consent may take the form of an appropriation of money or a joint resolution. Goodover v. Dept. of Administration, 201 M 92, 651 P2d 1005, 39 St. Rep. 1975 (1982).

1983 Amendments: Chapter 281, at end of (6), substituted "regulation account in the state special revenue fund" for "revolving account in the revolving fund".

Chapter 491 inserted (2) exempting repair and maintenance projects from approval by Board of Examiners; and in (4), after "alteration" inserted "repair, maintenance,".

Case Notes

Lowest Bidder Working Beyond Contract Time — Other Bidder Without Standing to Protest: Appellant bid $440 more than lowest bidder and protested the bid award because the recipient of contract had not completed another public contract on which he was working beyond contract completion time. The District Court dismissed the action for lack of standing. The Supreme Court affirmed since a contract does not exist prior to the acceptance of bid by an agency, depriving appellant of standing under contract theory. The bidding statutes were not enacted for the benefit of competing bidders, but for the public. The court noted that appellant failed to claim standing as a taxpayer and did not seek judicial review under the Montana Administrative Procedure Act. Baker v. St., 218 M 235, 707 P2d 20, 42 St. Rep. 1546 (1985), distinguished in ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

Mandamus Against Those Determining Qualifications of Public Contract Bidders: The Department of Administration and Board of Examiners, in determining whether bidders for the construction of a public building are qualified and will perform the contract in conformity with the specifications and terms of the solicitation for bids, as required by 18-2-103, are acting in a discretionary manner, and mandamus may not be used to control their discretion. Martel Constr., Inc. v. Bd. of Examiners, 205 M 332, 668 P2d 222, 40 St. Rep. 1340 (1983).

Meeting of Minds — Oral Acknowledgment of Part of Written Contract Bid Specifications: The State's solicitation for bids for construction of building provided that the bid acknowledge receipt of any addenda. The State accepted the bid of a contractor that did not make the acknowledgment in its bid. The evidence that the State phoned the contractor regarding two addenda and contractor stated it knew of them and had begun preparation for fulfilling them was adequate to show that contractor had actual knowledge of the addenda and showed there was a meeting of the minds as to their existence and the requirements for fulfillment of their terms. Martel Constr., Inc. v. Bd. of Examiners, 205 M 332, 668 P2d 222, 40 St. Rep. 1340 (1983).

Public Contract Bid — Submission Binds Bidder: State's solicitation for bids provided that all written addenda would become part of the contract documents, that all bidders would be bound by the addenda, whether or not they were received by the bidder, and that the owner reserved the right to reject all bids and waive any informality or irregularity in any bid. One bid did not acknowledge receipt of certain addenda, though the bidder stated during a phone conversation with the State that he knew of the addenda. The solicitation provisions bound the bidder to full performance of the contract documents, including all addenda, whether received or not, and in submitting its bid the bidder bound itself to the full performance of the contract documents, including the addenda. Martel Constr., Inc. v. Bd. of Examiners, 205 M 332, 668 P2d 222, 40 St. Rep. 1340 (1983).

Waiver of Irregularities in Bids — Materiality of Irregularity: The State has the right to waive immaterial irregularities in bids for public contracts. Deviations in bids not going to the substance of the bid and irregularities not giving one bidder a substantial advantage over other bidders are types of irregularities that can be waived by the State in awarding contracts. The irregularity was immaterial where lowest bidder failed to acknowledge receipt of addenda put out by the State, though the bidder was required to make such acknowledgment. The bidder stated in a phone conversation with the State that it knew of the addenda, that the addenda required work costing about $55,280, and that the spread between that bidder and the next lowest bidder was $174,000. The defect would have been material and could not have been waived if the bid spread had been less than $55,280. Martel Constr., Inc. v. Bd. of Examiners, 205 M 332, 668 P2d 222, 40 St. Rep. 1340 (1983).

Case Notes

Material Supplier Held to Be Subcontractor: Under a contract that defined "work" as including construction labor and all materials and equipment incorporated into the construction project, a firm which merely served as a conduit for materials used by a general contractor was held to be a subcontractor, and a supplier of that firm was held entitled to pursue action on the general contractor's bond. Robintech, Inc. v. White & McNeil Excavating, Inc., 218 M 404, 709 P2d 631, 42 St. Rep. 1690 (1985).

Action Against City: A materialman, the supplier of a contractor who had a public works contract with city, could not hold the city liable for materials and supplies not paid for by contractor but used in performance of contract. C. E. Mitchell & Sons v. Davis, 162 M 221, 511 P2d 316 (1973).

Estoppel of Surety: This section did not prevent a surety on a bond given hereunder from becoming liable by estoppel to a third party who, in reliance on the surety's representations that he would be protected by the bond, paid off unpaid checks of the contractor and advanced money to the contractor for future payments, all in the nature of claims covered by the bond. Bower v. Tebbs, 132 M 146, 314 P2d 731 (1957).

Action on Contract — Change of Venue: An action brought by a merchant against a state highway contractor and his bondsman to recover for supplies furnished the former's subcontractor was held to be one upon a contract between the contractor and the state for the benefit of third persons and to be triable in the county in which the person entitled to payment resided or had his place of business. H. Earl Clack Co. v. Staunton, 100 M 26, 44 P2d 1069 (1935).

18-2-202. Failure to require security — waiver.

Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment: Chapter 130 near middle, after "fails to take", substituted "the security required or authorized by 18-2-201" for "such bond, cash, checks, drafts, money orders, or certificates of deposit as herein required"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 13, 1995.

1987 Amendment: Near middle, after "municipal corporation", substituted "waives or fails" for "shall fail".

1981 Amendment: Inserted ", cash, checks, drafts, money orders, or certificates of deposit" after "such bond" in the middle of the section.

18-2-203. Amount and terms of security.

Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment: Chapter 130 at beginning substituted "security" for "bond" and near middle, after "fix and determine the", substituted "amount of the security and the name of the secured party" for "amount of such bond and to whom such bond shall run"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 13, 1995.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 130 in (1), in first sentence, substituted "security" for "bond" and after "furnished in the" deleted "prosecution of such", in second sentence substituted "right of action on the security" for "right of action on such bond for any sum whatever", and in model notice substituted "security" for "bond", after "name of the principal and" substituted "name of the person providing the security" for "surety or sureties upon such bond", and at end substituted "the security" for "said bond"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 13, 1995.

Case Notes

Action Against City: A materialman, the supplier of a contractor who had a public works contract with city, could not hold the city liable for materials and supplies not paid for by contractor but used in performance of contract. C. E. Mitchell & Sons v. Davis, 162 M 221, 511 P2d 316 (1973).

"Acceptance" — By Whom: The word "acceptance" in this section as used in connection with a state highway contract contemplates a final, complete, and unconditional acceptance. There can be no such acceptance while there is still a dispute as to the amount owing on the contract. It means acceptance by an officer or body, not an engineer. Kirkpatrick v. Douglas, 104 M 212, 65 P2d 1169 (1937).

18-2-205. Effect of dealing with subcontractor.

Action Against City: A materialman, the supplier of a contractor who had a public works contract with city, could not hold the city liable for materials and supplies not paid for by contractor but used in performance of contract. C. E. Mitchell & Sons v. Davis, 162 M 221, 511 P2d 316 (1973).

Federal Court Actions: Title 18, ch. 2, part 2, governs the court remedies in favor of suppliers and materialmen suing for and making recovery upon surety bonds furnished and supplied by general contractors engaged in public works. Those sections are the state law to be applied in federal court. U.S. v. Reliance Ins. Co. of Philadelphia, 227 F. Supp. 939 (D.C. Mont. 1964).

Provender, Materials, or Supplies: Equipment rental comes within the phrase "provender, materials, or supplies" as used in a bond pursuant to this section. Bower v. Tebbs, 132 M 146, 314 P2d 731 (1957).

Action on Contract — Change of Venue: An action brought by a merchant against a state highway contractor and his bondsman to recover for supplies furnished the former's subcontractor was held to be one upon a contract between the contractor and the state for the benefit of third persons and to be triable in the county in which the person entitled to payment resided or had his place of business. 1987 Amendment: In (1), after "first delivery", deleted "of such provender, material, supplies, or provisions" and after "such work" substituted "give a notice of a right of action on the bond" for "deliver or send by certified mail to the contractor a notice in writing stating in substance and effect that"; deleted former (1)(a) and (1)(b) stating content of notice and that bond would be held; inserted (2) detailing notice delivery and content requirements; inserted (3) making prescribed notice exclusive; and made minor changes in phraseology.

Case Notes

Material Supplier Held to Be Subcontractor: Under a contract that defined "work" as including construction labor and all materials and equipment incorporated into the construction project, a firm which merely served as a conduit for materials used by a general contractor was held to be a subcontractor, and a supplier of that firm was held entitled to pursue action on the general contractor's bond. Robintech, Inc. v. White & McNeil Excavating, Inc., 218 M 404, 709 P2d 631, 42 St. Rep. 1690 (1985).

Time for Raising Lack of Notice as Defense: In an action by a materialman against a general contractor for material supplied to the subcontractor, the general contractor could not raise the affirmative defense that statutory notice was not given for the first time upon submitting proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. The materialman alleged that he had complied with all conditions precedent to bringing the suit. The general contractor entered a general denial, and a general denial did not put notice in issue. Treasure St. Indus., Inc. v. Leigland, 151 M 288, 443 P2d 22 (1968).

Waiver of Notice: A materialman brought an action against the general contractor for materials supplied to subcontractor. The general contractor waived the right to notice from materialman where he knew from beginning that the materialman was supplying masonry materials to the subcontractor for the job and consented thereto. Treasure St. Indus., Inc. v. Leigland, 151 M 288, 443 P2d 22 (1968), followed in Robintech, Inc. v. White & McNeil Excavating, Inc., 218 M 404, 709 P2d 631, 42 St. Rep. 1690 (1985).

Defense Not Available to Contractor: Plaintiff brought an action against a highway contractor and his surety to recover for supplies furnished to drivers of trucks of a subcontractor who had not received pay therefor. The defense that the subcontractor deducted the amount owing from the wages of the drivers and that he was the agent of the plaintiff in collecting for the supplies did not alter the liability of the contractor and his surety under their contracts. H. Earl Clack Co. v. Staunton, 105 M 375, 72 P2d 1022 (1937).

Subcontractor Agent of Contractor: This section making the giving of notice a condition precedent to the right to proceed to suit does not deprive one of right to maintain an action instituted on the theory that the subcontractor was the agent of the contractor, without having first given notice. The contractor and his surety were liable for the indebtedness incurred to materialman who furnished supplies to subcontractor as the relationship of principal and agent was established by contracts. H. Earl Clack Co. v. Staunton, 105 M 375, 72 P2d 1022 (1937).

18-2-207. Costs — attorney fees.

Amendment effective March 13, 1995.

Case Notes

Attorney Fees: Under this section the prevailing plaintiff is entitled to recover as compensation for attorneys such sum as the court shall adjudge reasonable for the institution and prosecution of proceedings against surety. Amendment effective March 13, 1995.

Case Notes

Supplier of Subcontractor Not Prohibited From Pursuing Claim Against General Contractor's Bond: Luciano supplied pipe supplies to Petroleum Pipe and Supply Company, a subcontractor for Northwest Pipe and Casing Company. Northwest advanced money to Petroleum, and Luciano supplied pipe to Petroleum in advance of payment for the pipe. Petroleum subsequently went bankrupt, and Luciano made a claim against Northwest's bond for the amount owed by Petroleum for advanced supplies. Northwest argued that the language of the statute prohibited a claim by Luciano. The Supreme Court stated that the statute had to be strictly construed in order to ensure that those persons who should be protected by a contractor's bond were in fact protected. The Supreme Court held that Northwest had only loaned money to Petroleum and that although Petroleum would not have been able to sue on the bond, no money had been lent to Luciano and he was entitled to seek recovery from the general contractor's bond for supplies advanced to Petroleum. Luciano v. NW. Pipe & Casing Co., 264 M 148, 870 P2d 99, 51 St. Rep. 196 (1994).

Part 4
Special Conditions — Standard Prevailing Rate of Wages

Part Compiler's Comments

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to HB 79 (Ch. 139, L. 1981) provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because it grants the Commissioner of Labor and Industry rulemaking authority regarding the preference for Montana labor in public works contracts. This bill intends that the commissioner adopt rules concerning areas such as the use of apprentices, methods of computing standard prevailing wage rates, and geographical areas subject to the rates. The commissioner shall also have the authority to adopt rules as may be needed to ensure that reporting and enforcement measures are complied with."

Part Administrative Rules

Title 24, chapter 17, ARM Prevailing wages for public works projects.

Part Case Notes

Failure to Pay Wage Rates Prescribed in Contract — Employer Liable for Penalties: Contractors appealed from a District Court order, arguing that because wage rates were not adopted in compliance with administrative procedures, inclusion constituted an illegal provision in the contract with which contractors were not required to comply. The Supreme Court held that contractors were legally bound to pay the wage rates agreed to by all parties and contained in a voluntarily executed contract. Lix v. Kenney, 246 M 426, 804 P2d 391, 48 St. Rep. 23 (1991).

Primary Contractor Liable When Subcontractor Defaults: Subcontractor clauses that speak of a continuing obligation to see that the subcontractor abides by the terms and conditions of a collective bargaining agreement established between a primary contractor and union employees, including fringe benefits, if breached by the subcontractor become a legal and enforceable promise to pay on the part of the primary contractor. Sletten Constr. Co. v. Audit Services, Inc., 190 M 123, 619 P2d 177, 37 St. Rep. 1777 (1980).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Application of Wage Rate to Service Contracts: The provisions of the prevailing wage rate law apply to service contracts entered into by the state, counties, municipalities, or school districts. The term "public works contracts" in 18-2-403(2) includes all contracts subject to the requirements of 18-2-403(1). 42 A.G. Op. 60 (1988).

Workfare — Prevailing Wage for Similar Work: Section 53-3-304 (now repealed) requires that all participants in the "workfare" program receive benefits equal to wages paid at the prevailing rate for similar county work. The prevailing wage as determined under the "Little Davis-Bacon Act" is the most frequent or commonly used rate of pay. The prevailing wage is not necessarily the minimum wage. The county may pay the minimum wage only if similar work, as that done under workfare, has generally been performed for the minimum wage or if the county has never had similar work performed. To determine what is similar work, the county should classify work to be performed under the workfare program with other work closely resembling the type currently being done for the county. 40 A.G. Op. 3 (1983).

18-2-401. Definitions.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 2 in definition of standard prevailing rate of wages in (a)(ii) near middle of first sentence and in (b) near middle after "Retirement" inserted "Income"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009. The amendment by Ch. 277 rendered the amendment by Ch. 2 void.

Chapter 277 in definition of contractor near beginning after "any" inserted "individual"; inserted definition of fringe benefits; deleted former definition of heavy and highway construction wage rates that read: ""Heavy and highway construction wage rates" means wage rates, including fringe benefits for health and welfare and pension contributions, that meet the requirements of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and other bona fide programs approved by the United States department of labor and zone pay and travel allowance that are determined and established statewide for heavy and highway construction projects, such as alteration or repair of roads, streets, highways, alleys, runways, trails, parking areas, utility rights-of-way, staging yards located on or off the right-of-way, or new or reopened pits that produce aggregate, asphalt, concrete, or backfill when the pit does not normally sell to the general public"; in definition of standard prevailing rate of wages near end of introductory language after "means" inserted "the rates established as provided in", and substituted (a) through (c) describing standard prevailing rate of wages for building construction services, for heavy construction services and highway construction services, and for nonconstruction services for former (a)(i), (a)(ii), and (b) that read: "(i) the heavy and highway construction wage rates applicable to heavy and highway construction projects; or

(ii) those wages, other than heavy and highway construction wages, including fringe benefits for health and welfare and pension contributions, that meet the requirements of the Employee Retirement Security Act of 1974 and other bona fide programs approved by the United States department of labor and travel allowance that are paid in the district by other contractors for work of a similar character performed in that district by each craft, classification, or type of worker needed to complete a contract under this part. In each district, the standard prevailing rate of wages must be computed by the department based on work performed by electrical contractors who are licensed under Title 37, chapter 68, master plumbers who are licensed under Title 37, chapter 69, part 3, and Montana contractors who are registered under Title 39, chapter 9, and whose work is performed according to commercial building codes. The contractor survey must include information pertaining to the number of skilled craftspersons employed in the employer's peak month of employment and the wages and benefits paid for each craft. In setting the prevailing wages from the survey for each craft, the department shall use the weighted average wage for each craft, except in those cases in which the survey shows that 50% of the craftspersons are receiving the same wage. When the survey shows that 50% of the craftspersons are receiving the same wage, that wage is the prevailing wage for that craft. The work performed must be work of a similar character to the work performed in the district unless the annual survey of construction contractors and the biennial survey of nonconstruction service employers in the district does not generate sufficient data. If the survey produces insufficient data, the rate may be established by the use of other information or methods that the commissioner determines fairly establish the standard prevailing rate of wages. The commissioner shall establish by rule the method or methods by which the standard prevailing rate of wages is determined. The rules must establish a process for determining if there is insufficient data generated by the survey of employers in the district that requires the use of other methods of determining the standard prevailing rate of wages. The rules must identify the amount of data that constitutes insufficient data and require the commissioner of labor to use other methods of determining the standard prevailing rate of wages when insufficient data exists. The alternative methods of determining the prevailing rate of wages must provide for review and the incorporation of data from work of a similar character that is conducted as near as possible to the original district.

(b) When work of a similar character is not being performed in the district, the standard prevailing rate of wages, including fringe benefits for health and welfare and pension contributions, that meets the requirements of the Employee Retirement Security Act of 1974 and other bona fide programs approved by the United States department of labor and the rate of travel allowance must be those rates established by collective bargaining agreements in effect in the district for each craft, classification, or type of worker needed to complete the contract"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 522 inserted definitions of construction services, nonconstruction services, and public works contract; deleted definition of labor that read: ""Labor" means all services in excess of $25,000 performed in construction, maintenance, or remodeling work in a state, county, municipal, school district, or political subdivision project and does not include engineering, superintendence, management, or office or clerical work"; in definition of standard prevailing rate of wages, in (a)(ii) near beginning of second sentence after "wages", substituted "must be computed from" for "is" and at end inserted "unless the survey of employers in the district does not generate sufficient data" and inserted third through seventh sentences regarding use of alternative methods of wage rate determination; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 522, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is desired for this bill because it authorizes the commissioner of labor to adopt rules specifying the method or methods of determining the standard prevailing rate of wages in the absence of sufficient data in a district. It is the intent of the legislature that the commissioner of labor adopt rules establishing a process for determining when there is insufficient data generated by a survey of employers in the district. It is the intent of the legislature that the rules identify an amount of data that constitutes insufficient data under the amendments to 18-2-401. It is the further intent of the legislature that methods for identifying the prevailing wage in the absence of sufficient data in the district provide for review and incorporation of data from work of a similar character that is conducted as near as possible to the district."

Transition for Necessary Prevailing Wage Rates: Section 8, Ch. 522, L. 1997, provided: "(1) The commissioner of labor and industry may adopt temporary standard prevailing wage rates for an occupation or trade for which a standard prevailing wage rate has never been established but that is necessary to implement the provisions of [this act].

(2) The commissioner may temporarily incorporate the federal Davis-Bacon Act wage rates established for Montana as the state heavy and highway construction wage rates to provide uniformity between federal and state standard prevailing wage rates for heavy and highway construction."

Saving Clause: Section 9, Ch. 522, L. 1997, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 10, Ch. 522, L. 1997, was a severability clause.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 609 in (5), (7)(a)(ii), and (7)(b), after "contributions", inserted "that meet(s) the requirements of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and other bona fide programs approved by the United States department of labor"; in two places in (5), in two places in (7)(a)(i), and in (7)(a)(ii), after "heavy", inserted "and"; in (6), after "remodeling", inserted "work" and after "school" substituted "district, or political subdivision project" for "work"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 3, 1993.

Applicability: Section 10, Ch. 609, L. 1993, provided: "[This act] applies to all prevailing wage claims filed with the department of labor and industry on or after July 1, 1993."

1987 Amendment: In (1) inserted "in excess of $25,000", after "construction" deleted "repair, or", and after "maintenance" inserted "or remodeling"; inserted definitions of district, heavy highway construction wage rates, and work of a similar character; in (7)(a) substituted "or "standard prevailing wage"" for "including fringe benefits for health and welfare and pension contributions and travel allowance provisions applicable to the county or locality in which the work is being performed"; inserted (7)(a)(i) referring to heavy highway construction wage rates; in (7)(a)(ii) inserted "other than heavy highway construction wages", in two places substituted "district" for "county or locality", and inserted last sentence concerning weighted average; in (7)(b), in two places, substituted "district" for "county or locality"; and made minor changes in phraseology.

Case Notes

"Heavy or Highway" Construction Construed — "Utility Rights-of-Way" Construed: After receiving complaints about the wages being paid to workers constructing tunnels for heating and electric utilities on the Montana State University-Bozeman campus, the Montana Department of Labor and Industry (DLI) held that the construction projects were "heavy" construction within the meaning of subsection (5) and (7) of this section and that a higher wage should be paid. (Definitions of heavy and highway construction wage rates deleted in 2009 legislation.) The DLI also held that the contracting state agency, the Department of Administration (DA), was liable for back wages. The DA appealed the DLI decision to the District Court, which held that the project was not "heavy" construction because it was not a utility "right-of-way". The Supreme Court held that the District Court erred in applying the definition of "right-of-way" found in 60-1-103 and in holding that a "right-of-way" is only an interest in land. The Supreme Court pointed out that this section sets out a listing of projects that are to be built or constructed. The Supreme Court noted that not only could an interest in land not be "constructed" but that the inclusion of "rights-of-way" in the list of types of projects listed in subsection (5) of this section was not intended by the Legislature, because of the use of the phrase "such as", to be an exclusive list of projects. The Supreme Court therefore held that the tunnels were "utility rights-of-way", that they qualified as "heavy construction" within the meaning of subsection (5) of this section, and that a higher wage should have been paid by the DA. Dept. of Administration v. Ekanger, 284 M 151, 943 P2d 994, 54 St. Rep. 821 (1997).

Little Davis-Bacon Act — No Unconstitutional Delegation by Legislature: Appellant contended that 18-2-401(7)(b) is an unconstitutional delegation of authority from the Legislature to private parties for determination of the prevailing wage rate. The court held that such provision was not applicable to the facts of the case. The case is governed by 18-2-401(7)(a). Montana's Little Davis-Bacon Act authorizes the Commissioner of Labor to establish standard prevailing rates using union contracts and "other information" as guidelines. Therefore, collective bargaining agreements are advisory, but not compulsory, where there is other evidence of prevailing wage rates in the community as there was in the Bozeman area. No unconstitutional delegation of authority has occurred in 18-2-401(7)(a). Hunter v. Bozeman, 216 M 251, 700 P2d 184, 42 St. Rep. 784 (1985).

Commissioner to Determine Standard Prevailing Rate of Wages: Plaintiff was awarded the mechanical subcontract on a research laboratory being constructed by the State. The State received a complaint that plaintiff was not paying the "standard prevailing rate" (SPR) of wages. The State investigated and concluded that the complaint was legitimate. Plaintiff commenced a declaratory judgment action, and judgment was entered in his favor. On appeal, the Supreme Court held that the authority to determine the SPR rests exclusively with the Commissioner of Labor and Industry. The District Court was incorrect in allowing the contractor to determine the SPR. The court also held that this was not reversible error since the SPR existed only somewhere in the bureaucracy and plaintiff was unaware of it. Because of this, there was no mutual assent under the contract. Thompkins v. Fuller, 205 M 168, 667 P2d 944, 40 St. Rep. 1192 (1983).

"Work of a Similar Character" Construed: In interpreting the meaning of the "standard prevailing rate" of wages paid by other contractors for "work of a similar character", the Supreme Court held that "work of a similar character" refers to projects as a whole and not to individual labor. Thompkins v. Fuller, 205 M 168, 667 P2d 944, 40 St. Rep. 1192 (1983).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 277 in (3) at beginning substituted "wages may be equal to but not greater than the highest applicable rate of wages" for "wage determined to be greater than the applicable rate of wage"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

Lease Between City and Finance Company — Public Works Contract: Pollard Finance, Inc., arranged to have a building built on land owned by the city of Bozeman and leased the building to the city. In an action by the Commissioner of Labor for unpaid wages mandated by 18-2-401, et seq., the court held that the lease agreement constituted a public works contract subject to those provisions. There was substantial credible evidence to support the finding by the trial court that the lease was in fact a sale of the building to the city and that this was in effect a public works project. Case Notes

Public Works Project — No Prevailing Wage Provision — Penalties Upheld: The trial court, having found a new building lease to be a sales contract, and thus a public works contract, properly imposed penalties for the city's failure to include a prevailing wage rate provision in the public works contract. Section 39-3-206 provides that if an employer on a public works project is delinquent, his obligation to pay prevailing wages includes a civil penalty. Section 18-2-403 provides that if a provision for the payment of the prevailing wage rate is not included by the public contracting body in the contract with the contractor, then the obligation to pay the prevailing wage is on the public contracting agency. While this section is silent as to shifting penalties, the Supreme Court found that an interpretation of the statute allowing civil penalties against the contracting agency accords with the underlying purpose of the statute to serve as a deterrent. Hunter v. Bozeman, 216 M 251, 700 P2d 184, 42 St. Rep. 784 (1985).

Prevailing Wage Requirements Applicable to Offsite Construction Work — Project Location Indicative of Appropriate Rate: The 1997 amendments to the prevailing wage requirements in this section extend to any public works contract, without a work situs limitation. A contractor's offsite fabrication of items for onsite installation constitutes construction within the scope of the term "construction services". Therefore, the prevailing wage requirements in subsection (2)(b) of this section apply to fabrication of materials performed offsite by a contractor for installation or use at the site of construction under a public works contract. With respect to offsite services, the prevailing wage district is the district where the onsite construction occurs. 47 A.G. Op. 12 (1998).

Application of Wage Rate to Service Contracts: The provisions of the prevailing wage rate law apply to service contracts entered into by the state, counties, municipalities, or school districts. The term "public works contracts" in subsection (2) of this section includes all contracts subject to the requirements of 18-2-403(1). 42 A.G. Op. 60 (1988).

Attorney General's Opinions

Prevailing Wage Requirements Applicable to Offsite Construction Work — Project Location Indicative of Appropriate Rate: The 1997 amendments to the prevailing wage requirements in 18-2-403 extend to any public works contract, without a work situs limitation. A contractor's offsite fabrication of items for onsite installation constitutes construction within the scope of the term "construction services". Therefore, the prevailing wage requirements in 18-2-403(2)(b) apply to fabrication of materials performed offsite by a contractor for installation or use at the site of construction under a public works contract. With respect to offsite services, the prevailing wage district is the district where the onsite construction occurs. 47 A.G. Op. 12 (1998).

Compiler's Comments

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 234, L. 1985, provided: "This bill requires a statement of intent because it expressly delegates rulemaking authority to the commissioner of labor and industry.

Title 18, chapter 2, part 4, MCA, the "Little Davis-Bacon Act", requires that a standard prevailing wage be paid for labor on all public works contracts and that Montana labor receive a preference for employment on all public contracts. The commissioner is given the duty to determine the prevailing wage by locality and to otherwise administer part 4. In early 1983 Judge Bennett found in Townsend Electric, Inc. v. Hunter, et al., first judicial district of Montana (no. 47160), that the commissioner's determinations as to prevailing wage did not have the force of law because the legislature had never granted the commissioner express rulemaking authority to implement part 4. This bill is introduced to clarify that the legislature intends, and has so intended since the adoption of the Little Davis-Bacon Act in 1931, that the commissioner of labor and industry set and enforce prevailing wage rates under that act.

The rulemaking authority expressly delegated to the department of labor and industry by this bill authorizes the department to promulgate the prevailing wage rates as "rules" under the Montana Administrative Procedure Act.

The department is authorized to adopt rules each year establishing the various prevailing wage rates and to adopt rules spelling out the procedures and methods used to arrive at those rates. It is the intent of the legislature that in adopting the rules, the commissioner shall consider the following:

(1) collective bargaining agreements;
(2) federal Davis-Bacon Act rates;
(3) federal Service Contract Act rates;
(4) wage information compiled by the department of labor and industry;
(5) wage surveys, as appropriate and as resources permit; and
(6) other pertinent information."

Part 1
General Provisions

Part Case Notes

Right of Plaintiff to Sue for Damages for Negligent or Bad Faith Application of Procurement Act: The District Court dismissed ISC's suit against the Department of Administration for negligent or bad faith application of the Montana Procurement Act on the basis that 18-4-242 was the exclusive remedy for ISC and that the statute did not allow such an action. The Supreme Court held that the general remedies provided a plaintiff suing the state under 18-4-131 (now repealed) were not displaced by 18-4-242 and that therefore ISC was entitled to seek damages for negligent or bad faith application of the Act by the Department. ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

Limitations on State Contracts Inapplicable to Leases: Where the state executed a 6-year lease of certain communications equipment in 1973 and unilaterally terminated the lease in 1977, the trial court did not err in holding that the lease was not subject to the provisions of section 82-1918, R.C.M. 1947 (18-4-102, MCA, now repealed), limiting the terms of certain contracts to 3 years. In determining the intent of the Legislature, the court may look to the context and plain meaning of the statute, the title of certain codified provisions, and the legislative history of the law. These indicia of legislative intent show that the Legislature did not intend section 82-1918, R.C.M. 1947, to apply to the Attorney General's leasing power under 44-2-302. Leaseamerica Corp. of Wis. v. St., 191 M 462, 625 P2d 68, 38 St. Rep. 398 (1981).

Property Included in Purchasing Power: There are variations in the statutes in the descriptions of the articles to be purchased by the state. The court found that it was the intent of the Legislature, in providing for a State Purchasing Agent (now Department of Administration) and defining his duties, to include in those duties the purchase of supplies, materials, services, equipment, tools, and all physical property of every kind required by all offices, departments, boards, commissions, and institutions of the State of Montana. The State Aeronautics Commission (now Department of Transportation) was therefore not authorized to make purchases through its power to contract. Holtz v. Babcock, 143 M 341, 390 P2d 801 (1963).

Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170 (1995), that an unsuccessful bidder on a state contract may sue the state for money damages under Title 18, chapter 4, MCA, commonly known as the Montana Procurement Act; and

WHEREAS, a judgment for damages in a state contract suit brought pursuant to the Montana Procurement Act makes Montana taxpayers pay twice for the same product; and

WHEREAS, in enacting the Montana Procurement Act, the Legislature did not intend to allow disappointed bidders on state contracts to be awarded damages under the Montana Procurement Act, but rather intended that the exclusive remedies of a disappointed bidder be the remedies provided in section 18-4-242, MCA, which do not include the award of money damages to an unsuccessful bidder; and

WHEREAS, the Montana Supreme Court held in Meech v. Hillhaven West, Inc., 238 M 21, 776 P2d 488 (1989), that no fundamental right to a particular cause of action or remedy exists under Montana law and that Article II, section 16, of the Montana Constitution requires only that some remedy be provided for every wrong, and the Supreme Court held in Continental Oil Co. v. Montana Concrete Co., 63 M 223, 207 P 116 (1922), and General Agriculture Corp. v. Moore, 166 M 510, 534 P2d 859 (1975), that the Legislature may repeal a statutory cause of action or remedy during the pendency of a civil action invoking the remedy; and

WHEREAS, according to section 1-2-110, MCA, a statute may be repealed at any time by the Legislature, and persons acting under any statute are considered to be acting in contemplation of the Legislature's power to repeal the statute; and

WHEREAS, it is the intent of the Legislature by enacting [section 23] [retroactive applicability section] to make the reversal of the ISC case apply retroactively, unless a complaint was filed in district court prior to January 1, 1992, as provided in [section 23]."

Severability: Section 22, Ch. 443, L. 1997, was a severability clause. Effective April 30, 1997.

Case Notes

Bid Proposal Evaluation Including Negotiation of Unresolved Issues — Bid Properly Considered Nonresponsive: Reier Broadcasting Co. (RBC) sought to enter a broadcasting contract with Montana State University-Bozeman (MSU) and asserted that MSU violated administrative rules by finding that RBC's proposal was nonresponsive after the evaluation process was completed. The Supreme Court disagreed. The evaluation process concludes when the parties arrive at a contract, not before, so in this case, the evaluation process and the accompanying rules of engagement included negotiations of unresolved issues as well as discussion pursuant to the administrative rules. A state entity must retain the power to find a proposal nonresponsive when a party refuses to conform to a request for proposals (RFP) or substantially alters its proposal. In order to maximize the state's purchasing power, the Montana Procurement Act allows a state agency to ensure full compliance with an RFP up to the point of entering a contract. RBC's interpretation would defeat the intent of the Act and tie the hands of a state entity in a manner not contemplated by the Act. Here, MSU reviewed RBC's proposal based on evaluation criteria and did not restrict responsibility for determining nonresponsiveness or nonresponsibility of a proposal to the evaluation committee, so MSU's determination that RBC's proposal was nonresponsive was affirmed. Award of Contract Under Montana Procurement Act — No Preemption of Other Statutory Requirements: The plaintiff was awarded a state contract to haul goods for the school lunch program. The contract was contingent upon the plaintiff's obtaining a Class C certificate from the Public Service Commission by August 1, 1989. The Commission informed the plaintiff that a public hearing had to be held on issuing the certificate and that the earliest the hearing could be held was August 23, 1989. The plaintiff argued that the policy of the Montana Procurement Act to promote competition preempted 69-12-324, which operates to protect the existing carrier. The Supreme Court ruled that more specific statutes regulating carriers govern over the procurement statutes with respect to carriers. State ex rel. Roberts v. Pub. Ser. Attorney General's Opinions

Procurement Act Inapplicable to Board of Crime Control Grants to Nongovernmental Agencies: Federal law allows states to subgrant certain federal funds to local governments and, in some cases, to nongovernmental agencies within the state. Certain grants made by the Board of Crime Control involve the passthrough of federal funding to local nongovernmental agencies that in turn provide crime control services within their communities to persons or entities that are not agencies of the state. The statutory grant of supervision over procurement contracts does not authorize the Department of Administration to supervise federally funded grants awarded by the Board of Crime Control to nongovernmental agencies. Therefore, the Montana Procurement Act, Title 18, ch. 4, does not apply to grants awarded by the Board of Crime Control to nongovernmental agencies to fund community projects. 52 A.G. Op. 5 (2008).

Health Insurance: Competitive bidding is not required for purchasing health insurance for school district employees. 40 A.G. Op. 37 (1984).

Service Contracts: Contracts for the preparation and service of meals need not be awarded by competitive bidding. (See 1997 amendment.) 29 A.G. Op. 49 (1962).

Case Notes

Purchase Without Bidding: A lease agreement for an airplane with an option to purchase, entered into by the State Aeronautics Commission (now Department of Transportation), constituted a "purchase" within the statute requiring bids. Purchase of the airplane without bidding could have been authorized on the basis of public exigency, where the Governor had just lost his life in a plane crash and the purchase was made to safeguard the life of the new Governor. Holtz v. Babcock, 143 M 341, 390 P2d 801 (1963).

Attorney General's Opinions

Public Exigency — Limitations: A "public exigency" is a situation in which an unforeseen happening or event necessitates immediate action to protect the public interest. In time of a public exigency, the state may obtain articles and services without competitive bidding in the same manner as between individuals bargaining in a free, open market for similar articles and services. The public exigency exemption does not abrogate the prohibitions against personal interests in contracts contained in 2-2-201. 34 A.G. Op. 46 (1972).

Attorney General's Opinions

State Not Prohibited From Expressly Releasing Party or Surety After Transfer, Assignment, or Subcontract: This section prohibits the approval of a transfer or assignment of a contract or the granting of subcontract from acting as an implied release of a party or surety from the party's or surety's obligations. This section does not prohibit the state from expressly releasing a party or surety from the party's or surety's obligations. 45 A.G. Op. 11 (1993).

Case Notes

No Abuse of Discretion in Disallowing Futile Amendment to Pleadings: Reier Broadcasting Co. (Reier) filed a three-count complaint in July 2002, alleging that defendant university had wrongfully failed to award Reier's radio station a contract to broadcast the university's athletic events. The next month, Reier filed an amended complaint as a matter of right, deleting one of the original claims and adding a new claim. The next month, Reier moved to amend the amended complaint to add a new tort claim. Defendant opposed the motion and sought dismissal of the amended complaint for lack of subject matter jurisdiction and failure to state a claim for which relief could be granted. Five months later, Reier filed a second motion to amend the amended complaint, requesting leave to seek a declaratory judgment that this section was unconstitutional and seeking damages. The District Court dismissed the amended complaint and the first motion to amend because the tort claims had not been properly presented as required by the state tort claims act (Title 2, ch. 9, part 3). The court also dismissed the second motion to amend, and Reier appealed on grounds that it was error not to allow the amendment to address the constitutionality of this section. The Supreme Court noted that generally it is an abuse of discretion to refuse amendments to pleadings that are offered at a reasonable time and that would further justice, but also noted that futile amendments need not be permitted. Reier's proposed amendments to add a constitutional challenge were futile because Reier failed to take the steps necessary under 2-9-301 to preserve the tort claims, so dismissal of the second motion to amend was not an abuse of discretion. Reier Broadcasting Co., Inc. v. Mont. St. Univ.-Bozeman, 2005 MT 240, 328 M 471, 121 P3d 549 (2005), distinguishing Debcon, Inc. v. Glasgow, 2001 MT 124, 305 M 391, 28 P3d 478 (2001), and Hickey v. Right of Plaintiff to Sue for Damages for Negligent or Bad Faith Application of Procurement Act: The District Court dismissed ISC's suit against the Department of Administration for negligent or bad faith application of the Montana Procurement Act on the basis that this section was the exclusive remedy for ISC and that the statute did not allow such an action. The Supreme Court held that the general remedies provided a plaintiff suing the state under 18-4-131 (now repealed) were not displaced by this section and that therefore ISC was entitled to seek damages for negligent or bad faith application of the Act by the Department. (See 1997 amendment.) ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

Part 3
Procurement Procedure

Part Administrative Rules

Title 2, chapter 5, ARM State procurement.

Part Case Notes

Misapplication of State Law Not Basis for Claim of Denial of Equal Protection: ISC argued that its allegations that the Department of Administration had applied the Montana Procurement Act in a discriminatory fashion in not awarding ISC a contract supported its claim that it had been denied equal protection. The Supreme Court held that ISC's claim failed because at most, it amounted to an allegation that state law was misapplied in an individual case and did not constitute invidious discrimination in violation of the equal protection clause. ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

No Property Right Created When Government's Award of Contract Is Discretionary: ISC argued that the Department of Administration had violated its right to due process when the Department did not award ISC a contract that had been put out for bid. The Supreme Court held that a property right that would support a due process claim is not created when a state agency is not required to award a contract on a sufficiently objective basis. ISC Distrib., Inc. v. Trevor, 273 M 185, 903 P2d 170, 52 St. Rep. 894 (1995).

Case Notes

Lateness of Bid — Irregularity Not Requiring Waiver by State: Petri attempted to submit a hand-carried, written bid to state officials for a painting contract at Montana State University (now Montana State University-Bozeman). Petri arrived at the site of the bid opening several minutes after the announced closing of the time for submitting bids. At trial in the District Court, Petri submitted evidence showing that the clock in the room where bids were being accepted was several minutes fast according to a confidential U.S. West telephone number for obtaining the correct time. The Supreme Court held that there was no evidence that late bids were an irregularity requiring waiver by state officials. There was evidence that rejection of late bids is the industry-wide practice. The U.S. West time source was not established as more accurate than the clocks in the bid opening room, nor can MSU be held responsible for coordinating its clocks with a source not available to it. Under these circumstances, the District Court did not err in treating the lateness of the bid as a material irregularity. Petri v. Mont. St. Univ., 260 M 392, 860 P2d 154, 50 St. Rep. 1133 (1993).

Immaterial Irregularities in Bid May Be Waived: The defendant accepted the low bid for an airport construction contract. In its bid, the successful bidder listed the same subcontractor as fulfilling the requirement for a minority-owned business and a woman-owned business. Subsequently, it was learned that federal regulations would not allow one subcontractor to meet the requirements for both categories. The defendant allowed the contractor to amend its bid and list a second minority-owned subcontractor. The plaintiff was the second lowest bidder and argued that the low bid should have been rejected for not conforming to the bid requirements. The Supreme Court held that there had been no attempt by the defendant or successful bidder to circumvent minority hiring rules and that the state had the authority to waive immaterial irregularities in any bid offered. Sebena Paving, Inc. v. Gallatin Airport Authority, 245 M 389, 801 P2d 614, 47 St. Rep. 2194 (1990).

The department may provide by rule that it is either not practicable or not advantageous to the state to procure specified types of supplies and services by competitive sealed bidding"; inserted (1) allowing Department to procure supplies and services through competitive sealed proposals; in (4) inserted third sentence allowing proposal documents to be inspected after contract executed; in (5), at end of first sentence, substituted "state the evaluation factors and their relative importance" for "state the relative importance of price and other evaluation factors" and inserted second through fourth sentences establishing to whom award must be made, limiting use of other factors or criteria, and requiring contract file to demonstrate basis of award; in (6) deleted former first two sentences that read: "As provided in the request for proposals and under rules adopted by the department, discussions with responsible offerors who submit apparently responsive proposals may be conducted for the purpose of clarification in order to assure full understanding of and responsiveness to the solicitation requirements. Offerors must be accorded fair and equal treatment with respect to any opportunity for discussion and revision of proposals, and revisions may be permitted, after submissions and prior to award, for the purpose of obtaining best and final offers", inserted first sentence allowing Department to discuss proposal with offeror for clarification or revision, and deleted last sentence that read: "The department may require the submission of cost or pricing data in connection with an award under this section"; and deleted (7) that read: "(7) The award must be made to the responsible offeror whose proposal is determined in writing to be the most advantageous to the state, taking into consideration price, including the preference in 18-1-102, and the evaluation factors set forth in the request for proposals. No other factors or criteria may be used in the evaluation. The contract file must contain the basis on which the award is made."

Bid Proposal Evaluation Including Negotiation of Unresolved Issues — Bid Properly Considered Nonresponsive: Reier Broadcasting Co. (RBC) sought to enter a broadcasting contract with Montana State University-Bozeman (MSU) and asserted that MSU violated administrative rules by finding that RBC's proposal was nonresponsive after the evaluation process was completed. The Supreme Court disagreed. The evaluation process concludes when the parties arrive at a contract, not before, so in this case, the evaluation process and the accompanying rules of engagement included negotiations of unresolved issues as well as discussion pursuant to the administrative rules. A state entity must retain the power to find a proposal nonresponsive when a party refuses to conform to a request for proposals (RFP) or substantially alters its proposal. In order to maximize the state's purchasing power, the Montana Procurement Act allows a state agency to ensure full compliance with an RFP up to the point of entering a contract. RBC's interpretation would defeat the intent of the Act and tie the hands of a state entity in a manner not contemplated by the Act. Here, MSU reviewed RBC's proposal based on evaluation criteria and did not restrict responsibility for determining nonresponsiveness or nonresponsibility of a proposal to the evaluation committee, so MSU's determination that RBC's proposal was nonresponsive was affirmed. In re Contested Hearing of Protest by Reier Broadcasting Co., 2005 MT 347, 330 M 152, 127 P3d 389 (2005).

Economic Advantage Inadequate Reason for Denial of Public Right to Observe Government Deliberations in Corrections Vendor Process: A newspaper company sought to restrain the Department of Corrections from excluding the public from meetings of the committee that reviewed proposals for operating private prison facilities. The District Court held that the public had no right to observe the negotiation phase of the committee's work, but that once negotiations were completed, the process by which the conclusions were arrived at must be open to public observation. Both parties appealed. The Supreme Court noted that as part of an Executive Branch agency, the Department and the committee were considered governmental bodies pursuant to 2-15-104 for purposes of procurement and that under the constitutional right to know, proposals submitted by private vendors were considered documents of a public body or agency that, under 2-6-102 (now repealed, but see 2-6-1003), the public has a right to inspect. Under the two-part test in Missoulian v. Bd. of Regents, 207 M 513, 675 P2d 962 (1984), the only exception to the constitutional provision arises when the demand of individual privacy clearly exceeds the merits of public disclosure. The state contended that the meetings at issue were closed for economic advantage, but economic advantage is neither a privacy interest nor a sufficient reason for denying the public the opportunity to observe deliberations of public bodies or to examine public documents, including proposals submitted to the public body by a vendor, unless the proposal concerns a privacy interest involving legitimate trade secrets or individual safety. A public agency's desire for privacy does not provide an exception to the public's constitutional right to observe its government at work. To the extent that provisions in ARM 2.5.602 or this section require exclusion of the public from the competitive bid process, those provisions are unconstitutional and unenforceable. In any case where the department determines that a private vendor operating a vending facility on state property on October 1, 1981, who but for this part could reasonably be expected to renew his contract for the vending facility, would be subjected to economic hardship should the contract be allowed to expire at the end of its term, the department may agree to a one-time renewal of that vendor's contract for the vending facility for a period not to exceed 4 years."; made section gender neutral; and made minor changes in style. 18-5-414. Authority to adopt rules.

Compiler's Comments

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to HB 67 (Ch. 175, L. 1981) provided: "The current statutory authority providing a preference to blind and handicapped persons in the leasing of vending facilities on state property is not adequate for the purposes of authorizing the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services [now Department of Public Health and Human Services] to administer the federal Randolph-Sheppard Act for either federal or state purposes. The state statutory scheme for providing a preference to blind vendors in the leasing of vending areas in state property is poorly defined and difficult to administer.

This act will provide specific statutory authority in Section 10 [18-5-413] by which the Department may administer the programs it has established for the purposes of the federal Randolph-Sheppard Act. Section 10, subsection 2 authorizes the Department to adopt rules for the purposes of implementing the administration of vending facilities on federal property by the department as authorized in the federal Randolph-Sheppard Act and for administering programs mandated by the federal Randolph-Sheppard Act.

This act provides for a state program administered by the Department which will make available to qualified blind persons vending facilities to be operated by them. This programmatic statutory scheme is a more appropriate mode for providing vocational opportunities to blind persons than was the prior preference system. This scheme will insure that federal and state vocational programs are available to those blind persons who are most qualified to become blind vendors. The preference system did not distinguish as to degree of handicap or economic need. This scheme will also insure continuity in the administering of these vending facilities and related programs. The preference system did not insure that vending facilities would be available to qualified blind persons nor did it encourage the investment of program resources in the training of qualified blind persons and the equipping of vending facilities for operation by them. This act clearly defines what state property is subject to the act. This act also provides that the Department may enter into agreements with private parties and local governments in order to make vending facilities on their properties available to qualified blind vendors. The prior preference system in not defining the property subject to the preference raised serious questions as to its intended scope, nor did the prior preference system allow for the expansion by agreement of the blind vendor program into vending facilities on private property.

The act is intended to provide vocational training and active employment for persons handicapped by blindness or serious visual impairment. Since active employment is an important objective of the legislation, the act limits the department's ability to directly operate or to include in its vocational program such passive operations as maintenance of self-service vending machines, particularly on state property. While the department will be able to derive the revenues from vending machines which are now received by the Department of Administration, it is anticipated that the Department will continue the present practice of the Department of Administration and let contracts for provision of vending machines by competitive bid. The act specifically provides for a gradual phasing in of blind-vendor operated vending facilities in any case where the immediate implementation of the program would cause an economic hardship to the current vendor, who could otherwise expect a renewal of contract. The language is written in discretionary terms in order to permit the Department to respond to situations as they actually exist and to preclude the language being used to provide a new contract to a private vendor whose contract, in the normal course of events, would have been terminated without this act. However, it is intended that the Department employ its discretion in a compassionate manner to avoid inflicting economic hardship on an otherwise satisfactory private vendor. The Department is authorized to charge a fee in lieu of rental to blind vendors on state property whose operations become financially successful. Again, the language is made discretionary so that the Department can deal with the situation as it actually exists in practice. However, the intent of this provision is that the Department charge to the financially successful blind vendor a fee in lieu of rental which will provide the state with some compensation for the use of the space without working a financial hardship on the blind vendor.

The certification of blind persons qualified to be blind vendors provided for in this act is necessary for administration by the Department of the federal Randolph-Sheppard Act on federal properties. This certification will constitute the "licensing" mandated in the federal Randolph-Sheppard Act. This certification will be utilized for the purposes of the state program as well. The administration of the program for federal and state purposes will be therefore more congruent.

This act provides that the Department may administer a health and retirement fund for the blind vendors. This fund as well as the blind vendors' program may be funded by a set-aside from the net income of blind vendors. This set-aside is to be a reasonable percentage which will not affect the financial status of the blind vendors to such a degree as to deny them the intended vocational and economic benefits of the program. The health and retirement fund and the blind vendors' program may be funded as well by the Department from the income the Department may receive from vending facilities which it may operate directly. The health and retirement fund is authorized for the purpose of implementing that aspect of the federal Randolph-Sheppard Act. The applicability of this fund to blind vendors on state property will insure that there will be congruence between the program as administered for federal and state purposes.

This act states the authority of the Department for the purposes of the act and provides the general criteria and procedure for the transfer of the administration of vending facilities on state property to the Department. The prior preference system did not define administrative authority nor did it state what the appropriate criteria and procedure would be.

The act provides the Department with the rulemaking authority necessary for the implementation in a definitive manner of the purposes of this act."

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Interim Study Committee Bill: Chapter 309, L. 1981 (HB 25), was introduced at the request of the Interim Committee on Indian Affairs. See committee report, Legislative Council, 1980.

Preamble: The preamble to Ch. 309, L. 1981 (HB 25), provided: "WHEREAS, it is in the best interest of the State of Montana to establish a legal framework that will enable this state, its political subdivisions, and Indian tribes to achieve maximum harmony and facilitate cooperative efforts in the orderly administration of their respective governments; and

WHEREAS, it is in the best interest of the state of Montana to establish a legal framework for viable agreements between itself and tribal governments located in Montana that are based on mutual consent and mutual benefit; and

WHEREAS, it is in the best interest of the state of Montana to permit public agencies to make the most efficient use of their powers by enabling them to cooperate with tribal governments on a basis of mutual benefit and thereby provide services and facilities in a manner and pursuant to forms of governmental organization that will accord best with geographic, economic, population, and other factors influencing the needs and development of public agencies and local communities."

Chapter Attorney General's Opinions

County Reimbursement by Board of Crime Control for Indian Youth Placed in Regional Detention Facility by Tribal Court: Title 18, ch. 11, the State-Tribal Cooperative Agreements Act, includes broad authority for counties to enter into agreements with tribes for the delivery of services to their citizens. Although tribes have jurisdiction over tribal member youth, those youth remain citizens of Montana as well as citizens of the tribes, and if the tribes do not provide services, such as youth detention facilities, those tribal youth are nevertheless entitled to be offered state services in the same manner as any other Montana youth. The fact that a tribal court adjudicates the youth does not necessarily disqualify the youth from the receipt of state services. In the present case, Blaine County entered into an agreement with the Fort Belknap Tribe to allow detention in the Blaine County youth detention facility of youth determined by the tribal court to be in need of detention, and Blaine County included the tribal youth population in its survey of youth to be served. The youth detention services were appropriately covered in the county's grant application. Thus, when the county applies for reimbursement for each youth served, regardless of whether the youth is a tribal member or not, the Montana Board of Crime Control is required to reimburse the county for detention costs for the youth, including tribal youth served in a regional detention facility pursuant to an order of a tribal court. 49 A.G. Op. 10 (2001).

WHEREAS, clarifying provisions of the State-Tribal Cooperative Agreements Act will also reduce the need for duplicative language, which results in increased costs associated with publication of the Montana Code Annotated; and

WHEREAS, the Supreme Court, in Oklahoma Tax Commission v. Citizen Band Potawatomi Indian Tribe of Oklahoma, 111 S. Ct. 905 (1991), stated, among alternatives, that the state and a tribe may adopt a "mutually satisfactory regime" for collection of a tax but did not mandate that a state collect the tax; and

WHEREAS, in an effort to promote a government-to-government relationship between the State of Montana and Montana Indian Tribes and in recognition that both the state and tribal governments must be trusted to act responsibly, it is appropriate that the party designated to collect taxes on an Indian reservation pursuant to any agreement be subject to negotiation.

THEREFORE, the Legislature of the State of Montana finds it appropriate to amend the State-Tribal Cooperative Agreements Act to specifically include tax assessment and collection or refund and to establish specific requirements for tax assessment and collection or refund by the state, a public agency, or a Montana Indian Tribe."

Attorney General's Opinions

Open Meeting Law Inapplicable to Departmental-Tribal Cooperative Agreement Negotiations: Negotiations between a Department Director and tribal representatives relating to establishment of a cooperative agreement authorized under this section are not subject to Montana's open meeting law. Such discussions do not constitute a "meeting" under 2-3-203 because the Director, when acting alone on behalf of the Department, does not fall within the scope of the term "quorum of the constituent membership" as used in 2-3-203. (See 1993 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 51 (1988).

Agreements — Method for Performance of Child Protection Services: Although none have been reached in Montana, state and tribal agreements provide a method for the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services (now Department of Public Health and Human Services) to perform child protection services that constitute a child custody proceeding under the Indian Child Welfare Act, with respect to an Indian child residing or domiciled on his tribe's reservation. 41 A.G. PUBLIC RETIREMENT SYSTEMS

Title Administrative Rules

Title 2, chapter 43, ARM Public Employees' Retirement Board.

Title Case Notes

Teachers' Pension Postretirement Adjustment Age Classification Violative of Equal Protection Guarantee: The 1989 Legislature enacted 19-4-711 (now repealed), which allowed a postretirement adjustment increase in the pensions of the beneficiaries of the Teachers' Retirement System. The law provided that to be eligible, retirees or their beneficiaries must be 55 years of age or older (see 1997 amendment) or, irrespective of age, must be receiving disability or survivorship benefits. Applying the rational basis test, the District Court declared the law unconstitutional, finding no reason rationally related to a legitimate state purpose to justify granting a postretirement adjustment to the class of beneficiaries under age 55 receiving disability or survivorship benefits, while denying it to another class of beneficiaries under age 55 receiving benefits from retirees. The Supreme Court noted that while nearly all legislation classifies or sets forth classifications of applicability, benefits, and recipients, the fact that some of these classifications are imperfect does not necessarily violate the equal protection clause. However, the court was unable to find any rational relationship to the purpose of the establishment of the classification in 19-20-711 (now repealed), holding that it was wholly arbitrary and an example of the Legislature picking and choosing who will receive benefits without making any distinction between the affected classes. The District Court ruling of unconstitutionality was affirmed. Arneson v. St., 262 M 269, 864 P2d 1245, 50 St. Rep. 1546 (1993).

The amendment to this section made by sec. 1, Ch. 190, L. 2015, was rendered void by sec. 6, Ch. 190, L. 2015, a coordination instruction.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 170, L. 2015, provided: "WHEREAS, employer contributions equal to 2.37% of compensation for covered members in the Public Employees' Retirement System Defined Contribution Retirement Plan (PERS-DCRP) and the Montana University System Retirement Program (MUS-RP) are statutorily allocated to the Public Employees' Retirement System Defined Benefit Retirement Plan (PERS-DBRP) as the plan choice rate; and

WHEREAS, additional employer contributions equal to 0.37% of a member's compensation are also allocated to the plan choice rate and this percentage will increase by 0.1% each year through 2024; and

WHEREAS, the plan choice rate was established to pay the portion of the PERS-DBRP unfunded actuarial liabilities associated with PERS members who elected to join the PERS-DCRP rather than the PERS-DBRP plan and also to pay for any increase to the normal cost of benefits in the PERS-DBRP resulting from PERS members selecting the PERS-DCRP; and

WHEREAS, section 19-3-2121, MCA, requires that the plan choice rate be adjusted if it is actuarially determined to be too high or too low to pay off the associated unfunded actuarial liabilities within an established timeframe and if there is an actual change in the normal cost of benefits in the PERS-DBRP resulting from PERS members selecting the PERS-DCRP; and

WHEREAS, the normal cost of benefits in the PERS-DBRP has never significantly changed because of PERS members selecting the PERS-DCRP; and

WHEREAS, the Public Employees' Retirement Board's actuary determined that as of June 30, 2014, the unfunded actuarial liability associated with the plan choice rate is $5,903,188, and is estimated to be fully paid off within the next 2 to 3 years."

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 272, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis"; and

WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution also requires that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 and 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery has resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for current members of the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to the current system members in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and future employee contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future members alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, increased contributions for current and future members and reduced benefits for future members are necessary to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed a range of alternatives for returning all public employee retirement systems to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, but recent actuarial analysis continues to show that several of the systems, including the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System remain actuarially unsound; and

WHEREAS, due to significant strains on the Montana economy and taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase applied to current Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System members, phased in over a 4-year period, in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is reasonable and necessary pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is funded in an actuarially sound manner; and

WHEREAS, the defined benefit Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is integral to the successful recruitment and retention of qualified Montana highway patrol officers."

Contingent Effective Date: Section 79(4), Ch. 471, L. 1999, provided that the amendments to this section are “effective contingent upon certification, as provided in [section 65] [not codified], that the defined contribution retirement plan is ready to become operational or on July 1, 2002, whichever is earlier”. Section 65 provided in subsection (2) that “The board shall certify to the governor and the secretary of state the date on which the defined contribution retirement plan established pursuant to [sections 42 through 63] [chapter 3, part 21, of this title] is ready to become operational and shall provide a copy of the certification to the code commissioner.” The contingency occurred pursuant to a letter dated May 23, 2002, which certified that the defined contribution retirement plan “is ready to become and will become operational as of July 1, 2002”.

Saving Clause: Section 100, Ch. 562, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 in definition of active member, after “who is”, substituted “a paid” for “an” and after “contributions” substituted “and is properly reported to the division for the most current reporting period” for “to the system based on the member's compensation paid by the employer”; in definition of benefit, after “benefit”, inserted “payment”; in definition of contingent annuitant, after “continuing”, substituted “monthly benefit” for “annuity”; in definition of designated beneficiary, in two places after “member”, inserted “or payment recipient”; in definition of inactive member, after “member who”, substituted “is not an active or retired member” for “has terminated service with an employer and has not withdrawn the member's accumulated contributions from the retirement system”; in definition of pension, after “means”, inserted “benefit”; in definition of retirement, after “service”, substituted “and has received and accepted” for “with” and after “benefit” substituted “from” for “under”; in definition of retirement benefit, in first sentence after “payable”, substituted “as a result of” for “following” and inserted second sentence clarifying that an annuity is not a retirement benefit; in definition of retirement system, near beginning, inserted “or “system””; inserted definition of statutory beneficiary; in definition of survivorship benefit, after “life to the”, inserted “statutory or designated”; inserted definition of termination of employment or termination of service; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: “A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a “retiree” during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 412 throughout section inserted "retirement" before "system"; and inserted definition of essential elements of the position. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Severability: Section 28, Ch. 412, L. 1995, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 29(2), Ch. 412, L. 1995, provided that this section applies retroactively to initial disability determinations and reviews of ongoing disability status on and after January 1, 1994.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in introduction inserted reference to retirement systems; inserted definitions of active member, actuarial cost, actuarial liabilities, contingent annuitant, department, designated beneficiary, Division, inactive member, normal cost or future normal cost, pension trust fund, regular contributions, supplemental cost, unfunded actuarial liabilities or unfunded liabilities, and vested member or vested; substituted definition of accumulated contributions for former definition that read: ""Accumulated contributions" means the sum of all the contributions standing to the credit of a member's individual account, together with the regular interest thereon"; substituted definition of additional contributions for former definition that read: ""Additional contributions" means contributions by members under the provisions of 19-3-702"; substituted definition of annuity for former definition that read: ""Annuity" means payments for life derived from contributions made by a member as provided in this chapter"; deleted definition of beneficiary that read: ""Beneficiary" means the person so designated pursuant to part 13 of this chapter"; substituted definition of benefit for former definition that read: ""Benefit" means the retirement allowance, survivorship allowance, death benefit, or refund of accumulated contributions provided by this chapter"; deleted definition of compensation that read: ""Compensation" means remuneration paid out of funds controlled by an employer. The compensation of each member of the legislature of Montana for any year shall be considered to be that portion of the product of the daily compensation for such position multiplied by 360 upon which such member elects to pay normal contributions during the year"; deleted definition of contracting employer that read: ""Contracting employer" means any political subdivision or governmental entity which has contracted to come into the system"; substituted definition of credited service or service credit for former definition of creditable service that read: ""Creditable service" means the aggregate of membership service and prior service"; substituted definition of disability for former definition that read: ""Disability" and "incapacity for performance of duty", referred to herein as a basis of retirement, mean disability of permanent duration or disability of extended and uncertain duration, as determined by the board on the basis of competent medical opinion"; substituted definition of employee for former definition that read: ""Employee" means any person who is employed by an employer in any capacity whatever and whose salary is paid either by warrant of the employer or from the fees or income of any department or agency of the employer. "Employee" means further any person considered such pursuant to 19-3-402"; substituted definition of employer for former definition that read: ""Employer" means the state of Montana, its university system or any of the colleges, schools, components, or units thereof for the purposes of this chapter, or any political subdivision or governmental entity which has contracted to come into the system"; deleted definition of employer contributions that read: ""Employer contributions" means payments to the retirement fund from appropriations of the state of Montana pursuant to 19-3-801 and from contracting employers pursuant to the contracts between them and the board"; deleted definition of final compensation that read: ""Final compensation", except as provided in 19-3-907, means a member's highest average annual compensation during any 3 consecutive years of membership service. Lump-sum payments for sick leave and annual leave paid to the employee upon termination of employment may be used in the calculation of a retirement allowance only to the extent that they are used to replace, on a month for month basis, the normal compensation for a month or months included in the calculation of the final salary. A lump-sum payment may not be added to a single month's compensation"; deleted definition of head of department that read: ""Head of department" means the head of any department, institution, or branch of the state service which directly pays salaries out of its income or which prepares, approves, and submits salary statements of its employees to the department of administration, state auditor, and state treasurer for payment"; substituted definition of member for former definition that read: ""Member" means any person included in the membership of the retirement system set forth in 19-3-401 and not excluded in 19-3-402, 19-3-403, or 19-3-406"; substituted definition of membership service or years of service for former definition that read: ""Membership service" means service with respect to which normal contributions and employer contributions are paid. Prior service includes all service rendered prior to July 1, 1945, as a member of the legislative assembly or lieutenant governor of Montana"; substituted definition of retirement or retired for former definition that read: ""Retirement" means withdrawal from active service with a retirement allowance granted under the provisions of this chapter"; substituted definition of retirement benefit for former definition of retirement allowance that read: ""Retirement allowance" means the periodic benefit payable following service, early, or disability retirement"; deleted definition of retirement fund that read: ""Retirement fund" means the public employees' retirement system pension trust fund"; substituted definition of retirement system for former definition that read: ""Retirement system" means the public employees' retirement system created by this chapter"; substituted definition of service for former definition that read: ""Service" means employment of an employee, except as provided in 19-3-501 and 19-3-502"; substituted definition of survivorship benefit for former definition of survivorship allowance that read: ""Survivorship allowance" means payments for life to the beneficiary of a deceased member as provided in part 12 of this chapter"; and made minor changes in style. Case Notes

Proper Reliance by PERB on Opinion of Own Medical Personnel: The plaintiff appealed the District Court's order affirming the denial by the Public Employees' Retirement Board (PERB) of his disability claim, arguing that the denial was not supported by substantial evidence because PERB improperly deferred to the opinion of its own medical personnel over the opinions of the plaintiff's treating physicians. The Supreme Court affirmed, concluding that reliance on the opinion of PERB medical personnel was not clearly erroneous because the opinions of the treating physicians were based primarily on the plaintiff's inconsistent self-reporting of his condition and because the opinion of PERB medical personnel was based on a review of the deposition testimony and reports of the treating physician and the plaintiff's medical and personnel files. Fauque v. Mont. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 2014 MT 184, 375 Mont. 443, 329 P.3d 593.

Constitutional Authority of Public Employees' Retirement Board to Make Actuarial Calculations — No Overbroad Delegation of Legislative Authority: The District Court held that 2001 amendments contained in House Bill No. 294, which included a definition of actuarial equivalent that changed the method by which the Public Employees' Retirement Board calculated certain benefits, unconstitutionally delegated unconstrained discretion to the Board in violation of the separation of powers doctrine in Art. III, sec. 1, Mont. Const. On appeal, the Board asserted that Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., gave the Board the authority to make actuarial evaluations and thus to implement the 2001 amendments, so there was no constitutional violation. The Supreme Court agreed. Article III, sec. 1, Mont. Const., allows one branch of government to exercise power properly belonging to another branch if the constitution expressly directs or permits that exercise. Because Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., delegated authority to the Board to make actuarial determinations, the District Court committed reversible error in concluding that the Legislature and House Bill No. 294 (2001) unconstitutionally delegated authority to the Board to make determinations allowed by another section of the constitution. Baumgardner v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 2005 MT 199, 328 M 179, 119 P3d 77 (2005), following Duck Inn, Inc. v. Mont. St. Univ.-N., 285 M 519, 949 P2d 1179 (1997).

District Court Decision Regarding Constitutionality of One Issue Precluding Consideration of Other Constitutional Questions — Certification to Supreme Court Proper: Baumgardner raised numerous issues concerning the constitutionality of 2001 amendments to the Public Employees' Retirement System. The District Court decided that the amendments were an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power but did not consider other issues related to the amendments. The Public Employees' Retirement Board moved to certify the judgment as final, and the motion was granted. On appeal, Baumgardner contended that certification was improper because the District Court did not resolve all of the pending issues. The Supreme Court disagreed. Once the amendments were declared unconstitutional on the delegation question, there was no need for the District Court to consider other challenges to the constitutionality of the amendments, so certification was appropriate, and the case was properly submitted to the Supreme Court. Baumgardner v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 2005 MT 199, 328 M 179, 119 P3d 77 (2005).

Public Defender Considered Employee Entitled to Purchase Service Credits: Lewis worked as a county public defender for about 2½ years and then began working for the state Department of Transportation. Lewis sought to purchase service credits pursuant to the applicable 1979 version of 19-3-505 for the time spent as a public defender. The District Court affirmed the finding of the Public Employees' Retirement Board that Lewis's service was creditable service (definition changed to credited service or service credit in 1993 and deleted in 2003), as defined in 19-3-104 (renumbered 19-2-303), that did not qualify for conversion to membership service, so Lewis was denied the right to purchase service credit. On appeal, the Supreme Court reversed. The definition of membership service in 19-3-104 (renumbered 19-2-303) was service with respect to which contributions are paid. No contributions were paid, so Lewis's service was not membership service and therefore was also not creditable service. Lewis was an employee rather than an independent contractor, the county was a participating member of the public employees' retirement system, and Lewis's service was not creditable service. Thus, Lewis was entitled to purchase service credits in the retirement system. (Note that the statutes were substantially revised beginning in 1993.) Proof That Multiple Sclerosis Caused Disability: A doctor for the claimant for state retirement disability benefits testified that the claimant had multiple sclerosis (MS) prior to 1988 and that it became disabling (in regard to his job) in that year and remained disabling after that year. He was not conclusively diagnosed with and told that he had MS until 1991. The Public Employees' Retirement Board, which denied benefits, presented no medical evidence and did not deny that a job disability due to MS existed since 1988, the year when the claimant resigned. Instead, the Board relied on the claimant's 1988 indications that he was resigning to preserve a higher payout of unused benefits (his position was about to be reclassified downward) and that he felt he could do the job. His doctor's uncontradicted testimony was entitled to special weight and should not have been disregarded absent specific legitimate evidence and reasons to the contrary. The claimant's 1988 statements showed only that he did not believe that he was disabled and did not show that he in fact was not. They could have been made during a period of remission when symptoms were minor and he thought himself in good health. The lower court properly ruled that the Board's treatment of the claimant's doctor's testimony was erroneous and that the denial of benefits was also erroneous. Weber v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 270 M 239, 890 P2d 1296, 52 St. Rep. 162 (1995).

1995 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 412, L. 1995, provided in part: "A statement of intent is further required for this bill [the bill amends three sections to grant rulemaking authority] because [section 2] [codified as subsection (10) of 19-2-403] gives the board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to provide the board with the option of generating fees from the sale of the use of mailing lists composed of participants in the retirement systems administered by the board. However, the legislature intends that such use be restricted by the board so that retirement system participants are neither deprived of their right of privacy concerning confidential information nor inundated with excessive mailings, particularly as concerns commercial interests, individual political candidates and ballot issues, or other specific political issues.

The legislature intends to allow the board discretion in promulgating rules concerning procedures to effectuate this intent. The legislature intends that the board have discretion to determine, for example, that mailings may not be allowed at all under this provision, that mailings may be tried for a limited period of time only, that mailings may be limited to tax-exempt organizations under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, that specific types of mailings may be allowed, that mailings can be limited to specific categories of participants, or that participants have a right to be excluded from mailings on request.

The legislature intends that the fees generated by mailings for third parties not reduce the amount of appropriation otherwise allocated for the administration of the retirement system but be used as the board considers appropriate, such as for additional communication by the board with retirement system participants regarding retirement system rights, obligations, and similar issues."

Case Notes

State Retirement Board Not Required to Calculate Compensation Amounts for Individual Plan Members: Plaintiffs sued the state and the Public Employees' Retirement Board alleging that plaintiffs' compensation was incorrectly calculated by the Board, resulting in inadequate monthly benefits. The District Court dismissed the claim on grounds that plaintiffs failed to file their complaint within the 2-year statute of limitations, and plaintiffs appealed. The Supreme Court noted that although the Board has broad statutory duties to administer the various state retirement plans, it is not the Board's duty to calculate compensation amounts for individual members. Rather, it is an employer's duty to calculate and report the compensation amounts. If those reports were in error, plaintiffs should have sought relief from their employers, but their remedy did not lie with the state or the Board. Thus, the District Court correctly dismissed the complaint, albeit for a different reason, and the Supreme Court affirmed. Hall v. St., 2006 MT 37, 331 M 171, 130 P3d 601 (2006).

Constitutional Authority of Public Employees' Retirement Board to Make Actuarial Calculations — No Overbroad Delegation of Legislative Authority: The District Court held that 2001 amendments contained in House Bill No. 294, which included a definition of actuarial equivalent that changed the method by which the Public Employees' Retirement Board calculated certain benefits, unconstitutionally delegated unconstrained discretion to the Board in violation of the separation of powers doctrine in Art. III, sec. 1, Mont. Const. On appeal, the Board asserted that Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., gave the Board the authority to make actuarial evaluations and thus to implement the 2001 amendments, so there was no constitutional violation. The Supreme Court agreed. Article III, sec. 1, Mont. Const., allows one branch of government to exercise power properly belonging to another branch if the constitution expressly directs or permits that exercise. Because Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., delegated authority to the Board to make actuarial determinations, the District Court committed reversible error in concluding that the Legislature and House Bill No. 294 (2001) unconstitutionally delegated authority to the Board to make determinations allowed by another section of the constitution. Baumgardner v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 2005 MT 199, 328 M 179, 119 P3d 77 (2005), following Duck Inn, Inc. v. Mont. St. Univ.-N., 285 M 519, 949 P2d 1179 (1997).

Reinstatement of Prior Member: Once the PERS board agreed to reinstate a disabled claimant as a member of PERS it was required by statute to start his retirement disability from the date of the injury. State ex rel. Stowe v. Bd. of Administration, 172 M 337, 564 P2d 167 (1977).

Case Notes

Proper Reliance by PERB on Opinion of Own Medical Personnel: The plaintiff appealed the District Court's order affirming the denial by the Public Employees' Retirement Board (PERB) of his disability claim, arguing that the denial was not supported by substantial evidence because PERB improperly deferred to the opinion of its own medical personnel over the opinions of the plaintiff's treating physicians. The Supreme Court affirmed, concluding that reliance on the opinion of PERB medical personnel was not clearly erroneous because the opinions of the treating physicians were based primarily on the plaintiff's inconsistent self-reporting of his condition and because the opinion of PERB medical personnel was based on a review of the deposition testimony and reports of the treating physician and the plaintiff's medical and personnel files. (1) The legislature understands that capabilities for expediting deposits to the retirement systems are afforded by the increasing computer resources of both employers and the retirement systems.

(2) Therefore, it is the intent of the legislature that:

(a) contributions payable to the retirement systems administered by the board be paid within timeframes that are reasonable and cost-effective to contributors and the retirement systems;

(b) while expedited deposits can result in increased investment earnings for the retirement systems and the individual members of those systems, current contribution deadlines may not be shortened unless the resulting increase in investment income would help forestall increases in employer contribution rates required to actuarially fund the systems; and

(c) employers be responsible for providing accurate reports containing sufficient information to allow the board to both account for overall retirement system contributions and precisely record and credit membership service, monthly compensation, and membership contributions to individual member's accounts."

1979 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent adopted with Ch. 348, L. 1979, provided: "A statement of intent is included with this Bill because the Committee felt that there is a need to clarify the conditions under which an interest penalty may be waived. This pertains to Section 1, subsection (2) and Section 2, subsection (2), of Senate Bill No. 156.

1. When an agency or contracting employer requests a time extension upon a showing of good faith effort or because of circumstances beyond their control, the board will grant a reasonable extension of time without penalty."

Case Notes

State Retirement Board Not Required to Calculate Compensation Amounts for Individual Plan Members: Plaintiffs sued the state and the Public Employees' Retirement Board alleging that plaintiffs' compensation was incorrectly calculated by the Board, resulting in inadequate monthly benefits. The District Court dismissed the claim on grounds that plaintiffs failed to file their complaint within the 2-year statute of limitations, and plaintiffs appealed. The Supreme Court noted that although the Board has broad statutory duties to administer the various state retirement plans, it is not the Board's duty to calculate compensation amounts for individual members. Rather, it is an employer's duty to calculate and report the compensation amounts. If those reports were in error, plaintiffs should have sought relief from their employers, but their remedy did not lie with the state or the Board (see 2011 amendment). Thus, the District Court correctly dismissed the complaint, albeit for a different reason, and the Supreme Court affirmed. Hall v. St., 2006 MT 37, 331 M 171, 130 P3d 601 (2006).

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 in first sentence, after "13", deleted "of this title" and inserted third sentence clarifying that a retired member is not eligible to earn service credits. Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

Case Notes

Change in Retirement Plan Beneficiary Covered by Temporary Restraining Order Pending Marriage Dissolution Proceedings — Attempted Change in Beneficiary Invalid: The petitioner was denied benefits under her deceased husband's Sheriffs' Retirement System (SRS) plan because he had dropped her as a beneficiary and added his minor children while marriage dissolution proceedings were pending. At the time the husband made the change, both parties were subject to a temporary restraining order (TRO) that, in part, prohibited either party from changing the beneficiaries of insurance or other coverage held for the benefit of a party. The husband made the change without the consent of the petitioner or the court, in violation of the TRO. The Supreme Court held that a TRO issued under 40-4-121 that restricts changes of beneficiaries of insurance or other coverage applies to a change of beneficiary under the SRS and that the husband's attempted change was therefore invalid as a violation of statute. Briese v. Mont. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 2012 MT 192, 366 Mont. 148, 285 P.3d 550. However, see In re Estate of Corrigan, 2014 MT 337, 377 Mont. 364, 341 P.3d 623, in which a change in beneficiary was allowed because the TRO had not been served within the 3-year timeframe and the change was made after the time for service had expired.

Amendment effective July 1, 1999.

Saving Clause: Section 100, Ch. 562, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 in (1), at beginning of first sentence after "If a", substituted "statutory or designated beneficiary does not survive the member or payment recipient" for "living beneficiary, existing charitable organization, or natural living person who is the beneficiary of a trust is not designated", after "estate of the member" inserted "or payment recipient", and after "is" substituted "entitled to any lump-sum payment or retirement benefit accrued but not received prior to the statutory or designated beneficiary's death" for "the designated beneficiary" and in second sentence, after "due", deleted "including retirement benefits accrued but not received prior to death"; and in (4), after "member's", inserted "or payment recipient's". Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in (1), near end of first sentence before "beneficiary", inserted "designated" and in second sentence, after "including retirement", substituted "benefits" for "allowances"; in first sentence of (3), after "groups", inserted "listed in subsection (2)" and in second sentence substituted "division" for "board"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1985 Amendment: In (1) near beginning of first sentence, after "beneficiary", inserted "existing charitable organization, or natural living person who is the beneficiary of a trust".

Case Notes

State Retirement Board Protected From Minor's Direct Claims for Additional Payment After Proper Payment Already Made: The Montana Public Employee Retirement Administration (MPERA) denied the petitioner's claim as a beneficiary under her late husband's plan because he had dropped her as a beneficiary and added his minor children while a temporary restraining order was in effect pending marriage dissolution proceedings. Although the petitioner appealed MPERA's decision to the District Court, she also activated monthly payments to herself for the benefit of her children. On appeal to the Supreme Court, the Montana Public Employees' Retirement Board argued that this section rendered the petitioner's appeal moot, as the Board's obligations under the law were fully discharged by commencing payments for the minor children and thus the petitioner had no potential relief available. The Supreme Court disagreed and held that this section protects the Board from a minor's direct claims for additional payment after proper payment has already been made to a designated recipient on behalf of the minor. This section was inapplicable when the petitioner, who had elected monthly payments in lieu of a lump sum, could seek relief through future monthly payments. Briese v. Mont. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 2012 MT 192, 366 Mont. 148, 285 P.3d 550.

(2) In lieu of the payment of benefits as provided in subsection (1), the board may grant a survivorship allowance in the amount provided for in 19-3-1205 to the member's surviving next of kin other than the beneficiary who caused the member's death. Determination of the surviving next of kin must be made according to the order provided in 19-3-1302(2)." Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Case Notes

Offset of Unpaid Retirement Benefits Proper Under Prior Family Law Order: The District Court ordered the husband to pay $734 a month from his retirement benefits, as ordered in a dissolution decree, and allowed the wife to offset her obligations to the husband when he became eligible to share in her retirement benefits to cover accrued payments of more than $10,000 owed by the husband. On appeal, the husband contended that he was exempt from this legal process under 19-2-1004 because 11 years had passed since the decree was issued, so the decree should no longer be considered a family law order under this section. The Supreme Court disagreed and affirmed. The husband cited no authority for the proposition that a family law order is no longer a family law order after 11 years. The District Court did not err in allowing the wife to collect accrued payments by setoff or otherwise. In re Marriage of Weber, 2004 MT 206, 322 M 324, 95 P3d 694 (2004).

Writ of Mandamus Ordering State Agency to Pay Highway Patrol Benefits to Ex-Wife Improper: The petitioner obtained a writ of mandamus from the lower court directing the Department of Administration to pay one-half of her ex-husband's highway patrol retirement benefits to her as required by the couple's divorce decree. The Supreme Court reversed, holding that the agency had no legal duty to pay the benefits to the petitioner because she was not a beneficiary under the applicable law. (See 1993 and 2001 amendments.) WHEREAS, the Legislature has in the past granted increases in retirement benefits in a manner designed to provide relatively greater increases to those retirees who were employed during the years of low wages and whose benefits are relatively small; and

Offset of Unpaid Retirement Benefits Proper Under Prior Family Law Order: The District Court ordered the husband to pay $734 a month from his retirement benefits, as ordered in a dissolution decree, and allowed the wife to offset her obligations to the husband when he became eligible to share in her retirement benefits to cover accrued payments of more than $10,000 owed by the husband. On appeal, the husband contended that he was exempt from this legal process under this section because 11 years had passed since the decree was issued, so the decree should no longer be considered a family law order under 19-2-907. The Supreme Court disagreed and affirmed. The husband cited no authority for the proposition that a family law order is no longer a family law order after 11 years. The District Court did not err in allowing the wife to collect accrued payments by setoff or otherwise. In re Marriage of Weber, 2004 MT 206, 322 M 324, 95 P3d 694 (2004).

No Private Contract Created by Statute — State Prohibited From Surrendering Power to Tax: After the Legislature enacted Ch. 823, L. 1991, to tax retirement pension benefits that had previously been untaxed, the retirees sued, claiming that they had a contractual right to a continued exemption from taxation. Citing Wage Appeal v. Bd. of Personnel Appeals, 208 M 33, 676 P2d 194 (1984), the Supreme Court held that the former tax exemption was only a policy statement that could be changed by the Legislature and that the Legislature did not clearly manifest an intention in the law in question to create a private contractual right. Additionally, the Supreme Court held that the state was prohibited by Art. VIII, sec. 2, Mont. Const., from promising any group of taxpayers that it would never tax them. Sheehy v. Pub. Employees Retirement Div., 262 M 129, 864 P2d 762, 50 St. Rep. 1477 (1993).

Federal Retirees Not Entitled to Retroactive Tax Refunds: Applying the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Davis v. Mich. Dept. of the Treasury, 489 US 803, 103 L Ed 2d 891, 109 S Ct 1500 (1989), the District Court adopted a stipulation that the state income tax assessed on benefits received by federal retirees under 4 U.S.C. 111 that were in excess of $3,600 was unconstitutional and invalid for tax years after 1988. The District Court denied plaintiffs' summary judgment motion that Davis be applied retroactively, thus entitling retirees to refunds for previous tax years. On appeal, the Montana Supreme Court affirmed, ruling that it would be inequitable to refund taxes to retirees because the refunds would be made at the expense of all state taxpayers. Sheehy v. St., 250 M 437, 820 P2d 1257, 48 St. Rep. 1008 (1991).

PERS Funds Not Exempt in Bankruptcy Proceeding: Accumulated contributions in the Montana Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) account are not a spendthrift trust excluded from the estate under 11 U.S.C. 541 of the federal bankruptcy code. 1999 Amendment: Chapter 58 inserted first sentence in (1) requiring board to administer plan to satisfy requirements of qualified government plan provided by the Internal Revenue Code, in second sentence after "Code" inserted "or the retirement plan's status as a governmental plan under section 414(d) of the Internal Revenue Code", and at end substituted "plan to retain its qualified status" for "system to retain tax-deferred status"; inserted (2) regarding composition of the plan document for each retirement system for purposes of the Internal Revenue Code; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1999.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

Effective Date: Section 43, Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval." Approved April 23, 1997.

Compiler's Comments

1999 Amendment: Chapter 471 in (1) substituted "defined benefit retirement plan" for "retirement system" and at end deleted "and to be known as the public employees' retirement system"; inserted (2) providing that a defined contribution plan is established as provided in part 21 of this chapter; in (3) inserted "public employees' retirement", inserted "consists of the defined benefit plan and the defined contribution plan. Each plan within the system", and inserted "applicable"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective on occurrence of contingency or July 1, 2002, whichever is earlier.

The amendment to this section made by Ch. 562, L. 1999, was rendered void by sec. 99(1)(c), Ch. 562, L. 1999.

Contingent Effective Date: Section 79(4), Ch. 471, L. 1999, provided that the amendments to this section are "effective contingent upon certification, as provided in [section 65] [not codified], that the defined contribution retirement plan is ready to become operational or on July 1, 2002, whichever is earlier". Section 65 provided in subsection (2) that "The board shall certify to the governor and the secretary of state the date on which the defined contribution retirement plan established pursuant to [sections 42 through 63] [chapter 3, part 21, of this title] is ready to become operational and shall provide a copy of the certification to the code commissioner." The contingency occurred pursuant to a letter dated May 23, 2002, which certified that the defined contribution retirement plan "is ready to become and will become operational as of July 1, 2002".

Saving Clause: Section 100, Ch. 562, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 inserted second sentence regarding chapters applicable to system. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

2021 Amendment: See 2021 Session Law for amendment made by sec. 44, Ch. 261, L. 2021. Amendment effective April 20, 2021.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 390, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis" and that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 through 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery have resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Public Employees' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for members currently in the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to current system participants in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, the current and increasing level of unfunded liabilities has the potential to compromise the credit ratings of the state of Montana and of local government entities, including public school districts; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future participants alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, a reasonable increase in contributions for current participants is necessary to help return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed and enacted alternatives for returning the system to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, which have failed to reduce system costs enough to restore the system to actuarial soundness; and

WHEREAS, in light of significant strains on the Montana economy, on state and local government budgets, and on taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase of 1% imposed on current members, with an appropriate mechanism to terminate the supplemental contribution rate as system funding improves and in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is, pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment, reasonable and necessary, is for a valid public purpose, and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure that the retirement system is funded in an actuarially sound manner."

All-Purpose Mill Levy — Forfeiture of Powers: Municipalities that adopt the all-purpose mill levy authorized in 7-6-4452 (now repealed) forfeit the power to impose levies for any particular purpose not clearly excepted by statute. Thus, the all-purpose mill levy supplants the taxing authority granted in 7-33-4111, 19-10-301 (renumbered 19-19-301), and 19-11-503 (renumbered 19-18-503) but does not supplant the taxing authority granted in 7-32-4117, 7-33-4130, 19-3-204, 19-9-704 (renumbered 19-9-209), sec. 2, Ch. 324, L. 1975 (not codified), sec. 2, Ch. 359, L. 1975 (not codified), and sec. 3, Ch. 438, L. 1975 (not codified). 38 A.G. 19-3-315. Member's contribution to be deducted.

Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 390 in (1)(a) substituted current text for former text that read: "Each member's contribution is:

(i) for a member hired prior to July 1, 2011, 6.9% of the member's compensation; and

(ii) for a member hired on or after July 1, 2011, 7.9% of the member's compensation"; in (1)(b) substituted "The board shall annually review" for "For members hired on or after July 1, 2011, the board shall periodically review"; inserted (2) concerning reduction of member's contribution; in (4) substituted "subsection (1) or (2)" for "subsection (1)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 390, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis" and that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 through 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery have resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Public Employees' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for members currently in the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to current system participants in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, the current and increasing level of unfunded liabilities has the potential to compromise the credit ratings of the state of Montana and of local government entities, including public school districts; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future participants alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, a reasonable increase in contributions for current participants is necessary to help return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed and enacted alternatives for returning the system to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, which have failed to reduce system costs enough to restore the system to actuarial soundness; and

WHEREAS, in light of significant strains on the Montana economy, on state and local government budgets, and on taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase of 1% imposed on current members, with an appropriate mechanism to terminate the supplemental contribution rate as system funding improves and in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is, pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment, reasonable and necessary, is for a valid public purpose, and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure that the retirement system is funded in an actuarially sound manner."

Severability: Section 13, Ch. 390, L. 2013, was a severability clause.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 369 in (1)(a)(i) at beginning inserted "for a member hired prior to July 1, 2011"; inserted (1)(a)(ii) concerning a member hired on or after July 1, 2011; inserted (1)(b) regarding board review; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2011.

Amendment effective on occurrence of contingency or July 1, 2002, whichever is earlier.

Contingent Effective Date: Section 79(4), Ch. 471, L. 1999, provided that the amendments to this section are "effective contingent upon certification, as provided in [section 65] [not codified], that the defined contribution retirement plan is ready to become operational or on July 1, 2002, whichever is earlier". Section 65 provided in subsection (2) that "The board shall certify to the governor and the secretary of state the date on which the defined contribution retirement plan established pursuant to [sections 42 through 63] [chapter 3, part 21, of this title] is ready to become operational and shall provide a copy of the certification to the code commissioner." The contingency occurred pursuant to a letter dated May 23, 2002, which certified that the defined contribution retirement plan "is ready to become and will become operational as of July 1, 2002".

1997 Amendment: Chapter 287 in (1), in first sentence, changed "July 1, 1993" to "July 1, 1997" and substituted "6.8%" for "6.70%" and inserted second sentence providing that member's contribution increases to 6.9% beginning July 1, 1999. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

1989 Amendment: At beginning of (1) inserted "On and before June 30, 1989" and at end inserted "The normal contribution of each member increases to"; and inserted (1)(a) through (1)(e) specifying the percentage increases. Amendment effective April 15, 1989.

Applicability: Section 7, Ch. 558, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] applies to members retiring on or after April 15, 1989."

1985 Amendment: In (1) in middle of first sentence substituted "is" for "shall be equal to" and deleted former second sentence that read: "The chief administrative officer of each employer shall deduct the contribution from the compensation of each member and remit the total of the contributions to the board"; inserted (2) requiring employer to "pick up" employee's contribution; inserted (3) designating "picked up" contributions as member's contributions and requiring separate accounting; and inserted (4) requiring "picked up" contributions to be paid from member's compensation.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 390 in (3)(a) substituted "the percentage specified in subsection (3)(b)" for "0.27%"; inserted (3)(b) concerning percentage of compensation; in (4)(a) substituted "annually" for "periodically"; in (4)(b) substituted current text for former text that read: "The employer contribution required under subsection (3) terminates on July 1 following the board's receipt of the system's actuarial valuation if:

(i) the actuarial valuation determines that the period required to amortize the system's unfunded liabilities, including adjustments made for any benefit enhancements enacted by the legislature after the valuation, is less than 25 years; and

(ii) terminating the additional employer contribution would not cause the amortization period as of the most recent actuarial valuation to exceed 25 years"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 390, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis" and that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

Severability: Section 13, Ch. 390, L. 2013, was a severability clause.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 283 in (3) near middle after "equal to" substituted "0.27%" for "the following percentage"; deleted former (3)(a) and (3)(b) that read: "(a) beginning July 1, 2007, 0.135%; and

(b) beginning July 1, 2009, 0.27%"; in (4)(b) after "July 1" deleted "immediately" and after "following the" inserted "board's receipt of the". Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

Saving Clause: Section 10, Ch. 371, L. 2007, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 11, Ch. 371, L. 2007, was a severability clause.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 329 in (1) in second sentence substituted "the employer shall pay as employer contributions 6.9% of the compensation paid to all of the employer's employees, except those properly excluded from membership" for "the amount of the employer contribution as a percentage of the employer's covered payroll is 6.9%"; and in (2) near end before "under 19-3-319" deleted "applied to their monthly covered payrolls". Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

Incorrect Effective Dates — Effective Date Amended: Section 79, Ch. 471, L. 1999, incorrectly provided two effective dates for sec. 34 of Ch. 471, one July 1, 1999, and the other effective upon a contingency, or July 1, 2002, whichever was earlier. Section 38, Ch. 490, L. 2001, amended sec. 79 to make the effective date July 1, 1999.

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 51 in (1) near end after "payroll is" deleted "6.8% beginning July 1, 1997, and increases to"; and in (2) deleted former second sentence that read: "The payment is statutorily appropriated as provided in 17-7-502." Amendment effective March 15, 1999.

Section 65 provided in subsection (2) that "The board shall certify to the governor and the secretary of state the date on which the defined contribution retirement plan established pursuant to [sections 42 through 63] [chapter 3, part 21, of this title] is ready to become operational and shall provide a copy of the certification to the code commissioner."

1997 Amendment: Chapter 287 substituted language in second sentence in (1) inserting exception clause and language providing that an employer's contribution is 6.8% of payroll beginning July 1, 1997, and 6.9% beginning July 1, 1999, for language that read: "On and after July 1, 1993, the amount of the employer contribution is 6.70% of each employer's covered payroll"; inserted (2) requiring local government and school district to subtract state contribution rate from total employer rate; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 substituted present section regarding employer contribution rates for former section that read: "(1) Each employer shall contribute to the cost of benefits under the system. The amount of the employer contributions shall be computed by applying to member's compensation the sum of the current service contribution rate and the unfunded liability contribution rate. The sum of these rates is 6.417% from July 1, 1983, to June 30, 1992. The sum of the rates increases to 6.55% on July 1, 1992, and to 6.70% on July 1, 1993.

(2) The actuary shall determine the current service contribution rate to be that level percentage of the present value of the future compensation of the average new member entering the system which equals the then present value of the excess of all prospective benefits in respect of such member over the member's own normal contributions.

(3) The actuary shall determine the minimum unfunded liability contribution rate to be that level percentage of the present value of the prospective compensation of all members for the 40-year period following the date of the determination which is equal to the unfunded liability on that date. The unfunded liability at any time is the excess of the present value of all future benefits payable in respect of all persons then entitled to benefits under the system over the sum of the retirement fund and the present values of the future current service contributions and normal contributions payable in respect of all such persons." Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1989 Amendment: At end of (1), after "July 1, 1983", substituted "to June 30, 1992. The sum of the rates increases to 6.55% on July 1, 1992, and to 6.70% on July 1, 1993" for "and thereafter"; and made minor change in phraseology. Amendment effective April 15, 1989.

The pre-1981 employer rate was 5.90%. The increase in HB 45 (Ch. 549) was .12% and in SB 232 (Ch. 254) .30%. In accordance with the coordination section, the Code Commissioner inserted "6.32" in the last sentence of (1).

Case Notes

Disproportionate Employer Contributions to Retirement Plans — Defined Contribution, Defined Benefit Plans — No Substantive Due Process or Equal Protection Violation: The plaintiffs, all of whom were public employees participating in the state's defined contribution or university retirement plans (contribution plans), sued the Montana Public Employee Retirement Administration. The plaintiffs alleged that they were being treated differently from employees in the state's defined benefit plan because the percentage of their employer's contribution into their own individual plans was less than the percentage of employer contribution that went into the defined benefit plan trust. The District Court disagreed, noting that the plaintiffs all had chosen voluntarily between joining one of the contribution plans and joining the benefit plan and that they received the employer contribution they bargained for when they chose to join a contribution plan. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, ruling that the plaintiffs had received the flexibility to control their accounts in exchange for a lower contribution into their individual accounts and that their substantive due process rights had therefore not been violated. Purported Contingent Effective Date: Section 79(4), Ch. 471, L. 1999, provided that the amendments to this section are "effective contingent upon certification, as provided in [section 65] [not codified], that the defined contribution retirement plan is ready to become operational or on July 1, 2002, whichever is earlier". Section 65 provided in subsection (2) that "The board shall certify to the governor and the secretary of state the date on which the defined contribution retirement plan established pursuant to [sections 42 through 63] [chapter 3, part 21, of this title] is ready to become operational and shall provide a copy of the certification to the code commissioner." The amendments contained in sec. 35, Ch. 471, L. 1999, were the same as the amendments contained in sec. 99(1)(d), Ch. 562, L. 1999, except the amendment to the first sentence of (4), which was rendered void by the deletion of (4) in Ch. 562. The effect of the amendments is that this section is not subject to the contingency in sec. 79(4), Ch. 471, L. 1999. Instead, the amendments are effective July 1, 1999, pursuant to sec. 101, Ch. 562, L. 1999.

Saving Clause: Section 100, Ch. 562, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 in (1), in first sentence after "all", deleted "eligible" and at end substituted "service" for "covered employment" and at beginning of second sentence, after "Each", substituted "employer" for "eligible employee" and after "affecting" substituted "their employees' status as members" for "the employee's status as a member". Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in (1), at beginning, inserted exception clause, in two places changed references to employees to references to eligible employees, and before "employment" inserted "covered"; in (2), near beginning, substituted "membership service" for "creditable service", after "terminates" substituted "service" for "covered employment", before "contributions" inserted "accumulated", after "contributions" inserted "is an inactive vested member and", after "service" inserted "and to receive a service retirement benefit", and before "this chapter" deleted "part 5 of"; deleted (2)(b) that read: "(b) Upon reaching retirement age, a member becomes eligible to receive a retirement allowance under the provisions of 19-3-901 or 19-3-902"; in (3), in first sentence, substituted "membership service" for "creditable service", after "terminates" substituted "service" for "covered employment", after "contributions" substituted "in the pension trust fund" for "on deposit", after "is" inserted "an inactive nonvested member and is", and after "benefits" substituted "from the retirement system" for "other than" and in last sentence, before "a refund", inserted "An inactive nonvested member is eligible only for"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1991 Amendment: Inserted (2) regarding right to purchase service and eligibility for retirement allowance for member with at least 5 years' service who terminates covered employment; and inserted (3) limiting member with less than 5 years' service to refund of contributions. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

Chapter 412 at end of (3) deleted "unless there is a written contract that specifies the creation of an employer-employee relationship for purposes of retirement coverage under the retirement system"; and in (6), near beginning, substituted "school of technology" for "vocational-technical center". Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

The codifier did not codify the subsection (6) name change made by Ch. 412 because Ch. 308 merged the school of technology system into the University System and deleted the old reference to "vocational-technical center".

Severability: Section 28, Ch. 412, L. 1995, was a severability clause.

A member so excluded from membership by this subsection may later become a member by otherwise becoming an employee or by written request after the initial date of exclusion. If he affirmatively exercises the option and pays the employee contribution plus interest, the contributions of the employer, because of his membership, shall be the same as they would have been had he not been so excluded plus accrued interest on all employer contributions from the date the contributions would have been made to the date of payment.

(6) employees in service on July 1, 1945, or prior thereto who filed with the board elections not to become members, except that a person so excluded from membership may become a member and be eligible thereafter to receive the same benefits that he would have received if he had never filed an election not to be a member by meeting the requirements prescribed in 19-3-505 and 19-3-506;

(7) persons directly appointed by the governor who do not file with the board an election in writing to become members"; in (4), in third sentence, substituted "regular contributions" for "normal contributions"; at end of (4)(a), after "retirement system", deleted "and the payments or contributions in lieu of wages may not be considered a part of the employees' compensation for purposes of computing the employer or employee contributions to the retirement system"; in (4)(b) substituted "subsection (4)" for "subsection (8)" and after "employee" deleted "as defined in this chapter"; in (5), after "court commissioners", inserted "elected officials"; deleted (10) through (12) that read: "(10) persons who become employees after they have reached their 60th birthday and have no creditable service in this system and who do not file with the board an election to become members;

1985 Amendment: Deleted former (14) that read: "effective October 1, 1978, employees whose positions are funded under the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and who file with the board elections not to become members. An employee who exercises his election is considered terminated and is eligible for a refund under 19-3-703, and any employer contributions made on his behalf after October 1, 1978, must be returned to the funding agency. If he is subsequently transferred to non-CETA employment and consequently becomes a member, he may revoke his election within 1 year after the transfer date by filing a written revocation with the board and he will then be eligible to qualify the service previously excluded by this subsection under the provisions of 19-3-505"; and in (15) substituted reference to calendar year for fiscal year in two places.

1983 Amendment: At beginning of (13), substituted "full-time students employed at and attending the same" school for "students of any" school.

Chapter 142 substituted "120" for "60" working days at the beginning of (5); added the balance of (5) following "any fiscal year" near the beginning of the subsection (see 1981 Session Law for text); deleted "within 1 year" before "after becoming a member" near the end of (13); added (16) allowing retired members to work 60 days without rejoining the retirement system.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

Effective Date: Section 239, Ch. 265, L. 1993, provided that this section is effective July 1, 1993.

Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in (1), in first sentence, substituted "employment is considered membership service" for "employment shall be considered as spent in service" and at end, after "service", deleted "for the purpose of qualification for service retirement benefits under Title 19, chapter 3, part 9, or survivorship allowances under Title 19, chapter 3, part 12, but not for the calculation of such benefits" and at beginning of second sentence inserted "However, the member may not earn service credits for this period" and at end substituted "service credits and membership credits" for "the calculation and qualification of benefits"; in (2)(a), before "interest", inserted "regular" and substituted "covered service" for "covered employment"; in (2)(b) inserted third sentence regarding employer contribution for all employees; in (3) substituted "covered service" for "covered employment"; at end of (4) substituted "covered service" for "covered employment"; in (5), after "member", deleted "so absent", after "contribute" inserted "for an absence", and before "contributions" deleted "normal"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1987 Amendment: At end of (4) substituted "before termination of covered employment" for "not to exceed 24 monthly payments".

1983 Amendment: In middle of (1), substituted "service retirement benefits under Title 19, chapter 3, part 9," for "retirement benefits"; inserted "under Title 19, chapter 3, part 12," after "survivorship allowances"; at end of (2)(a) inserted "plus interest accruing ... period of absence"; near beginning of (2)(b) substituted "contribute under subsection (2)(a)" for "continue his contributions"; in (2)(b) inserted last two sentences allowing employer to pay interest on its contribution and requiring employee to pay employer's interest if not paid by employer; at beginning of (3) substituted "At some time after returning to covered employment," for "within 6 months after he returns to service"; at end of (3) deleted former sentence, which read "The employer shall provide the employee with written notice of the provisions of this section which shall be signed by the employee and returned to the employer, who shall provide a copy to the board."; and made minor phraseology changes.

Amendment effective July 1, 1999.

Case Notes

Public Defender Considered Employee Entitled to Purchase Service Credits: Lewis worked as a county public defender for about 2½ years and then began working for the state Department of Transportation. Lewis sought to purchase service credits pursuant to the applicable 1979 version of this section for the time spent as a public defender. The District Court affirmed the finding of the Public Employees' Retirement Board that Lewis's service was creditable service (definition changed to credited service or service credit in 1993 and deleted in 2003), as defined in 19-3-104 (renumbered 19-2-303), that did not qualify for conversion to membership service, so Lewis was denied the right to purchase service credit. On appeal, the Supreme Court reversed. The definition of membership service in 19-3-104 (renumbered 19-2-303) was service with respect to which contributions are paid. No contributions were paid, so Lewis's service was not membership service and therefore was also not creditable service. Lewis was an employee rather than an independent contractor, the county was a participating member of the public employees' retirement system, and Lewis's service was not creditable service. Thus, Lewis was entitled to purchase service credits in the retirement system. (Note that the statutes were substantially revised beginning in 1993.) Case Notes

Constitutional Authority of Public Employees' Retirement Board to Make Actuarial Calculations — No Overbroad Delegation of Legislative Authority: The District Court held that 2001 amendments contained in House Bill No. 294, which included a definition of actuarial equivalent that changed the method by which the Public Employees' Retirement Board calculated certain benefits, unconstitutionally delegated unconstrained discretion to the Board in violation of the separation of powers doctrine in Art. III, sec. 1, Mont. Const. On appeal, the Board asserted that Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., gave the Board the authority to make actuarial evaluations and thus to implement the 2001 amendments, so there was no constitutional violation. The Supreme Court agreed. Article III, sec. 1, Mont. Const., allows one branch of government to exercise power properly belonging to another branch if the constitution expressly directs or permits that exercise. Because Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., delegated authority to the Board to make actuarial determinations, the District Court committed reversible error in concluding that the Legislature and House Bill No. 294 (2001) unconstitutionally delegated authority to the Board to make determinations allowed by another section of the constitution. Baumgardner v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 2005 MT 199, 328 M 179, 119 P3d 77 (2005), following Duck Inn, Inc. v. Mont. St. Univ.-N., 285 M 519, 949 P2d 1179 (1997).

(2) if the member attained age 70 in service, the lesser of $480 or one-half of his final compensation." Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Ad Hoc Cost-of-Living Increase: Section 1, Ch. 663, L. 1983, provided: "Effective July 1, 1983, each monthly service or disability retirement allowance or survivorship allowance payable to a member of the public employees' retirement system or his beneficiary must be increased as follows:

(1) $1 for each year of creditable service, up to a maximum of $30, for a member retired before July 1, 1981; or

(2) 50 cents for each year of creditable service, up to a maximum of $15, for a member retired on or after July 1, 1981, but before January 1, 1983."

1993 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 567, L. 1993, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [section 1] [19-3-908] gives the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to provide an active member of the public employees' retirement system who is eligible for normal or early retirement with an incentive to terminate service within the timeframe or window prescribed in this bill. The incentive provided in this bill is that the employer, at no cost to an eligible member, will buy for the eligible member up to 3 years of additional service for the purpose of calculating the member's retirement benefit.

The employer of an eligible member will pay the total cost for purchasing the additional service, up to 3 years, that the member is eligible to purchase under existing statute. It is the intent of the legislature that the state and the university system be mandated to provide this retirement incentive but that providing the incentive be optional for contracting employers under the public employees' retirement system.

It is also the intent of the legislature that the employer may pay for the additional service on an installment basis over as many as 10 years. Interest would be charged at a rate set according to the retirement board's policy.

It is not the intent of the legislature to provide this retirement incentive to anyone who is an inactive member of the retirement system or who is ineligible for early or normal retirement within the prescribed window or to change the benefit formula used to determine benefits under the retirement system."

The termination incentive, combined with employer contributions due the teachers' retirement system under 19-4-101(5)(d) [19-20-101(5)(d)], must be an amount equal to 1 year of the combined member and employer contributions established in 19-4-602 [19-20-602] and 19-4-605 [19-20-605] for each 5 years of creditable service within the teachers' retirement system, not to exceed the amount of combined contributions for 3 years.

(2) A member who terminates employment under the provisions of subsection (1) and who returns to employment in a unit of the Montana university system, except as provided in 19-4-804 [19-20-804], shall refund the voluntary termination incentive to the university system.

Disability Retirement Benefits

Part Case Notes

Incapacity Not Result of Employment: District Court reversed decision of Public Employees' Retirement Board which refused relator's claim for an occupational disability retirement allowance based upon job-related disability caused by adverse working conditions and granted relator ordinary disability retirement allowance. This was improper since District Court substituted its judgment for that of Board and since "disease", as used in section 68-901, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), did not include "personality disorders, anxiety reactions, or difficulties in getting along with one's superiors or fellow workers". Case Notes

Proof That Multiple Sclerosis Caused Disability: A doctor for the claimant for state retirement disability benefits testified that the claimant had multiple sclerosis (MS) prior to 1988 and that it became disabling (in regard to his job) in that year and remained disabling after that year. He was not conclusively diagnosed with and told that he had MS until 1991. The Public Employees' Retirement Board, which denied benefits, presented no medical evidence and did not deny that a job disability due to MS existed since 1988, the year when the claimant resigned. Instead, the Board relied on the claimant's 1988 indications that he was resigning to preserve a higher payout of unused benefits (his position was about to be reclassified downward) and that he felt he could do the job. His doctor's uncontradicted testimony was entitled to special weight and should not have been disregarded absent specific legitimate evidence and reasons to the contrary. The claimant's 1988 statements showed only that he did not believe that he was disabled and did not show that he in fact was not. They could have been made during a period of remission when symptoms were minor and he thought himself in good health. The lower court properly ruled that the Board's treatment of the claimant's doctor's testimony was erroneous and that the denial of benefits was also erroneous. Weber v. Pub. Employees' Retirement Bd., 270 M 239, 890 P2d 1296, 52 St. Rep. 162 (1995).

The annual amount of retirement allowance reverts to 50% of final compensation at the end of such period"; in (2) substituted "disability retirement benefit" for "retirement allowance"; and made minor changes in style. 1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 412 in (1), in third sentence, substituted "the essential elements of either the position" for "either the duties of the position" and after "retired or the" substituted "position" for "duties". Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in two places substituted "retirement benefit" for "retirement allowance" and after "reinstated" inserted "to service"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Case Notes

Constitutional Authority of Public Employees' Retirement Board to Make Actuarial Calculations — No Overbroad Delegation of Legislative Authority: The District Court held that 2001 amendments contained in House Bill No. 294, which included a definition of actuarial equivalent that changed the method by which the Public Employees' Retirement Board calculated certain benefits, unconstitutionally delegated unconstrained discretion to the Board in violation of the separation of powers doctrine in Art. III, sec. 1, Mont. Const. On appeal, the Board asserted that Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., gave the Board the authority to make actuarial evaluations and thus to implement the 2001 amendments, so there was no constitutional violation. The Supreme Court agreed. Article III, sec. 1, Mont. Const., allows one branch of government to exercise power properly belonging to another branch if the constitution expressly directs or permits that exercise. Because Art. VIII, sec. 15, Mont. Const., delegated authority to the Board to make actuarial determinations, the District Court committed reversible error in concluding that the Legislature and House Bill No. 294 (2001) unconstitutionally delegated authority to the Board to make determinations allowed by another section of the constitution. Amendment effective July 1, 2021.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 390 in (2)(c) substituted "subsection (4)(b)" for "subsection (5)"; deleted former (4) and (5) that read: "(4) (a) The applicable percentage is 3% for benefit recipients hired or assuming office:

(i) before July 1, 2007; or

(ii) on or after July 1, 2007, if the benefit recipient is an existing member of a benefit plan for which the applicable percentage is 3%.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (4)(a)(ii), the applicable percentage is 1.5% for benefit recipients hired or assuming office on or after July 1, 2007.

(5) (a) The applicable percentage rate for a contingent annuitant described in subsection (2)(c) is 3% if the original payee:

(i) was hired or assumed office before July 1, 2007; or

(ii) was an existing member of a benefit plan for which the applicable percentage is 3%.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (5)(a)(ii), the applicable percentage rate for a contingent annuitant described in subsection (2)(c) is 1.5% if the original payee was hired or assumed office on or after July 1, 2007"; and inserted (4) and (5) concerning applicable percentage rate. Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 390, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis" and that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 through 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery have resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Public Employees' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for members currently in the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to current system participants in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, the current and increasing level of unfunded liabilities has the potential to compromise the credit ratings of the state of Montana and of local government entities, including public school districts; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future participants alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, a reasonable increase in contributions for current participants is necessary to help return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed and enacted alternatives for returning the system to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, which have failed to reduce system costs enough to restore the system to actuarial soundness; and

WHEREAS, in light of significant strains on the Montana economy, on state and local government budgets, and on taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase of 1% imposed on current members, with an appropriate mechanism to terminate the supplemental contribution rate as system funding improves and in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is, pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment, reasonable and necessary, is for a valid public purpose, and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure that the retirement system is funded in an actuarially sound manner."

Severability: Section 13, Ch. 390, L. 2013, was a severability clause.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 371 in (1) at end, in (2)(a) near middle and near end, in (3)(b) near end, and in (3)(c) near middle substituted reference to applicable percentage rate for "3%"; inserted (4) specifying percentage rate for current and future benefit recipients; inserted (5) specifying applicable percentage rate for contingent annuitant; and made minor changes in style. Chapter 149 throughout section changed percentage from "1.5%" to "3%". Amendment effective March 29, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 562 in (3)(a) substituted "commencement date" for "initiation date". Amendment effective July 1, 1999.

Saving Clause: Section 100, Ch. 562, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 through 3] [19-2-1101, now repealed, 19-3-1605, 19-5-901, 19-6-710, 19-7-711, 19-8-1105, 19-9-1009, and 19-13-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to guarantee a minimum level of annual benefit increases for retired members and their contingent annuitants or survivors under each of the statewide public employee retirement systems. The legislature also intends to fund this guaranteed annual benefit adjustment (GABA) in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Because the GABA is intended to address the erosion of retirement benefits caused by inflation as cost-effectively as possible, it is the intent of the legislature that the guaranteed annual 1.5% minimum adjustment not begin until after the original benefit has been paid for at least 36 months.

Because it is most cost-effective to reduce current unfunded liabilities as well as to avoid future unfunded liabilities and to fund new benefits as they accrue, the bill provides that the GABA be substituted for other benefits in cases in which the GABA is as valuable or more valuable to members. The resulting actuarial savings will reduce the additional funding required for the GABA.

In the public employees', sheriffs', and game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement systems, all members will automatically be covered by the GABA provided for in this bill instead of the current postretirement adjustments based on investment earnings.

In the highway patrol officers', municipal police officers', firefighters' unified, and judges' retirement systems, in which the substitution of the GABA in place of other benefits is not a clear benefit enhancement for all current members, it is the intent of the legislature that the members be provided with a thorough analysis of the benefits to be substituted so that members may individually and irrevocably elect whether to be covered under the provisions of this bill.

However, it is not the intent of the legislature that the retirement board or its administrative staff be required to recommend a specific or best choice to individual members.

It is the intent of the legislature that all future members of these systems be covered by the GABA in place of certain other benefits."

Case Notes

Disproportionate Employer Contributions to Retirement Plans — Defined Contribution, Defined Benefit Plans — No Substantive Due Process or Equal Protection Violation: The plaintiffs, all of whom were public employees participating in the state's defined contribution or university retirement plans (contribution plans), sued the Montana Public Employee Retirement Administration. The plaintiffs alleged that they were being treated differently from employees in the state's defined benefit plan because the percentage of their employer's contribution into their own individual plans was less than the percentage of employer contribution that went into the defined benefit plan trust. The District Court disagreed, noting that the plaintiffs all had chosen voluntarily between joining one of the contribution plans and joining the benefit plan and that they received the employer contribution they bargained for when they chose to join a contribution plan. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, ruling that the plaintiffs had received the flexibility to control their accounts in exchange for a lower contribution into their individual accounts and that their substantive due process rights had therefore not been violated. The amendment to this section made by sec. 3, Ch. 190, L. 2015, was rendered void by sec. 6, Ch. 190, L. 2015, a coordination instruction.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 170, L. 2015, provided: "WHEREAS, employer contributions equal to 2.37% of compensation for covered members in the Public Employees' Retirement System Defined Contribution Retirement Plan (PERS-DCRP) and the Montana University System Retirement Program (MUS-RP) are statutorily allocated to the Public Employees' Retirement System Defined Benefit Retirement Plan (PERS-DBRP) as the plan choice rate; and

WHEREAS, additional employer contributions equal to 0.37% of a member's compensation are also allocated to the plan choice rate and this percentage will increase by 0.1% each year through 2024; and

WHEREAS, the plan choice rate was established to pay the portion of the PERS-DBRP unfunded actuarial liabilities associated with PERS members who elected to join the PERS-DCRP rather than the PERS-DBRP plan and also to pay for any increase to the normal cost of benefits in the PERS-DBRP resulting from PERS members selecting the PERS-DCRP; and

WHEREAS, section 19-3-2121, MCA, requires that the plan choice rate be adjusted if it is actuarially determined to be too high or too low to pay off the associated unfunded actuarial liabilities within an established timeframe and if there is an actual change in the normal cost of benefits in the PERS-DBRP resulting from PERS members selecting the PERS-DCRP; and

WHEREAS, the normal cost of benefits in the PERS-DBRP has never significantly changed because of PERS members selecting the PERS-DCRP; and

WHEREAS, the Public Employees' Retirement Board's actuary determined that as of June 30, 2014, the unfunded actuarial liability associated with the plan choice rate is $5,903,188, and is estimated to be fully paid off within the next 2 to 3 years."

Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 390, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis" and that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 through 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery have resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Public Employees' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for members currently in the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to current system participants in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, the current and increasing level of unfunded liabilities has the potential to compromise the credit ratings of the state of Montana and of local government entities, including public school districts; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future participants alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, a reasonable increase in contributions for current participants is necessary to help return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed and enacted alternatives for returning the system to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, which have failed to reduce system costs enough to restore the system to actuarial soundness; and

WHEREAS, in light of significant strains on the Montana economy, on state and local government budgets, and on taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase of 1% imposed on current members, with an appropriate mechanism to terminate the supplemental contribution rate as system funding improves and in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is, pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment, reasonable and necessary, is for a valid public purpose, and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure that the retirement system is funded in an actuarially sound manner."

Case Notes

Disproportionate Employer Contributions to Retirement Plans — Defined Contribution, Defined Benefit Plans — No Substantive Due Process or Equal Protection Violation: The plaintiffs, all of whom were public employees participating in the state's defined contribution or university retirement plans (contribution plans), sued the Montana Public Employee Retirement Administration. The plaintiffs alleged that they were being treated differently from employees in the state's defined benefit plan because the percentage of their employer's contribution into their own individual plans was less than the percentage of employer contribution that went into the defined benefit plan trust. The District Court disagreed, noting that the plaintiffs all had chosen voluntarily between joining one of the contribution plans and joining the benefit plan and that they received the employer contribution they bargained for when they chose to join a contribution plan. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, ruling that the plaintiffs had received the flexibility to control their accounts in exchange for a lower contribution into their individual accounts and that their substantive due process rights had therefore not been violated. 1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 in (1), in first sentence after "call", inserted "for duty" and in third sentence, after "perform any", deleted "and all"; in (2), in four places, substituted "duty" for "service"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in (2), near beginning of first sentence after "service", deleted "as herein provided" and near end of second sentence substituted "retirement benefit" for "retirement allowance"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1983 Amendments: Chapter 256 deleted "temporary" before "service" in two places in (2).

Chapter 425 substituted, at beginning of (1), "Every judge or justice who has voluntarily retired after 8 years of service shall" for "Every judge or justice receiving retirement pay under the provisions of this chapter shall,"; near end of (2) inserted ", if any," after "the monthly retirement allowance the retired judge or justice is receiving".

1981 Amendment: Inserted "or any water court" in the first sentence; added "supreme court, district court, or water court, or to serve as water judge" at end of the first sentence.

Case Notes

District Court's Failure to Comply With Notice — No Violation of Due Process — Plaintiffs Had Actual Notice: The plaintiffs argued that the District Court did not provide them with proper notice of a retired judge's assumption of jurisdiction, in violation of both 3-1-804 and their constitutional right to due process, and that the retired judge therefore should have granted their motion for substitution. On appeal, the Supreme Court determined that the District Court failed to comply with either 3-1-804 or the Chief Justice's order by not serving on the plaintiffs' counsel notice of the retired judge's assumption of jurisdiction when the order was issued. However, the Supreme Court reasoned that this procedural irregularity did not prejudice the plaintiffs because they had actual notice of the retired judge's involvement in the case. The plaintiffs could not reasonably have concluded, based on these facts, that anyone other than the retired judge presided over their case. The court record at all relevant times clearly identified the retired judge as the presiding judge, and no other judge participated in any hearing or entered any rulings. The purpose of the notice rule in 3-1-804 is to ensure that parties are informed when a new judge assumes jurisdiction. As applied, the District Court's failure to comply with 3-1-804 did not prejudice the plaintiffs, because the plaintiffs had actual notice when the retired judge assumed jurisdiction in the case. Absent prejudice, the Supreme Court would not disturb the District Court's denial of the plaintiffs' motion for substitution. Labair v. Carey, 2017 MT 286, 389 Mont. 366, 405 P.3d 1284.

Retired Judge — Proper Authority of Appointed Interim Retired Replacement to Rule on Summary Judgment: A retired District Court Judge was directed by the Chief Justice of the Montana Supreme Court to assume temporary judicial authority over 16 of a retiring judge's pending cases. In addition, the Chief Justice ordered the judge to assume full judicial authority over all proceedings required by law. Pursuant to this direction, the District Court Judge had the proper authority to rule on a motion in a case outside of the 16 cases. Capital One, NA v. Guthrie, 2017 MT 75, 387 Mont. 147, 392 P.3d 158.

Appointed Retired Judge Subject to Substitution Under 3-1-804: The plaintiff filed a lawsuit in Lake County. The defendant moved for substitution under 3-1-804 and a second judge assumed jurisdiction. The second judge then requested a retired District Court Judge to preside over the case, who was appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. The plaintiff then moved to substitute the retired judge under 3-1-804. The judges then issued an order returning jurisdiction to the original judge or the Chief Justice. The petitioner sought supervisory control, arguing that 3-1-804 does not apply to sitting retired judges. The Supreme Court held that specific assignments of retired District Judges under 19-5-103 are contemplated by the language of 3-1-804. Cushman v. 20th Judicial District Court, 2015 MT 311, 381 Mont. 324, 360 P.3d 492.

Authority of Retired Judge to Decide Summary Judgment Motion When Ordered to Finish Preretirement Business: A retired District Court Judge was ordered by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, pursuant to this section, to be reactivated for the purpose of completing matters unfinished at the time of retirement, including the disposition of the present case. Based on that statutory authority and the Supreme Court order, the judge had authority to decide defendant's motion for summary judgment, to issue a related memorandum and order, and to enter final judgment. Walch v. Univ. of Mont., 260 M 496, 861 P2d 179, 50 St. Rep. 1186 (1993). See also Capital One, NA v. Guthrie, 2017 MT 75, 387 Mont. 147, 392 P.3d 158.

Appointment of Defeated District Judge: Judge Sykes, a retired judge who was defeated for reelection, was appointed by the Chief Justice to hear several cases. A party to one of the cases appealed the appointment of a defeated judge. The court held that Judge Sykes is a member of the "pool" of retired judges and can be called in by the Chief Justice to preside under the provisions of Art. VII, sec. 6, Mont. Const. Section 3-5-201, which requires District Judges to be elected, does not overcome the constitutional power given to the Chief Justice. Judge Sykes was not appointed pursuant to this section, and it is therefore not applicable. State ex rel. Welch v. District Court, 209 M 397, 680 P2d 327, 41 St. Rep. 783 (1984).

Judge's Reappointment to Finish Case Started Before Retirement: That trial Judge retired prior to his issuance of orders in the case at issue did not make the orders void. Under the decision in State ex rel. Wilcox & Bradley v. District Court, 678 P2d 209, 41 St. Rep. 397 (1984), the trial Judge had authority to perform all functions of an active District Judge, including the issuance of final orders and judgments. In re Pegg's Estate, 209 M 71, 680 P2d 316, 41 St. Rep. 558 (1984).

District Judge to Approve and Adopt Work of Retired Judge: In a case involving the question of whether or not retired judges may be called into service pursuant to Art. VII, sec. 6, Mont. Const., by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, those opposing the use of retired judges argued that under this section retired judges are not empowered to enter final judgment in a case. The Supreme Court noted that this section is a legislative grant of power and must yield to the constitutional grant of power. However, the court then found that this section and the constitutional provision address two situations, are mutually exclusive, and are not inconsistent. The court held that this section addresses the situation in which a District Judge needs help in legal research, the preparation of opinions, and preliminary matters. State ex rel. Wilcox v. District Court, 208 M 351, 678 P2d 209, 41 St. Rep. 397 (1984), followed in St. v. Holmes, 212 M 526, 687 P2d 662, 41 St. Rep. 1535 (1984).

Case Notes

1989 Retirement Benefit Increase Not Applicable to Judge Who Retired After Date of Enactment but Before Effective Date of Legislation: Gulbrandson was an active member of the judges' retirement system at the time of enactment of Ch. 664, L. 1989, which provided an increase in state funding to the system and an increase in retirement benefits for those years served by a judge after the 15th year. Implementation of the increase under this section was delayed until July 1, 1991. Gulbrandson voluntarily retired prior to the delayed effective date. The Supreme Court held that based on the plain meaning of the statute, Gulbrandson was not entitled to the increased retirement benefit upon his retirement prior to July 1, 1991. Denial of the benefit did not impair Gulbrandson's contract with the system in violation of Art. II, sec. 31, Mont. Const., because the statute affecting his contract at the time of retirement did not include the benefit increase. Moreover, denial of the benefit does not violate equal protection provisions of Art. II, sec. 4, Mont. Const., because although Ch. 664 effectively created two classes of retired judges, it operates equally upon those within each class. Nearly all such legislation creates classifications regarding applicability, benefits, and recipients of retirement benefits. The fact that some of the classifications are imperfect does not necessarily mandate a conclusion that they violate equal protection. Under the rational basis test, which is the proper test in this case, the legitimate government interest of encouraging judges with significant years of service to remain in service longer was met. Thus, the 1989 amendment to this section was not unreasonable or arbitrary or devoid of rational basis. Gulbrandson v. Carey, 272 M 494, 901 P2d 573, 52 St. Rep. 843 (1995), following Hughes v. Judges Retirement Bd., 282 NW 2d 160 (Mich. 1979), and distinguishing Leonard v. Seattle, 503 P2d 741 (Wash. 1972).

Attorney General's Opinions

Increased Retirement Allowance Prospective Only: The 1989 amendment to this section increasing the benefit allowance from 1% to 1.785%, which became effective July 1, 1991, was intended to encourage judges to remain on the bench rather than to benefit judges who had already retired. Therefore, absent a legislative implication of retroactivity, the increase did not apply retroactively to judges who retired prior to July 1, 1991, regardless of whether they retired before or after the date the amendment was enacted in 1989. 44 A.G. Op. 44 (1992).

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 near beginning substituted "member" for "contributor", substituted "service" for "employment", substituted "survivorship benefit" for "retirement allowance", before "beneficiary" inserted "designated", and substituted second sentence regarding survivorship benefit for former second sentence that read: "Such retirement allowance shall consist of:

Saving Clause: Section 100, Ch. 562, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 through 3] [19-2-1101, now repealed, 19-3-1605, 19-5-901, 19-6-710, 19-7-711, 19-8-1105, 19-9-1009, and 19-13-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to guarantee a minimum level of annual benefit increases for retired members and their contingent annuitants or survivors under each of the statewide public employee retirement systems. The legislature also intends to fund this guaranteed annual benefit adjustment (GABA) in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Because the GABA is intended to address the erosion of retirement benefits caused by inflation as cost-effectively as possible, it is the intent of the legislature that the guaranteed annual 1.5% minimum adjustment not begin until after the original benefit has been paid for at least 36 months.

Because it is most cost-effective to reduce current unfunded liabilities as well as to avoid future unfunded liabilities and to fund new benefits as they accrue, the bill provides that the GABA be substituted for other benefits in cases in which the GABA is as valuable or more valuable to members. The resulting actuarial savings will reduce the additional funding required for the GABA.

In the public employees', sheriffs', and game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement systems, all members will automatically be covered by the GABA provided for in this bill instead of the current postretirement adjustments based on investment earnings.

In the highway patrol officers', municipal police officers', firefighters' unified, and judges' retirement systems, in which the substitution of the GABA in place of other benefits is not a clear benefit enhancement for all current members, it is the intent of the legislature that the members be provided with a thorough analysis of the benefits to be substituted so that members may individually and irrevocably elect whether to be covered under the provisions of this bill. However, it is not the intent of the legislature that the retirement board or its administrative staff be required to recommend a specific or best choice to individual members.

It is the intent of the legislature that all future members of these systems be covered by the GABA in place of certain other benefits."

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 272, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis"; and

WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution also requires that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 and 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery has resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for current members of the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to the current system members in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and future employee contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future members alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, increased contributions for current and future members and reduced benefits for future members are necessary to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed a range of alternatives for returning all public employee retirement systems to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, but recent actuarial analysis continues to show that several of the systems, including the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System remain actuarially unsound; and

WHEREAS, due to significant strains on the Montana economy and taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase applied to current Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System members, phased in over a 4-year period, in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is reasonable and necessary pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is funded in an actuarially sound manner; and

WHEREAS, the defined benefit Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is integral to the successful recruitment and retention of qualified Montana highway patrol officers."

Chapter 193 near beginning after "A member" deleted "first employed by the Montana highway patrol on or before July 1, 1985"; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) A member first employed by the Montana highway patrol after July 1, 1985, is eligible to receive a service retirement benefit when the member has reached age 50, completed 20 years or more of membership service, and terminated service"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 3, 2001.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 deleted former (2) and (3) that read: "(2) A member eligible to receive a retirement benefit, as provided in subsection (1), shall apply in writing to the division.

(3) (a) Except as provided in subsection (3)(b), the retirement benefit may commence on the first day of the month following the member's last day of covered service or, if requested by the inactive member in writing, on the first day of the month following receipt of the written application.

(b) The retirement benefit for an eligible member who has terminated service must commence no later than the first day of the month following the member's 60th birthday"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 throughout section substituted references to service retirement benefit or retirement benefit for references to service retirement allowance or retirement allowance; at end of (1)(a) substituted "membership service and terminating service" for "creditable service and terminating covered employment"; at end of (1)(b) substituted "membership service, and terminated service" for "creditable service, and terminated covered employment"; in (2), at end, substituted "division" for "department"; in (3)(a) substituted "covered service" for "covered employment" and substituted "inactive member" for "terminated member"; in (3)(b) substituted "member who has terminated service" for "terminated member"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1989 Amendment: At end of (1)(a) and (1)(b) inserted clause referring to termination of covered employment; at end of (2), after "department", deleted "setting forth at what time he desires to be retired, which may not be less than 30 days or more than 90 days subsequent to the filing thereof"; at beginning of (3)(a) inserted exception clause, after "allowance" substituted "may" for "must", and near middle, after "employment", inserted "or, if requested by the terminated member in writing, on the first day of the month following receipt of the written application"; inserted (3)(b) that read: "(b) The retirement allowance for an eligible terminated member must commence no later than the first day of the month following the member's 60th birthday"; and made minor changes in phraseology and punctuation. Amendment effective March 20, 1989.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 19, Ch. 196, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to persons who were members of the retirement systems on or after January 1, 1989."

1985 Amendment: Substituted language of (1) and (2) (see 1985 Session Law for text) for former (1) that read: "A member in service who has completed at least 20 years of creditable service may retire on a service retirement allowance upon written application to the department setting forth at what time he desires to be retired, not less than 30 days or more than 90 days subsequent to the filing thereof."

1983 Amendment: Inserted (2) specifying date of commencement of retirement allowance.

1981 Amendment: In (1), reduced the minimum creditable service requirement for retirement on a service retirement allowance from 25 years to 20 years.

WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution also requires that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 and 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery has resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for current members of the system; and

(2) The amount of the service retirement allowance must equal 2.5% of his final salary for each year of creditable service." Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1991 Amendment: In (2) increased allowance from 2% of final salary to 2.5% of final salary; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

Attorney General's Opinions

Involuntary Retirement: This section, prior to the 1985 amendments, had to be interpreted to the effect that a patrolman who was discontinued from service, not voluntarily, after having completed 10 years of service but before reaching age 60, could elect to take either of the following as his retirement allowance: (a) the full amount of accumulated deductions standing to his credit; or (b) the actuarial equivalent of the accrued portion of the service retirement allowance which would have been payable to him commencing at age 60, pursuant to the following section, had he not discontinued service. Retirement allowances heretofore granted under an erroneous interpretation must stand unchanged by this subsequent reinterpretation. 36 A.G. Op. 24 (1975).

Contingent Voidness: Section 10, Ch. 258, L. 2015, provided: "(1) The public employees' retirement board shall, as soon as possible, request in writing a ruling or determination from the commissioner of internal revenue as to whether the deferred retirement option plan established pursuant to [sections 1 through 8] [Title 19, chapter 6, part 10] constitutes a qualified plan pursuant to section 401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. The board shall notify the secretary of state and the code commissioner when the commissioner of internal revenue has issued a ruling or determination.

(2) If the internal revenue service ruling or determination is not favorable, [this act] is void." In a letter dated September 29, 2016, certification was received that the internal revenue service has determined that the deferred retirement option plan constitutes a qualified plan.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 258 in (3) following "provided in" inserted reference to 19-6-1007 and subsection (4); inserted (4) relating to deferred retirement option plan; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2015, and void on occurrence of contingency.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 272 in (1) inserted "for members hired before July 1, 2013". Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 272, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis"; and

WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution also requires that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 and 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery has resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for current members of the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to the current system members in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and future employee contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future members alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, increased contributions for current and future members and reduced benefits for future members are necessary to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed a range of alternatives for returning all public employee retirement systems to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, but recent actuarial analysis continues to show that several of the systems, including the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System remain actuarially unsound; and

WHEREAS, due to significant strains on the Montana economy and taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase applied to current Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System members, phased in over a 4-year period, in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is reasonable and necessary pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is funded in an actuarially sound manner; and

WHEREAS, the defined benefit Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is integral to the successful recruitment and retention of qualified Montana highway patrol officers."

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 through 3] [19-2-1101, now repealed, 19-3-1605, 19-5-901, 19-6-710, 19-7-711, 19-8-1105, 19-9-1009, and 19-13-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to guarantee a minimum level of annual benefit increases for retired members and their contingent annuitants or survivors under each of the statewide public employee retirement systems. The legislature also intends to fund this guaranteed annual benefit adjustment (GABA) in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Because the GABA is intended to address the erosion of retirement benefits caused by inflation as cost-effectively as possible, it is the intent of the legislature that the guaranteed annual 1.5% minimum adjustment not begin until after the original benefit has been paid for at least 36 months.

Because it is most cost-effective to reduce current unfunded liabilities as well as to avoid future unfunded liabilities and to fund new benefits as they accrue, the bill provides that the GABA be substituted for other benefits in cases in which the GABA is as valuable or more valuable to members. The resulting actuarial savings will reduce the additional funding required for the GABA.

In the public employees', sheriffs', and game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement systems, all members will automatically be covered by the GABA provided for in this bill instead of the current postretirement adjustments based on investment earnings.

In the highway patrol officers', municipal police officers', firefighters' unified, and judges' retirement systems, in which the substitution of the GABA in place of other benefits is not a clear benefit enhancement for all current members, it is the intent of the legislature that the members be provided with a thorough analysis of the benefits to be substituted so that members may individually and irrevocably elect whether to be covered under the provisions of this bill.

However, it is not the intent of the legislature that the retirement board or its administrative staff be required to recommend a specific or best choice to individual members.

It is the intent of the legislature that all future members of these systems be covered by the GABA in place of certain other benefits."

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 272, L. 2013, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution requires that "Public retirement systems shall be funded on an actuarially sound basis"; and

WHEREAS, Article VIII, section 15, of the Montana Constitution also requires that "Public retirement system assets, including income and actuarially required contributions, shall not be encumbered, diverted, reduced, or terminated and shall be held in trust to provide benefits to participants and their beneficiaries and to defray administrative expenses"; and

WHEREAS, the unprecedented collapse of the financial markets in 2008 and 2009 and the subsequent slow rate of economic recovery has resulted in little or no prospect that current statutory contribution rates together with future market returns will be sufficient to fund the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System on an actuarially sound basis, and current contributions remain insufficient to pay the past and future accruals of retirement benefits for current members of the system; and

WHEREAS, failure to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding places the benefits to be paid to the current system members in jeopardy and results in collection of employee contributions for which future benefits may not be guaranteed; and

WHEREAS, because reasonable increases in employer contributions and future employee contributions and reasonable reductions in benefits for future members alone will not be sufficient to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding, increased contributions for current and future members and reduced benefits for future members are necessary to return the system to a position of actuarially sound funding; and

WHEREAS, during the past two legislative sessions and interims, the Legislature, interim committees, the retirement system board and staff, and the Governor's office have analyzed a range of alternatives for returning all public employee retirement systems to a position of actuarially sound funding without raising contract impairment issues for current members, but recent actuarial analysis continues to show that several of the systems, including the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System remain actuarially unsound; and

WHEREAS, due to significant strains on the Montana economy and taxpayers, a modest supplemental contribution rate increase applied to current Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System members, phased in over a 4-year period, in conjunction with additional employer and state contributions, is reasonable and necessary pursuant to the language of U.S. Trust Company of New York v. New Jersey, 431 U.S. 1 (1977), concerning contract impairment and is the least impairing alternative available to the Legislature as it seeks to fulfill its constitutional obligation to ensure the Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is funded in an actuarially sound manner; and

WHEREAS, the defined benefit Highway Patrol Officers' Retirement System is integral to the successful recruitment and retention of qualified Montana highway patrol officers."

It is the intent of the legislature that only full-time, professional law enforcement officers be eligible for membership in the sheriffs' retirement system. Because persons without the requisite training and salary required to be paid to deputy sheriffs have been erroneously reported to the sheriffs' retirement system in the past, it is the intent of this bill to require the board to adopt rules that will reflect up-to-date training and salary requirements for appointed deputy sheriffs acting in a professional law enforcement capacity.

The legislature intends that persons employed in the following positions and who are not permanent, full-time law enforcement officers employed by county sheriffs not be eligible for membership in this retirement system: jailers; communications officers; other administrative, clerical, or support personnel; and other persons deputized to act as reserve deputies."

Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 162 in (1), after "A member", deleted "initially elected or appointed before July 1, 1989" and substituted "20 years" for "24 years"; and deleted (1)(b), which allowed a member elected or appointed on or after July 1, 1989, with at least 24 years of service and who was 50 or more years old to retire on a service retirement benefit. 1985 Amendment: In (1) near beginning after "of any", deleted "member's", and after "allowance" inserted "granted to a member with 25 years or less of creditable service"; in (2), after "years of service by", substituted "1.35% of his final salary for each year of creditable service in excess of 25 years of service, up to a maximum of 60% of his final salary" for "an annuity calculated as twice the actuarial equivalent of the portion of the member's accumulated deductions arising from contributions after the completion of 25 years of service"; and inserted (3) providing for refund of excess contributions in certain cases.

Disability Retirement Benefits Not Divisible Marital Estate Assets: In a dissolution of marriage proceeding, the parties disagreed about whether the husband's Sheriffs' Retirement System disability benefits should be considered a divisible marital asset. The District Court determined that the income was a divisible marital asset, reasoning that the income was similar to a normal retirement benefit representing deferred compensation for work previously performed during the marriage, and it apportioned the income between the parties on a 50-50 basis. The Supreme Court reversed, finding that the disability retirement benefits were intended to replace future employment income that had been lost due to the disability. Because postdissolution earnings are not part of the marital assets, the Supreme Court found that this income had been improperly included by the District Court. The Supreme Court noted that the disability retirement benefits could be relevant in a determination of whether spousal maintenance was appropriate and directed the District Court to consider this factor on remand. 1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 through 3] [19-2-1101, now repealed, 19-3-1605, 19-5-901, 19-6-710, 19-7-711, 19-8-1105, 19-9-1009, and 19-13-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to guarantee a minimum level of annual benefit increases for retired members and their contingent annuitants or survivors under each of the statewide public employee retirement systems. The legislature also intends to fund this guaranteed annual benefit adjustment (GABA) in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Because the GABA is intended to address the erosion of retirement benefits caused by inflation as cost-effectively as possible, it is the intent of the legislature that the guaranteed annual 1.5% minimum adjustment not begin until after the original benefit has been paid for at least 36 months.

Because it is most cost-effective to reduce current unfunded liabilities as well as to avoid future unfunded liabilities and to fund new benefits as they accrue, the bill provides that the GABA be substituted for other benefits in cases in which the GABA is as valuable or more valuable to members. The resulting actuarial savings will reduce the additional funding required for the GABA.

In the public employees', sheriffs', and game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement systems, all members will automatically be covered by the GABA provided for in this bill instead of the current postretirement adjustments based on investment earnings.

In the highway patrol officers', municipal police officers', firefighters' unified, and judges' retirement systems, in which the substitution of the GABA in place of other benefits is not a clear benefit enhancement for all current members, it is the intent of the legislature that the members be provided with a thorough analysis of the benefits to be substituted so that members may individually and irrevocably elect whether to be covered under the provisions of this bill. However, it is not the intent of the legislature that the retirement board or its administrative staff be required to recommend a specific or best choice to individual members.

It is the intent of the legislature that all future members of these systems be covered by the GABA in place of certain other benefits."

Effective Date: Section 40, Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided that this section is effective July 1, 1997.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 in (3) deleted fifth sentence that read: "The combined benefit may not exceed 60% of the member's final salary or final average salary." Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

Case Notes

Retirement Under Consolidated Government — Benefits From Last System to Which Contributed: Plaintiff retired as a law enforcement officer from Butte-Silver Bow. Prior to the city-county consolidation, he was a Deputy Sheriff. When he retired and applied for benefits, the State calculated options to be offered him under 19-7-701 (renumbered 19-7-1001), the Sheriffs' Retirement System. Plaintiff contended he was entitled to benefits under 19-9-804 and 19-9-911 (renumbered 19-9-1101) of the Police Officers' Retirement System. All parties agreed that eligibility was determined under 19-7-308(1) (renumbered 19-7-801(1)). The Supreme Court held that the statutory provisions are clear and unambiguous. In such a case, rules of statutory construction have no application, so that the court gave no deference to the agency's interpretation. The dispute centered around 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) and whether it merely determines which laws govern eligibility for death benefits or also which laws govern calculation of death benefits. The court held that under 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) death benefits are calculated according to the provisions of the system to which the officer last made contributions. The codification instruction placing 19-7-308 (renumbered 19-7-801) under the provisions of the Sheriffs' Retirement System was only for ease of reference as between the systems. Death benefits are calculable and payable under the Police Officers' Retirement System. (See 2001 amendment.) Bay v. St., 212 M 258, 688 P2d 1, 41 St. Rep. 1725 (1984).

Case Notes

Retirement Under Consolidated Government — Benefits From Last System to Which Contributed: Plaintiff retired as a law enforcement officer from Butte-Silver Bow. Prior to the city-county consolidation, he was a Deputy Sheriff. When he retired and applied for benefits, the State calculated options to be offered him under 19-7-701 (renumbered 19-7-1001), the Sheriffs' Retirement System. Plaintiff contended he was entitled to benefits under 19-9-804 and 19-9-911 (renumbered 19-9-1101) of the Police Officers' Retirement System. All parties agreed that eligibility was determined under 19-7-308(1) (renumbered 19-7-801(1)). The Supreme Court held that the statutory provisions are clear and unambiguous. In such a case, rules of statutory construction have no application, so that the court gave no deference to the agency's interpretation. The dispute centered around 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) and whether it merely determines which laws govern eligibility for death benefits or also which laws govern calculation of death benefits. The court held that under 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) death benefits are calculated according to the provisions of the system to which the officer last made contributions. The codification instruction placing 19-7-308 (renumbered 19-7-801) under the provisions of the Sheriffs' Retirement System was only for ease of reference as between the systems. Death benefits are calculable and payable under the Police Officers' Retirement System. Bay v. St., 212 M 258, 688 P2d 1, 41 St. Rep. 1725 (1984).

Attorney General's Opinions

Contractual Obligations of Employer to Increase Contributions: Employee contributions to the Montana State Game Wardens' (now Game Wardens' and Peace Officers') Retirement System cannot be increased unless benefits which will accrue to members at retirement are increased; however, the state, through legislation, may increase the employer contributions without any increase in benefits which will accrue to members at retirement. 35 A.G. 2005 Amendment: Chapter 329 substituted first sentence providing what an employer must contribute for "Each month, state employers shall pay to the pension trust fund a sum equal to 9% of the total compensation paid to their covered employees." Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

1997 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 223 near beginning substituted "state employers" for "state treasurer", after "trust fund" deleted "out of the department of fish, wildlife, and parks funds", and at end substituted "the total compensation paid to their covered employees" for "all members' salaries". Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Chapter 287 increased required state contribution monthly rate from "8.15%" to "9%". Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Chapter 532 inserted second sentence requiring a departmental funding request to defray the state's costs of implementing this section. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

The codifier has chosen to codify the last sentence although it was plainly intended to refer only to game wardens who are employees of the Department of Fish, Wildlife, and Parks.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 509 at beginning deleted "To fund the employer's portion of the normal cost of benefits under this chapter" and substituted "8.15%" for "7.15%"; deleted (1)(b) that read: "(b) out of funds collected as fines and forfeited bonds under the provisions of 87-1-601(1) through (5) or funds distributed under 3-10-601(4), an amount equal to 1% of all members' salaries"; deleted (2) that read: "(2) In addition to the contributions provided in subsection (1), the state treasurer shall pay to the pension trust fund the balance of the funds distributed to the fish and game account pursuant to 3-10-601 until the unfunded liability in the pension trust fund is fully paid and a verification statement to that effect is given to the state treasurer by the board"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

1993 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 265 in three places substituted "pension trust fund" for "account", near middle substituted "collections must be paid" for "collections are statutorily appropriated", and near end substituted "is paid" for "is solvent"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Chapter 450 at beginning of introductory clause of (1) inserted "To fund the employer's portion of the normal cost of benefits under this chapter" and at end substituted "pension trust fund" for "account"; in (1)(a) and in two places in (1)(b) substituted "funds" for "moneys"; at end of (1)(b) substituted "an amount equal to 1% of all members' salaries" for "all such collections are statutorily appropriated to the account"; at beginning of (2) inserted "In addition to the contributions provided in subsection (1), the state treasurer shall pay to the pension trust fund the balance of the funds distributed to the fish and game account pursuant to 3-10-601" and near middle substituted "fully paid" for "solvent"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

The Ch. 265 substitution of "collections must be paid" for "collections are statutorily appropriated" in (1)(b) was rendered meaningless by the Ch. 450 amendment.

1993 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 450, L. 1993, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [section 2] [19-8-1110(4), now repealed] gives the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules to implement the cost-of-living adjustment provided in the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to provide a one-time ad hoc cost-of-living adjustment to each member of the game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement system who has been retired for 5 years or more, to the member's beneficiary, or to the member's contingent annuitant. The cost of the adjustment will be paid by increasing the amortization period of the system's unfunded liabilities.

It is further the intent of the legislature that the proposed statutory retirement committee established in House Bill No. 65 be assigned by the legislative council to develop legislation providing an equitable guaranteed annual benefit adjustment for each of Montana's statewide public retirement systems and that the legislation be presented to the 54th legislature for consideration. It is further the intent of the legislature that the cost of holding hearings and developing the legislation be paid by retirement systems and donations from public employee and retiree associations."

Coordination: Section 7, Ch. 450, L. 1993, provided: "If Senate Bill No. 203 is not passed and approved, then [this act] is void." Senate Bill No. 203 was passed and approved as Ch. 367, L. 1993; therefore, Ch. 450, L. 1993, is valid.

1991 Amendment: Near middle inserted reference to subsections (1) through (5) of 87-1-601. Amendment effective March 1, 1992.

Applicability: Section 22, Ch. 609, L. 1991, provided: "On passage and approval of [this act], the board of land commissioners shall commence proceedings to adopt rules to be effective March 1, 1992. The department of state lands [functions transferred to department of natural resources and conservation] and the department of fish, wildlife, and parks shall commence proceedings and arrangements necessary to establish a recreational use license to be effective March 1, 1992." Approved April 24, 1991.

1987 Amendment: Near middle, after "87-1-601", inserted "or moneys distributed under 3-10-601(4)".

1985 Amendment: Near middle of section, after "all such collections", inserted "are statutorily appropriated to the account".

1981 Amendment: Changed state's contribution from 7% to 7.15%.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 240 in (1) inserted introductory clause; in (1)(a) substituted "and files" for "has attained normal retirement age and may retire with a service retirement benefit by filing"; in (1)(b) after "service" substituted "and applies to" for "may" and at end deleted "and filing a written application with the board"; inserted (2) concerning nonforfeitable right to service retirement; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 22, 2013.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 99 inserted (2) regarding receipt of service retirement benefit by certain vested members; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2011.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 99 at beginning after "A member" deleted "in service", near middle after "50 years" substituted "has attained normal retirement age and" for "and terminated service", and at end after "retirement benefit" substituted "by filing a written application with the board" for "upon written application to the board"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 21, 2001.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 deleted (2) that read: "(2) (a) Except as provided in subsection (2)(b), the retirement benefit may commence on the first day of the month following the member's last day of service or, if requested by the inactive member in writing, on the first day of the month following receipt of the written application.

(b) The retirement benefit for an eligible inactive member must commence no later than the first day of the month following the member's 60th birthday"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in three places substituted "retirement benefit" for "retirement allowance"; in (1) substituted "membership service" for "creditable service" and substituted "terminated service" for "terminated covered employment"; in (2)(a) substituted "last day of service" for "last day of covered employment" and substituted "inactive member" for "terminated member"; in (2)(b) substituted "inactive member" for "terminated member"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1989 Amendment: In (1), after "service", deleted "and who has", after "50 years" inserted "and terminated covered employment", and at end, after "board", deleted "setting forth at what time, not less than 30 days or more than 90 days subsequent to the filing thereof, he desires to be retired"; at beginning of (2)(a) inserted exception clause, after "allowance" substituted "may" for "must", and after "employment" inserted "or, if requested by the terminated member in writing, on the first day of the month following receipt of the written application'; and inserted (2)(b) that read: "(b) The retirement allowance for an eligible terminated member must commence no later than the first day of the month following the member's 60th birthday"; and made minor changes in phraseology and punctuation. Amendment effective March 20, 1989.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 19, Ch. 196, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to persons who were members of the retirement systems on or after January 1, 1989."

1985 Amendments: Chapter 249 in (1) changed "55" to "50". Chapters 249 and 86 deleted former (2) that read: "Retirement shall be compulsory at age 60."

1983 Amendment: Inserted (3) specifying date of commencement of retirement allowance.

1981 Amendment: In (1) decreased number of years service needed from 25 years to 20 years.

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 592, L. 1981, provided: "The amendments made by sections 2, 3, and 4 of this act apply only to persons who join the retirement system following the effective date of this act." Effective October 1, 1981.

Case Notes

Original Action Involving Interpretation of Statute Allowed Without Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies: Game warden mandatorily retired under 19-8-601 lost a complaint proceeding before the Montana Commission for Human Rights, did not pursue further administrative remedies, and brought a District Court action to declare the statute invalid. The exhaustion of administrative remedies doctrine did not preclude redress, because: (1) the court action was an original action and not a judicial review of an administrative action, and (2) the Commission ruling was an interpretation of law that must be made by the judiciary. Taylor v. Dept. of Fish, Wildlife, & Parks, 205 M 85, 666 P2d 1228, 40 St. Rep. 1112 (1983). (See the 1985 amendment note to this section. The amendment deleted the compulsory retirement provision.)

Valid Reason for Mandatory Retirement — Legislative, Not Judicial Task: Since compulsory game warden (now game wardens' and peace officers') retirement statute contained no qualifications or justification, it would be in excess of the authority of a court hearing a warden's suit challenging the statute's validity to hold a factfinding hearing to determine whether there was a basis for the age discrimination grounded in the reasonable demands of the position. Such a determination is a legislative function; the effort would be great; and the Legislature, not the courts, has the resources for such an undertaking. Taylor v. Dept. of Fish, Wildlife, & Parks, 205 M 85, 666 P2d 1228, 40 St. Rep. 1112 (1983). (See the 1985 amendment note to this section. The amendment deleted the compulsory retirement provision.)

Mandatory Game Warden Retirement Without Exception or Justification — Impliedly Repealed: Sections 49-2-303 and 49-3-201, making it unlawful for an employer to refuse employment or discriminate against an employee because of his age when the reasonable demands of the position do not require an age distinction and requiring state officials and personnel to recruit, appoint, treat, and promote personnel without regard to age, being later enacted statutes than the provision of 19-8-601 requiring compulsory retirement of game wardens at age 60, impliedly repealed the retirement provision in order to effectuate the clear intent of the Legislature to prevent all age discrimination in employment unless age is related to job performance. The antidiscrimination statutes are very broad prohibitions with very limited exceptions and indicate legislative intent to abolish all discrimination in employment except under the most limited circumstances. Furthermore, there must be justification for any age discrimination to bring it within the purview of a Title 49 exception to the antidiscrimination prohibitions, and the exceptions will be strictly construed. The game warden (now game wardens' and peace officers') retirement statute contains no justification or qualification. Taylor v. Dept. of Fish, Wildlife, & Parks, 205 M 85, 666 P2d 1228, 40 St. Rep. 1112 (1983), distinguished in Ross v. Great Falls, 1998 MT 276, 291 M 377, 967 P2d 1103, 55 St. Rep. 1127 (1998). (See the 1985 amendment note to this section. The amendment deleted the compulsory retirement provision.)

Compliance With Federal Law — Age Discrimination Act Inapplicable: Validity of this section's provision (as it read prior to 1985 amendment) that "retirement shall be compulsory at age 60" did not depend upon whether the classification of persons over 60 is a reasonable one under the terms of the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, for Congress, in the exercise of its power under the Commerce Clause, may not regulate the working conditions of state employees engaged in purely governmental functions, and the federal act was enacted under the Commerce Clause. 1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 through 3] [19-2-1101, now repealed, 19-3-1605, 19-5-901, 19-6-710, 19-7-711, 19-8-1105, 19-9-1009, and 19-13-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to guarantee a minimum level of annual benefit increases for retired members and their contingent annuitants or survivors under each of the statewide public employee retirement systems. The legislature also intends to fund this guaranteed annual benefit adjustment (GABA) in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Because the GABA is intended to address the erosion of retirement benefits caused by inflation as cost-effectively as possible, it is the intent of the legislature that the guaranteed annual 1.5% minimum adjustment not begin until after the original benefit has been paid for at least 36 months.

Because it is most cost-effective to reduce current unfunded liabilities as well as to avoid future unfunded liabilities and to fund new benefits as they accrue, the bill provides that the GABA be substituted for other benefits in cases in which the GABA is as valuable or more valuable to members. The resulting actuarial savings will reduce the additional funding required for the GABA.

In the public employees', sheriffs', and game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement systems, all members will automatically be covered by the GABA provided for in this bill instead of the current postretirement adjustments based on investment earnings.

In the highway patrol officers', municipal police officers', firefighters' unified, and judges' retirement systems, in which the substitution of the GABA in place of other benefits is not a clear benefit enhancement for all current members, it is the intent of the legislature that the members be provided with a thorough analysis of the benefits to be substituted so that members may individually and irrevocably elect whether to be covered under the provisions of this bill. However, it is not the intent of the legislature that the retirement board or its administrative staff be required to recommend a specific or best choice to individual members.

It is the intent of the legislature that all future members of these systems be covered by the GABA in place of certain other benefits."

(3) A member who terminates service after completing at least 5 years of membership service but prior to completing 20 years of membership service is eligible to receive a service retirement benefit when the member has reached 50 years of age." Amendment effective March 21, 2001.

1997 Amendments: Chapter 250 in (3) substituted "5 years" for "10 years"; and in (4)(b) substituted "no earlier than" for "no later than" and substituted "50th birthday" for "55th birthday" (voided by Ch. 370 amendment). Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Chapter 370 deleted (4) that read: "(4) (a) Except as provided in subsection (4)(b), the retirement benefit may commence on the first day of the month following the member's minimum retirement date or, if requested by the inactive member in writing, on the first day of the month following receipt of the written application.

(b) The retirement benefit for an eligible inactive member must commence no later than the first day of the month following the member's 55th birthday." Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

Section Not Codified: Section 6, Ch. 250, L. 1997, provided: "The provisions of [this act] expressly supersede and modify the requirements of 1-2-112 through 1-2-116."

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in (1), after "retirement", deleted "and shall retire"; in (2), after "A member", deleted "employed by an employer as a police officer", after "retirement" substituted "benefit" for "allowance", substituted "membership service" for "qualified service", and at end, after "terminated", substituted "service" for "covered employment"; in (3), after "terminates", substituted "service" for "employment as a police officer with an employer", in two places substituted "membership service" for "qualified service", and substituted "retirement benefit" for "retirement allowance"; in (4)(a) substituted reference to subsection (4)(b) for reference to subsection (3)(b), substituted "retirement benefit" for "retirement allowance", and substituted "inactive member" for "terminated member"; in (4)(b) substituted "retirement benefit" for "retirement allowance" and substituted "inactive member" for "terminated member"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1991 Amendments: Chapter 178 near end of (1) and (2), after "20 years or more", substituted "of qualified service" for "in the aggregate as a probationary officer, a regular officer, or a special officer, in any capacity or rank". Amendment effective March 26, 1991.

Chapter 631 in (1), after "police officer", deleted "on July 1, 1975"; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) A member who was or is first employed by an employer as a police officer after July 1, 1975, is eligible to receive a service retirement allowance when he has reached the age of 50, has completed 20 years or more in the aggregate as a probationary officer, a regular officer, or a special officer, in any capacity or rank, and has terminated covered employment"; in (3)(a) changed subsection reference; and made minor change in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

Section 2, Ch. 822, near middle of (1) substituted "20 years or more of qualified service" for "20 years or more in the aggregate as a probationary officer, a regular officer, or a special officer, in any capacity or rank"; and in (3)(a), near middle after "following the member's", substituted "minimum retirement date" for "last day of membership service". Section 9, Ch. 822, a coordination instruction, in (1), after "officer", deleted "on July 1, 1975"; and in (2) substituted "A member who terminates employment as a police officer with an employer after completing at least 10 years of qualified service but prior to completing 20 years of qualified service is eligible to receive a service retirement allowance when he has reached 50 years of age" for "A member who was or is first employed by an employer as a police officer after July 1, 1975, is eligible to receive a service retirement allowance when he has reached the age of 50, has completed 20 years or more in the aggregate as a probationary officer, a regular officer, or a special officer, in any capacity or rank, and has terminated covered employment". Amendments effective July 1, 1991.

Composite Section: The Code Commissioner has codified the version of subsection (2) of this section found in sec. 9, Ch. 822, L. 1991, that contains the substance of the changes made to subsection (2) of this section by sec. 3, Ch. 178, L. 1991.

1989 Amendment: At end of (1) and (2) inserted "and has terminated covered employment"; at beginning of (3)(a) inserted exception clause, after "allowance" substituted "may" for "must", and at end, after "service", inserted "or, if requested by the terminated member in writing, on the first day of the month following receipt of the written application"; inserted (3)(b) that read: "(b) The retirement allowance for an eligible terminated member must commence no later than the first day of the month following the member's 55th birthday"; and made minor changes in punctuation and phraseology. Amendment effective March 20, 1989.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 19, Ch. 196, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to persons who were members of the retirement systems on or after January 1, 1989."

1985 Amendment: Deleted former (3) that read: "Police officers, whether first employed before or after July 1, 1975, who reach the age of 65 while in active service shall retire."

1983 Amendment: Inserted (4) specifying date of commencement of retirement allowance.

Attorney General's Opinions

Clarification of Police Service Retirement: The language of 19-9-802(2) (now repealed) requires a police officer hired after July 1, 1975, to remain an officer each additional year between his 20th year of service and his reaching the age of 50 in order to be eligible for service retirement. (See 1991 amendments.) 43 A.G. Op. 20 (1989).

19-9-804. Amount of service retirement benefit — continuation of benefit after death of member.

Compiler's Comments

2005 Amendment: Chapter 329 in (2)(b) in second sentence near beginning substituted "paid pursuant to 19-2-803" for "made to the child's appointed guardian for the child's use"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

1993 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 265 substituted (1) that read: "(1) A member with at least 20 years of membership service must receive a retirement benefit equal to the sum of:

(a) 2.5% of the member's final average compensation for each year of service credit up to and including 20 years; and

(b) 1% of the member's final average compensation for each year of service credit after 20 years" (not codified — see compiler's comment) for former (1) through (3) that read: "(1) A police officer with 20 years of qualified service who is eligible under 19-9-801 and does not elect to serve any additional years as an active police officer shall receive a service retirement allowance equal to one-half his final average salary.

(2) A police officer who is eligible for service retirement under 19-9-801 after 20 years of qualified service and who elects to serve additional years shall receive the allowance provided for in subsection (1) plus an additional 1% of his final average salary for each year of additional qualified service, up to a maximum of 60% of his final average salary.

(3) A member who is eligible for service retirement under 19-9-801 with less than 20 years of qualified service shall receive a retirement allowance equal to 2.5% of his final average salary for each year of qualified service"; inserted (2) regarding limitation on total monthly benefit (not codified — see compiler's comment); inserted (3) regarding amount of retirement benefit for member retiring with less than 20 years of membership service (not codified — see compiler's comment); in (2), throughout subsection, substituted references to member for references to police officer or officer; in (2)(a) substituted "retirement benefit under subsection (1)" for "retirement allowance under subsection (1) or (2)", before "fund" inserted "pension trust", substituted "a benefit equal to" for "a sum equal to", and at end substituted "final average compensation" for "final average salary"; in (2)(b) substituted "service retirement benefit" for "service retirement allowance", before "fund" inserted "pension trust", substituted "a benefit equal to" for "a sum equal to", and substituted "benefit" for "allowance"; in (4)(c), near end of first sentence after "dependent", inserted "child" (not codified — see compiler's comment); and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Chapter 522 deleted former (1) providing for 20-year service retirement (see 1993 Session Law for text); deleted former (2) providing for 20-year service retirement and additional qualified service retirement (see 1993 Session Law for text); in (1), after "under 19-9-801", deleted "with less than 20 years of qualified service"; in (4)(a), after "benefit", inserted "based on at least 20 years of service" and in (2)(b), after "allowance", inserted "based on less than 20 years of service" ((4) amendments rendered meaningless by deletion of sentence by Ch. 265); and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Chapter 620 in (2)(a), after "(2)", inserted "or (3)" (this amendment was not codified by the codifier due to Ch. 265 amendments) and after "equal to" deleted former language that read: "one-half of the officer's final average salary.

(b) Upon the death of a member receiving a service retirement allowance under subsection (3), his surviving spouse, if there is one, shall receive from the fund a sum equal to"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 7, 1993.

Compiler's Comment: Chapter 265 contained an introductory phrase that read: "(1) A member with at least 20 years of membership service must receive a retirement benefit equal to the sum of".

Chapter 522 contained an introductory phrase that read: "(1) A member who is eligible for service retirement under 19-9-801 must receive a retirement allowance equal to . . . ."

Because both chapters struck the introductory language of the other, thereby rendering the introductory phrase meaningless, the compiler has combined the language into the current introductory phrase to reflect the apparent intent of both chapters.

The insertion of (1)(a) and (1)(b) by Ch. 265 was parallel to former (2). The provision in (1)(b) concerning 1% for years of service in excess of 20 was not codified because that provision was deleted by Ch. 522. Chapter 265 apparently did not intend to make a substantive change in benefits. The compiler has not codified the inserted benefit language from Ch. 265 because that concept was deleted by Ch. 522.

The compiler has codified the apparent intent of the three chapters.

Style and gender neutral changes throughout the section were slightly different in the three chapters. In each case, the codifier chose the most appropriate of the three.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 6, Ch. 620, L. 1993, provided: "[Section 3] [19-9-804] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to benefits paid on or after July 1, 1975."

1991 Amendments: Chapter 631 in (1) deleted subsection references to 19-9-801. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

Section 4, Ch. 822, in (1), near beginning after "police officer", inserted "with 20 years of qualified service"; in (2), near beginning after "retirement", inserted "under subsection (1) or (2) of 19-9-801", substituted "after 20 years of qualified service" for "after 20 years of service", and near end substituted "additional qualified service" for "additional service"; inserted (3) regarding retirement allowance for member with less than 20 years of qualified service; in (4)(a), near beginning after "allowance under", substituted "subsection (1) or (2)" for "this section"; and inserted (4)(b) concerning surviving spouse receiving amount equal to officer's allowance at time of death. Section 9, Ch. 822, a coordination instruction, in (1), (2), and (3) deleted subsection references to 19-9-801. Amendments effective July 1, 1991.

1989 Amendments: Chapter 63 in first sentence of (3), after "shall", deleted "for as long as the spouse remains unmarried" and in second sentence, after "the death", deleted "or remarriage". Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

Chapter 196 near middle of (2), after "1% of", substituted "his final average salary for each year" for "such allowance per year"; and made minor change in phraseology. Amendment effective March 20, 1989.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 8, Ch. 63, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to surviving spouses who remarry on or after January 1, 1989."

Section 19, Ch. 196, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to

1985 Amendments: Chapter 86 near middle of (1), after "police officer", deleted "or who is retired under 19-9-801(3) prior to reaching 20 years of service"; and deleted former (3) that read: "A police officer who is retired under 19-9-801(3) and who was theretofore eligible at his option to be retired under subsection (1) or (2) of 19-9-801 but elected to serve additional years shall be paid for the additional years over his original eligibility at the rate prescribed in subsection (2)."

Chapter 350 deleted former (3) in same manner as Ch. 86 but inserted (3) providing for continuation of allowance after death of retired officer.

Case Notes

Retirement Under Consolidated Government — Benefits From Last System to Which Contributed: Plaintiff retired as a law enforcement officer from Butte-Silver Bow. Prior to the city-county consolidation, he was a Deputy Sheriff. When he retired and applied for benefits, the State calculated options to be offered him under 19-7-701 (renumbered 19-7-1001), the Sheriffs' Retirement System. Plaintiff contended he was entitled to benefits under 19-9-804 and 19-9-911 (renumbered 19-9-1101) of the Police Officers' Retirement System. All parties agreed that eligibility was determined under 19-7-308(1) (renumbered 19-7-801(1)). The Supreme Court held that the statutory provisions are clear and unambiguous. In such a case, rules of statutory construction have no application, so that the court gave no deference to the agency's interpretation. The dispute centered around 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) and whether it merely determines which laws govern eligibility for death benefits or also which laws govern calculation of death benefits. The court held that under 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) death benefits are calculated according to the provisions of the system to which the officer last made contributions. The codification instruction placing 19-7-308 (renumbered 19-7-801) under the provisions of the Sheriffs' Retirement System was only for ease of reference as between the systems. Death benefits are calculable and payable under the Police Officers' Retirement System. Bay v. St., 212 M 258, 688 P2d 1, 41 St. Rep. 1725 (1984).

2023 Amendment: See 2023 Session Law for amendment made by sec. 16, Ch. 400, L. 2023. Amendment effective July 1, 2023.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 283 in second sentence before "physician" inserted "board-approved" and after "surgeon" substituted "at a place mutually agreed on by the board, the disabled member, and the physician or surgeon and" for "at the recipient's place of residence or at another place mutually agreed on"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 370 at end of fourth sentence, after "19-9-905", inserted "or when, if a position is available, the former employee could not be reinstated under 19-9-905 for reasons unrelated to the disability". Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 412 in third sentence substituted "essential elements" for "duties". Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Severability: Section 28, Ch. 412, L. 1995, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 29(2), Ch. 412, L. 1995, provided that this section applies retroactively to initial disability determinations and reviews of ongoing disability status on and after January 1, 1994.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in three places substituted "disability retirement benefit" for "disability retirement allowance" and in fourth sentence, before "disabled", deleted "totally and permanently"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1981 Amendment: Added the first three sentences of the section referring to medical examination of recipient of disability retirement allowance; inserted "his disability retirement allowance must be canceled when he is offered a position under 19-9-905. If he refuses to submit to a medical examination," after "no longer totally and permanently disabled"; made minor changes in phraseology.

An amendment to 19-11-512 (renumbered 19-18-512) by Ch. 566, L. 1981, renumbered the subsections of 19-11-512 (renumbered 19-18-512) which required an amendment to this section.

Chapter 575 in (3), substituted "19-11-512(6) [renumbered 19-18-512(6)]" for "19-11-512(5) [renumbered 19-18-512(5)]".

The Code Commissioner has codified the amendment made by Ch. 566, in favor of the amendment made by Ch. 575, inasmuch as both new subsection references are traceable to the same language in 19-11-512 (renumbered 19-18-512) and the Ch. 566 amendment is the most appropriate in light of the renumbering of the subsections of 19-11-512 (renumbered 19-18-512) by Ch. 566.

ARM 2.43.4603 Municipal police officers' minimum benefit adjustments.

Attorney General's Opinions

Limitation of Allowance Adjustment to One-Time Adjustment: The allowance adjustment in 19-9-1011 (now repealed) was not intended to provide an annual cost-of-living increase, but rather to provide for an adjustment of the monthly allowance of a police officer who retired on or after July 1, 1975, and before July 1, 1985, in order to bring the allowance up to one-half of a newly hired active police officer's salary as of July 1, 1985, in each city. (See 1989 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 79 (1988).

Payment of Pension Supplement: The first supplemental payment to recipients was intended to be made in July 1977, requiring immediate lump-sum payments retroactive to then, followed by monthly payments from the present. The appropriate funding to be implemented may be determined by the administrator of the Public Employees' Retirement Division (now by the Public Employees' Retirement Board) in conformity with this opinion. 37 A.G. Op. 77 (1977).

19-9-1009. Guaranteed annual benefit adjustment.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 62 deleted former (3)(b) that read: "(b) the benefit recipient is not an active member of a public retirement system covered by this title"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 16, 2001.

Chapter 149 throughout section changed percentage from "1.5%" to "3%". Amendment effective March 29, 2001.

Chapter 309 in (3)(a) near middle decreased commencement date from 36 months to 12 months. Amendment effective April 21, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 562 in (3)(a) substituted "commencement date" for "initiation date". Amendment effective July 1, 1999.

Saving Clause: Section 100, Ch. 562, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 through 3] [19-2-1101, now repealed, 19-3-1605, 19-5-901, 19-6-710, 19-7-711, 19-8-1105, 19-9-1009, and 19-13-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to guarantee a minimum level of annual benefit increases for retired members and their contingent annuitants or survivors under each of the statewide public employee retirement systems. The legislature also intends to fund this guaranteed annual benefit adjustment (GABA) in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Because the GABA is intended to address the erosion of retirement benefits caused by inflation as cost-effectively as possible, it is the intent of the legislature that the guaranteed annual 1.5% minimum adjustment not begin until after the original benefit has been paid for at least 36 months.

Because it is most cost-effective to reduce current unfunded liabilities as well as to avoid future unfunded liabilities and to fund new benefits as they accrue, the bill provides that the GABA be substituted for other benefits in cases in which the GABA is as valuable or more valuable to members. The resulting actuarial savings will reduce the additional funding required for the GABA.

In the public employees', sheriffs', and game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement systems, all members will automatically be covered by the GABA provided for in this bill instead of the current postretirement adjustments based on investment earnings.

In the highway patrol officers', municipal police officers', firefighters' unified, and judges' retirement systems, in which the substitution of the GABA in place of other benefits is not a clear benefit enhancement for all current members, it is the intent of the legislature that the members be provided with a thorough analysis of the benefits to be substituted so that members may individually and irrevocably elect whether to be covered under the provisions of this bill. However, it is not the intent of the legislature that the retirement board or its administrative staff be required to recommend a specific or best choice to individual members.

It is the intent of the legislature that all future members of these systems be covered by the GABA in place of certain other benefits."

(2) Upon the death of a police officer before or after retirement, his surviving spouse, if there is one, shall, as long as such spouse remains unmarried, be paid from the fund a sum equal to one-half of the officer's final average salary. If the officer leaves one or more dependent children, then, upon his death if he leaves no surviving spouse or upon the death or remarriage of the surviving spouse, his surviving dependent child, collectively if there is more than one, shall receive the same monthly payments a surviving spouse would receive as long as the child or one of the children remains dependent as defined in 19-9-104. The payments shall be made to the child's duly appointed, qualified, and acting guardian for the child's use. If there is more than one such child, upon each child no longer qualifying as dependent under 19-9-104, the pro rata payments to that child shall cease and shall be made to the remaining children until all the children are no longer dependent."

ARM 2.43.2902 Death payments, survivor benefits, and optional retirement benefits.

Case Notes

Retirement Under Consolidated Government — Benefits From Last System to Which Contributed: Plaintiff retired as a law enforcement officer from Butte-Silver Bow. Prior to the city-county consolidation, he was a Deputy Sheriff. When he retired and applied for benefits, the State calculated options to be offered him under 19-7-701 (renumbered 19-7-1001), the Sheriffs' Retirement System. Plaintiff contended he was entitled to benefits under 19-9-804 and 19-9-911 (renumbered 19-9-1101) of the Police Officers' Retirement System. All parties agreed that eligibility was determined under 19-7-308(1) (renumbered 19-7-801(1)). The Supreme Court held that the statutory provisions are clear and unambiguous. In such a case, rules of statutory construction have no application, so that the court gave no deference to the agency's interpretation. The dispute centered around 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) and whether it merely determines which laws govern eligibility for death benefits or also which laws govern calculation of death benefits. The court held that under 19-7-308(2) (renumbered 19-7-801(2)) death benefits are calculated according to the provisions of the system to which the officer last made contributions. The codification instruction placing 19-7-308 (renumbered 19-7-801) under the provisions of the Sheriffs' Retirement System was only for ease of reference as between the systems. Death benefits are calculable and payable under the Police Officers' Retirement System. Bay v. St., 212 M 258, 688 P2d 1, 41 St. Rep. 1725 (1984).

Chapter Case Notes

Judgment Against "State" Binding Against Two Agencies — Retirement Benefits Setoff Barred as Compulsory Counterclaim: During a longstanding dispute by firefighters employed by the Montana Air National Guard and involving several separate lawsuits, the plaintiff was fired and began receiving retirement benefits. The plaintiff sued "the State" for reinstatement of employment, lost wages, employment benefits during the period of termination, liquidated damages, and attorney fees and costs. After other firefighters' suits were decided in the firefighters' favor, the plaintiff settled with the Department of Military Affairs (DMA) for reinstatement, lost wages, lost annual leave and sick leave benefits, retirement contributions that the DMA would have made during the termination period, and attorney fees and costs of suit. After settlement, the Public Employees' Retirement System (PERS) claimed that it was entitled to repayment of the retirement benefits that the plaintiff had been paid before reinstatement. The DMA and PERS agreed to offset the settlement damages by the retirement amount. The Supreme Court held that the state's setoff claim was barred as a compulsory counterclaim, that both agencies were bound by the DMA's settlement agreement because they were the same party collectively known as the "State of Montana", and that the plaintiff was entitled to the full settlement amount without setoff. Peters v. St., 285 M 345, 948 P2d 250, 54 St. Rep. 1185 (1997).

Retirement Date for Firefighters: Prior to the enactment of sec. 7, Ch. 53, L. 1983, firefighters were able to retire during the month and receive pro rata credit for the portion of that month after retirement. Testimony on the 1983 legislation states that its purpose is to establish uniform retirement dates and to ensure that all retirees would begin accruing their benefits on the first day of the month. Under 19-13-701(2), the retirement date for a firefighter retiring from active service is the first day of the month following his last day of membership service. On that day, and not before, his service retirement benefits become payable. 40 A.G. Op. 59 (1984).

Case Notes

Firefighter Retirement System Phase-In Not Violative of Equal Protection: The 2001 Legislature passed Senate Bill No. 289, providing that National Guard firefighters who were hired on or after October 1, 2001, would participate in the Firefighters' Unified Retirement System, while those hired prior to October 1, 2001, would continue to participate in the Public Employees' Retirement System, which provided less benefits. The bill had no provision allowing transfer between systems, resulting in denial of better benefits for about 22 firefighters who were hired prior to October 1, 2001. Bean was one of the 22 and challenged the new retirement process, codified in 19-13-210, on grounds that the law created two similarly situated classifications of firefighters who were treated differently, in violation of equal protection. The District Court agreed and held that the new process was unconstitutional. The state appealed, and the Supreme Court reversed, noting that an equal protection challenge fails if the groups at issue do not constitute similarly situated classes. The cutoff date in 19-13-210 created two dissimilar classes of firefighters. The Legislature recognized that the new process created an inequitable situation, but rather than approaching the inequity with an immediate and comprehensive solution, the Legislature chose to correct the imbalance by phasing National Guard firefighters into the Firefighters' Unified Retirement System, providing a prospective retirement solution for newly hired firefighters without affecting the retirement expectation of existing firefighters, and instituting a process that would end the alleged distinction once all National Guard firefighters hired before October 1, 2001, retired. Thus, the statute operated equally upon members of each class of firefighters and did not violate Bean's right to equal protection. Bean v. St., 2008 MT 67, 342 M 85, 179 P3d 524 (2008), following Gulbrandson v. Carey, 272 M 494, 901 P2d 573 (1995).

State Retirement Board Not Required to Calculate Compensation Amounts for Individual Plan Members: Plaintiffs sued the state and the Public Employees' Retirement Board alleging that plaintiffs' compensation was incorrectly calculated by the Board, resulting in inadequate monthly benefits. The District Court dismissed the claim on grounds that plaintiffs failed to file their complaint within the 2-year statute of limitations, and plaintiffs appealed. The Supreme Court noted that although the Board has broad statutory duties to administer the various state retirement plans, it is not the Board's duty to calculate compensation amounts for individual members. Rather, it is an employer's duty to calculate and report the compensation amounts. If those reports were in error, plaintiffs should have sought relief from their employers, but their remedy did not lie with the state or the Board. Thus, the District Court correctly dismissed the complaint, albeit for a different reason, and the Supreme Court affirmed. Hall v. St., 2006 MT 37, 331 M 171, 130 P3d 601 (2006).

Attorney General's Opinions

Unified Retirement — Firefighters Entitled to Prior Benefits: In converting to the Unified Retirement System, all eligible firefighters are entitled to all pension benefits accrued to them under the old retirement system. A firefighter's pension constitutes an element of compensation, and a vested contractual right to pension benefits, which are stated in the retirement plan during the firefighter's employment, accrues when he begins paying into the retirement fund. Vested pension rights include the provisions that were used to compute the adjusted benefits under the old system. Firefighters hired before July 1, 1973, and who retired during the period from July 1, 1973, and July 1, 1981 (the time periods under the 1981 law, prior to 1983 amendment to 19-13-1007), were entitled to all pension benefits accrued to them under the old retirement system. 39 A.G. Op. 51 (1982).

2017 Amendment: Chapter 195 in (1) near beginning substituted "participation in or contributions to the retirement system" for "contributions in the retirement system" and at end substituted "an actuarial valuation of the liabilities of the employer to the retirement system" for "as part of the required actuarial valuation an actuarial investigation of the funding status of the employer"; and in (2) in first sentence near beginning substituted "actuarial valuation" for "actuarial investigation" and near end after "liabilities of the employer" inserted "and to cover the cost of the actuarial valuation to determine those liabilities". Amendment effective July 1, 2017.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 290 throughout section substituted reference to employer for reference to city. Amendment effective on occurrence of contingency.

Contingent Effective Date: Section 7, Ch. 290, L. 2001, provided: "[This act] is effective contingent on the execution of an agreement between the department of military affairs and the public employees' retirement board establishing that employer contributions for all firefighters hired by the Montana air national guard pursuant to [section 2] [19-13-210] will be paid with federal funds passed through the department of military affairs and remitted to the firefighters' unified retirement system in a manner prescribed by the public employees' retirement board. 1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in (1), in two places, substituted "retirement system" for "plan" and near end substituted "required actuarial valuation" for "actuarial valuation required in 19-13-504"; and in (2), in first sentence, substituted "the amount determined to be necessary" for "an amount needed" and before "city" inserted "liabilities of the". Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Compiler's Comments

1993 Amendment: Chapter 265 in (2), in two places, substituted "board" for "administrator", near beginning of first sentence substituted "retirement system" for "plan", and in second sentence, after "for deposit", substituted "in the pension trust fund" for "with the administrator"; and deleted (3) that read: "(3) For each city with an unfunded liability, any portion of the member, the employer, and state contributions that exceeds the amount necessary to maintain the current level of unfunded liability must be applied to the reduction of the unfunded liability." Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1991 Amendment: In (2), in first sentence, substituted "within 6 months after a city is granted membership in the plan" for "on or before October 1, 1986" and at end substituted "the city's previous plan" for "each city participating in the plan created by this chapter" and in second sentence substituted "previous" for "prior", before "is not funded" deleted "as of July 1, 1986", after "administrator" substituted "the city" for "the state auditor", and near end, after "period of time", deleted "from the premium taxes on insurance risks enumerated in 19-11-512"; deleted former (3) that required the administrator to credit accounts for payments in excess of amount necessary to amortize the city's liabilities; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

1983 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 286, which substituted "1986" for "1984" in two places in (2), became effective on March 29, 1983.

Chapter 661, twice in (2), substituted "1986" for "1984"; following first sentence of (2) deleted "The determination must be negotiated between each city and the administrator."; inserted "For" at beginning of second sentence of (2); at end of (2) substituted "the administrator, the state auditor shall pay ... city's excess liability" for "the administrator shall pay an additional sum over a period of time to amortize its excess liability as determined by agreement between the city and the administrator."; and substituted (3) allowing administrator to credit his accounts for excess payments for "Each city determined by the administrator to be paying an amount in excess of the amount necessary to amortize its liabilities under the prior plan and under this chapter shall receive a credit in the accounts of the administrator for the excess payments." Chapter 661 became effective July 1, 1983.

Chapter 661 amended the duties of the administrator and date of evaluation of a plan effective approximately 3 months later than Ch. 286. However, as those duties and date of evaluation are prospective and must be accomplished or determined long after the effective date of both chapters, the differing effective dates appear inconsequential.

19-13-214. Taxing authority of employers.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 near middle after "chapter" substituted "the appropriate authority of the city may, subject to 15-10-420, levy a tax that along with other revenue" for "whenever the demand for deposits of such contributions cannot be met within the general taxing authority and other revenues available to the city for that purpose, the appropriate authority of the city may levy any additional tax authorized by law until the general taxing authority and other revenue"; deleted former (2) and (3) that read: "(2) "General taxing authority", as used in this section, means that levy which the city may make under the all-purpose levy or under multiple-purpose levies, if the city is using multiple-purpose levies.

(3) No provision of any statute relating to the all-purpose levy may be so construed as to limit the additional taxing authority created by this section"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

State Retirement Board Not Required to Calculate Compensation Amounts for Individual Plan Members: Plaintiffs sued the state and the Public Employees' Retirement Board alleging that plaintiffs' compensation was incorrectly calculated by the Board, resulting in inadequate monthly benefits. The District Court dismissed the claim on grounds that plaintiffs failed to file their complaint within the 2-year statute of limitations, and plaintiffs appealed. The Supreme Court noted that although the Board has broad statutory duties to administer the various state retirement plans, it is not the Board's duty to calculate compensation amounts for individual members. Rather, it is an employer's duty to calculate and report the compensation amounts. If those reports were in error, plaintiffs should have sought relief from their employers, but their remedy did not lie with the state or the Board. Thus, the District Court correctly dismissed the complaint, albeit for a different reason, and the Supreme Court affirmed. Hall v. St., 2006 MT 37, 331 M 171, 130 P3d 601 (2006).

However, the retirement benefit for an inactive vested member must commence no later than the first day of the month following the member's 55th birthday." Amendment effective April 23, 1997.

Chapter 457 at end of (3) substituted "no earlier than the first day of the month following the member's 50th birthday" for "no later than the first day of the month following the member's 55th birthday" (voided by Ch. 370 amendment). Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

Retirement Date for Firefighters: Prior to the enactment of sec. 7, Ch. 53, L. 1983, firefighters were able to retire during the month and receive pro rata credit for the portion of that month after retirement. Testimony on the 1983 legislation states that its purpose is to establish uniform retirement dates and to ensure that all retirees would begin accruing their benefits on the first day of the month. Under 19-13-701(2), the retirement date for a firefighter retiring from active service is the first day of the month following his last day of membership service. On that day, and not before, his service retirement benefits become payable. 40 A.G. Op. 59 (1984).

Unified Retirement — Firefighters Entitled to Prior Benefits: In converting to the Unified Retirement System, all eligible firefighters are entitled to all pension benefits accrued to them under the old retirement system. A firefighter's pension constitutes an element of compensation, and a vested contractual right to pension benefits, which are stated in the retirement plan during the firefighter's employment, accrues when he begins paying into the retirement fund. Vested pension rights include the provisions that were used to compute the adjusted benefits under the old system. Firefighters hired before July 1, 1973, and who retired during the period from July 1, 1973, and July 1, 1981 (the time periods under the 1981 law, prior to 1983 amendment to 19-13-1007), were entitled to all pension benefits accrued to them under the old retirement system. 39 A.G. 1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 412 in (1), in third sentence, substituted "essential elements" for "duties" and near end, before "position", inserted "former"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 287, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 through 3] [19-2-1101, now repealed, 19-3-1605, 19-5-901, 19-6-710, 19-7-711, 19-8-1105, 19-9-1009, and 19-13-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt rules to implement the provisions of the bill.

It is the intent of the legislature to guarantee a minimum level of annual benefit increases for retired members and their contingent annuitants or survivors under each of the statewide public employee retirement systems. The legislature also intends to fund this guaranteed annual benefit adjustment (GABA) in the most cost-effective manner possible.

Because the GABA is intended to address the erosion of retirement benefits caused by inflation as cost-effectively as possible, it is the intent of the legislature that the guaranteed annual 1.5% minimum adjustment not begin until after the original benefit has been paid for at least 36 months.

Because it is most cost-effective to reduce current unfunded liabilities as well as to avoid future unfunded liabilities and to fund new benefits as they accrue, the bill provides that the

GABA be substituted for other benefits in cases in which the GABA is as valuable or more valuable to members. The resulting actuarial savings will reduce the additional funding required for the GABA.

In the public employees', sheriffs', and game wardens' [now game wardens' and peace officers'] retirement systems, all members will automatically be covered by the GABA provided for in this bill instead of the current postretirement adjustments based on investment earnings.

In the highway patrol officers', municipal police officers', firefighters' unified, and judges' retirement systems, in which the substitution of the GABA in place of other benefits is not a clear benefit enhancement for all current members, it is the intent of the legislature that the members be provided with a thorough analysis of the benefits to be substituted so that members may individually and irrevocably elect whether to be covered under the provisions of this bill. However, it is not the intent of the legislature that the retirement board or its administrative staff be required to recommend a specific or best choice to individual members.

It is the intent of the legislature that all future members of these systems be covered by the GABA in place of certain other benefits."

1997 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 370, L. 1997, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because [sections 1 and 3] [19-2-908 and 19-2-1010] give the public employees' retirement board authority to adopt administrative rules.

A fundamental purpose of the public employee retirement systems is to provide members with a federal income tax-deferred retirement plan. To qualify for federally deferred income tax status, each retirement plan must conform with the requirements of section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code, which may be amended from time to time.

It is the intent of the legislature that Montana statutory provisions in conflict with section 401 of the Internal Revenue Code and related federal regulations and that would result in a retirement plan being disqualified are ineffective or must be interpreted so that the retirement plans may retain tax-deferred status.

It is the further intent of the legislature to clarify when a member of a retirement system becomes a retiree. The retirement date is the date on which the member accepts the first benefit payment. An inactive member who has not met all eligibility requirements for retirement, including proper submission of a written application for retirement benefits, should not be considered a "retiree" during the period of time before the member actually began receiving benefit payments, even though the member may later receive payments retroactive to an earlier commencement date. Because retirees may not earn membership service or purchase service credits in the retirement systems and active and inactive members may not receive benefit adjustments granted to current retirees, it is imperative to the actuarial soundness of the systems to clarify the retirement date of each member."

CHAPTER 18
FIREFIGHTERS' RETIREMENT

Part 1
General Provisions

19-18-102. Formation of fire department relief association — membership.

Case Notes

Membership in Fire Department Relief Association — Legal Right: Plaintiff was temporarily employed as a fireman in the Missoula Fire Department beginning on Sept. 1, 1918. His employment was discontinued about April 30, 1919. On April 20, 1920, when he was past 45 years of age he was appointed to the position of auto mechanic. He was reappointed on a yearly basis until June 15, 1941, when the position was abolished. During his period of service he occasionally performed as a fireman but was never confirmed as such. Plaintiff never took any action seeking confirmation or followed the statutory procedure to gain membership. The fire department relief association was a creature of statute and supported by a statutory levy. The State may enforce such statutory requirements for membership as it chooses. Plaintiff did not meet these qualifications so could not be granted membership for purposes of receiving a pension. State ex rel. Russ v. Fire Dept. Relief Ass'n, 114 M 430, 136 P2d 989 (1943).

Attorney General's Opinions

Fire Chief or Assistant Chief as Member of Relief Association: Under 7-33-4106 and 7-33-4122, a chief or assistant chief of a municipal fire department is a confirmed member of the fire department. Section 19-11-102 (renumbered 19-18-102) authorizes the formation of a fire department relief association by the confirmed members of a fire department. Because a chief or an assistant chief is a confirmed member of his fire department, he could be a member of the fire department relief association. 39 A.G. Op. 22 (1981).

Qualifications for Membership in Firemen's Relief Association: A city or firemen's relief association had no authority to deduct firemen's relief association dues from the wages of a probationary fireman, nor could a probationary fireman willingly contribute to a firemen's relief association and thereby receive benefits from that association. 36 A.G. Op. 30 (1975).

19-18-105. Establishment of disability and pension fund.

Case Notes

Association Benefits for Members of Organized Fire Departments Only: To entitle a fireman to the benefits of the disability and pension fund of the firemen's relief association, he had to be a member of an organized fire department, whether it be a paid or voluntary one, and confirmed as such by the City or Town Council (19-11-103, renumbered 19-18-103, and 19-11-205, renumbered 19-18-205). Where a volunteer department was abolished, a member thereof could no longer qualify as an eligible member of the relief association. State ex rel. Casey v. Brewer, 107 M 550, 88 P2d 49 (1939).

19-18-106. Transfer of money into fund by city treasurer.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made section gender neutral; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Case Notes

Effect of Abolishment on Membership of Association: A volunteer fire department was abolished upon the creation of a paid department. The volunteer members were no longer members of the relief association, and an election of a treasurer by such members was illegal. A treasurer elected by the members of the paid department was entitled to the possession of the property and funds of the association. Courts may take judicial notice of the articles of incorporation in passing upon qualifications of members. State ex rel. Casey v. Brewer, 107 M 550, 88 P2d 49 (1939).

19-18-203. Use of disability and pension fund.

Compiler's Comments

1987 Amendment: In introductory clause deleted reference to part 3.

Attorney General's Opinions

Fire Department Relief Association — Retired Firefighters — Benefits: A fire department relief association may decide whether retired firefighters should remain members of the association and what rights and duties they should have in it. Retired firefighters are ineligible for the blanket policy of insurance that the firefighters relief association is authorized to purchase under this section. Funeral expense money provided under this section is payable to a deceased firefighter's estate. 36 A.G. Op. 62 (1976).

Volunteer Firefighters: Volunteer firefighters in second-class cities are entitled to all relief association benefits other than the service pension. 35 A.G. Op. 67 (1974).

Blanket Insurance Policy: After the 1967 amendment to this section, a fire department relief association may purchase a blanket insurance policy that will compensate for death or injuries of members not incurred in the line of duty. 32 A.G. Op. 3 (1967).

Funeral Benefits — Right: Unless otherwise provided in its charter or bylaws, it is discretionary with a fire department relief association as to whether funeral benefits will be paid to either its active or retired members. 30 A.G. Op. 1 (1963).

Right of Widow to Pension: A firefighter's widow who remarries and whose remarriage is annulled ab initio has remained unmarried and is entitled to the widow's pension under the fire department association pension plan retroactive to the day her pension was cut off. 28 A.G. Op. 41 (1959).

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 29 in (1) after "at least" substituted "0.21% but not more than 0.52% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111" for "4% but no more than 10% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property"; and near beginning of (2) after "less than" substituted "0.21% of the total assessed value" for "4% of the taxable valuation". Attorney General's Opinions

No Authority of City to Levy Additional Special Tax to Fund Firefighters' Disability and Pension Fund When Maximum Mill Levy Already Imposed: This section authorizes a special tax levy as a means of maintaining a firefighters' disability and pension fund at a level equal to at least 4% but not more than 10% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property within the limits of a city or town. Whenever the fund contains less than 4% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property within the city limits, the governing body is required to levy a special tax as provided in 19-18-504. However, if the city has already imposed the maximum mill levy to fund the firefighters' disability and pension fund, it may not levy an additional special tax or seek voter approval for an additional special tax even if the fund's value is less that 4% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property within the city. (See 2001 and 2005 amendments.) 48 A.G. Op. 15 (2000).

All-Purpose Mill Levy — Forfeiture Powers: Municipalities that adopt the all-purpose mill levy authorized in 7-6-4452 (now repealed) forfeit the power to impose levies for any particular purpose not clearly excepted by statute. Thus, the all-purpose mill levy supplants the taxing authority granted in 7-33-4111, 19-10-301 (renumbered 19-19-301), and 19-11-503 (renumbered 19-18-503) (before 2005 amendment) but does not supplant the taxing authority granted in 7-32-4117, 7-33-4130, 19-3-204, 19-9-704 (renumbered 19-9-209), sec. 2, Ch. 324, L. 1975 (not codified), sec. 2, Ch. 359, L. 1975 (not codified), and sec. 3, Ch. 438, L. 1975 (not codified). 38 A.G. but more than 0.21% of the total assessed value of all taxable property within the city or town"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 1, 2017.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 193 in (1) near beginning after "less than" substituted "the minimum amount required to keep the fund soundly funded pursuant to 19-18-503" for "0.21% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111, within the city or town"; inserted (3) requiring that all revenue from the tax be deposited in the fund; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 7, 2005.

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 29 in first sentence after "less than" substituted "0.21% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111" for "4% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property" and after "shall" inserted "subject to 15-10-420" and in second sentence after "less than" substituted "0.52% but more than 0.21% of the total assessed value" for "10% but more than 4% of the taxable valuation"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Chapter 495 in first sentence substituted "annual tax" for "annual special tax" and in second sentence inserted "as provided in 15-10-425" and substituted "annual tax" for "annual special tax"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Chapter 574 in first sentence after "council shall" substituted "subject to 15-10-420, levy an annual tax on the taxable value of all taxable property" for "levy an annual special tax of not less than 1 mill and not more than 4 mills on each dollar of taxable valuation of all taxable property" and at end of second sentence substituted "voters as provided in 15-10-425, levy an annual tax" for "voters, levy an annual special tax of not less than 1 mill and not more than 4 mills on each dollar of taxable valuation"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1999 Amendment: Chapter 553 in first sentence near middle inserted "or town" and inserted second sentence regarding levy of annual special tax; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

1989 Amendment: Increased "3%" to "4%".

1981 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 566 deleted former subsections (1) and (2) that provided for a special tax levy of not more than 4 mills for first- and second-class cities; deleted "In cities of the third class" at the beginning of the section; and substituted "Whenever" for "when" at the beginning of the section.

Chapter 614 increased 2% to 3% in (1), (2)(a), (2)(b), and (3); and increased 1% to 1.5% in (2)(a).

Because the deletion of former subsections (1) and (2) by Ch. 566, L. 1981, is an amendment in the nature of a repeal, the Code Commissioner has not codified the amendments to these subsections contained in Ch. 614, L. 1981. See 1-2-204.

Attorney General's Opinions

No Authority of City to Levy Additional Special Tax to Fund Firefighters' Disability and Pension Fund When Maximum Mill Levy Already Imposed: Section 19-18-503 authorizes a special tax levy as a means of maintaining a firefighters' disability and pension fund at a level equal to at least 4% but not more than 10% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property within the limits of a city or town. Whenever the fund contains less than 4% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property within the city limits, the governing body is required to levy a special tax as provided in this section. However, if the city has already imposed the maximum mill levy to fund the firefighters' disability and pension fund, it may not levy an additional special tax or seek voter approval for an additional special tax even if the fund's value is less that 4% of the taxable valuation of all taxable property within the city. Part 6
Benefits

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Unified Retirement — Firefighters Entitled to Prior Benefits: In converting to the Unified Retirement System, all eligible firefighters are entitled to all pension benefits accrued to them under the old retirement system. A firefighter's pension constitutes an element of compensation, and a vested contractual right to pension benefits, which are stated in the retirement plan during the firefighter's employment, accrues when he begins paying into the retirement fund. Vested pension rights include the provisions that were used to compute the adjusted benefits under the old system. Firefighters hired before July 1, 1973, and who retired during the period from July 1, 1973, and July 1, 1981, are entitled to all pension benefits accrued to them under the old retirement system. 39 A.G. Op. 51 (1982).

Practical Effect of Section on Use of Funds: Although the provisions of 19-18-606 (now repealed) are in conflict on the issue of whether the funds to be paid to the various fire relief associations are to be used by the associations to supplement retirees' pensions or reimburse the associations' treasuries for pension adjustments already paid out, the practical effect of the law, at least for the first few years of its operation, is to provide the associations with funds at the beginning of the fiscal year from which they can supplement the pensions of the retirees for that fiscal year. 36 A.G. Op. 41 (1975).

Pension Adjustments: Section 19-18-606 (now repealed) required the treasurer of a fire department relief association to request and the State Auditor to issue from the earmarked revenue fund (changed to special revenue fund in 1983) an amount equal to the sum total of the annual dollar difference between what the retirees or their surviving spouses and children received from the fund of the relief association for the fiscal year just preceding and one-half of the sum paid by the respective city or town to the position of a confirmed active fireman for the fiscal year just preceding. 36 A.G. Op. 41 (1975).

Computation of Benefits: Insurance premiums paid on behalf of firefighters are not part of their "regular monthly salary" for purposes of computing pension benefits under 19-18-606 (now repealed). 36 A.G. Op. 40 (1975).

19-18-601. Benefits the association may provide.

Case Notes

Pensioner Without Vested Right in Pension: A pension granted by the public authorities was not a contractual obligation but a gratuitous allowance in the continuance of which the pensioner had no vested right, the pension being terminable at the will of the grantor. A City Council could abolish its volunteer fire department when in its judgment a paid department should be established and could also destroy the membership of a volunteer member in the firemen's relief association. State ex rel. Casey v. Brewer, 107 M 550, 88 P2d 49 (1939), explained in Clarke v. Ireland, 122 M 191, 199 P2d 965 (1948).

Incapacity Due to Illness: Under this section, a city fireman could properly be awarded benefits from the firemen's disability fund for incapacity from duty caused by illness in an amount equal to his monthly salary during the time of such incapacity. In such case the provisions of 19-11-602 (renumbered 19-18-602) and 19-11-604 (renumbered 19-18-604), providing for a service pension and limiting it to one-half the monthly salary last received by such member, had no application. State ex rel. Barry v. O'Leary, 83 M 445, 272 P 677 (1928).

Attorney General's Opinions

Right of Widow to Pension: A firefighter's widow who remarries and whose remarriage is annulled ab initio has remained unmarried and is entitled to the widow's pension under the fire department association pension plan retroactive to the day her pension was cut off. 28 A.G. Op. 41 (1959).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 51 in (3)(b) after "pension may" substituted "be set by the board of trustees of the association, but may not exceed $225 a month" for "not exceed $150 a month"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1983 Amendment: Near end of (3), increased monthly pension payment to volunteer firefighters from $100 to $150 a month.

Interpretation: Section 4, Ch. 484, L. 1977, read: "This act is not intended to increase or decrease benefits earned by present members under prior acts. The amendments in section 3 of this act are intended to clarify that section but are not intended to imply that prior to the effective date of this act a member could have retired prior to age 50 with full benefits to be paid at age 50."

Case Notes

Two-Year Statute of Limitations Applicable to Filing Suit for Volunteer Fire Department Partial Pension: Marx served as a volunteer firefighter from 1979 to 1995, when he was terminated for failure to complete training requirements. About 6 months after termination, Marx requested the firefighters relief association board to grant him a partial pension. In 2004 Marx was notified by the board that his request was denied pursuant to 19-18-602(5) because there was no other factor beyond Marx's control that would qualify him for a partial or reduced pension. Marx then filed suit against the association for damages and declaratory relief. The association moved for summary judgment on grounds that Marx had failed to file suit within 2 years of termination as required in 27-2-211. The District Court granted summary judgment for the association and Marx appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. Despite Marx's assertion that under 27-2-301 the time for running the statute of limitations did not begin until his request was formally denied, the District Court did not incorrectly determine the accrual date of Marx's cause of action. Marx cited no authority for the proposition that a demand was necessary to entitle him to maintain an action for a partial pension, and the Supreme Court declined to insert into 27-2-301 a requirement for formal repudiation or denial of a claim. Rather, the statute of limitation began to run from the time Marx knew the facts that would have justified a demand for the pension. The right to a service pension is a liability created by statute as contemplated in 27-2-211, and the association met its initial burden of establishing both the absence of genuine issues of material fact and its entitlement to judgment as a matter of law, while Marx failed to establish the existence of a genuine issue of material fact. Marx v. Belgrade Volunteer Firefighters Relief Ass'n, 2008 MT 410, 347 M 256, 198 P3d 247 (2008), distinguishing Kosty v. Lewis, 319 F2d 744 (D.C. Cir. 1963), Martin v. Constr. Laborer's Pension Trust, 947 F2d 1381 (9th Cir. 1991), and Wetzel v. Lou Ehlers Cadillac Group, 222 F3d 643 (9th Cir. 2000).

Incapacity Due to Illness: Under 19-11-611 (renumbered 19-18-611), a city fireman could properly be awarded benefits from the firemen's disability fund for incapacity from duty caused by illness in an amount equal to his monthly salary during the time of such incapacity. In such a case the provisions of this section and 19-11-604 (renumbered 19-18-604), providing for a service pension and limiting it to one-half the monthly salary last received by such member, had no application. State ex rel. Barry v. O'Leary, 83 M 445, 272 P 677 (1928).

Incapacity Due to Illness: Under 19-11-611 (renumbered 19-18-611), a city fireman could properly be awarded benefits from the firemen's disability fund for incapacity from duty caused by illness in an amount equal to his monthly salary during the time of such incapacity. In such a case the provisions of 19-11-602 (renumbered 19-18-602) and this section, providing for a service pension and limiting it to one-half the monthly salary last received by such member, had no application. Case Notes

Pensioner Without Vested Right in Pension: A pension granted by the public authorities was not a contractual obligation but a gratuitous allowance in the continuance of which the pensioner had no vested right, the pension being terminable at the will of the grantor. A City Council could abolish its volunteer fire department when in its judgment a paid department should be established and could also destroy the membership of a volunteer member in the firemen's relief association. State ex rel. Casey v. Brewer, 107 M 550, 88 P2d 49 (1939), explained in Clarke v. Ireland, 122 M 191, 199 P2d 965 (1948).

Incapacity Due to Illness: Under this section, a city fireman could properly be awarded benefits from the firemen's disability fund for incapacity from duty caused by illness in an amount equal to his monthly salary during the time of such incapacity. In such case the provisions of 19-11-602 (renumbered 19-18-602) and 19-11-604 (renumbered 19-18-604), providing for a service pension and limiting it to one-half the monthly salary last received by such member, had no application. State ex rel. Barry v. O'Leary, 83 M 445, 272 P 677 (1928).

1991 Amendment: Inserted (2) concerning exempting first $3,600 of retirement allowance from taxation by state, county, or municipality. Amendment effective May 24, 1991.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 823, L. 1991, provided: "WHEREAS, the State of Montana desires to tax federal, state, and private retirement benefits equally; and

WHEREAS, the State of Montana has in the past provided its employees with a benefit of employment through its tax system; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature desires and encourages qualified employees to enter and remain in public service; and

WHEREAS, it is the policy of the State of Montana to encourage public employees who become superannuated or incapacitated to retire and, to that end, to provide sufficient benefits to provide for retirement; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature wishes to encourage all retired persons to remain within Montana to provide a critical mass of retired persons who use certain services and facilities that are important to retired persons and that may keep and perhaps entice other retired persons into the state; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature has in the past granted increases in retirement benefits in a manner designed to provide relatively greater increases to those retirees who were employed during the years of low wages and whose benefits are relatively small; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature therefore grants an increase in benefits to its former public employees who are residents of the state to provide compensation to encourage them to remain in Montana."

Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Attorney General's Opinions

All-Purpose Mill Levy — Forfeiture of Powers: Municipalities that adopt the all-purpose mill levy authorized in 7-6-4452 (now repealed) forfeit the power to impose levies for any particular purpose not clearly excepted by statute. Thus, the all-purpose mill levy supplants the taxing authority granted in 7-33-4111, 19-10-301 (renumbered 19-19-301), and 19-11-503 (renumbered 19-18-503) but does not supplant the taxing authority granted in 7-32-4117, 7-33-4130, 19-3-204, 19-9-704 (renumbered 19-9-209), sec. 2, Ch. 324, L. 1975 (not codified), sec. 2, Ch. 359, L. 1975 (not codified), and sec. 3, Ch. 438, L. 1975 (not codified). 38 A.G. Op. 112 (1980).

Unauthorized Levies Not to Be Used as Basis for Temporary Increase: The special levies authorized by 7-32-4117, 7-33-4130, and 19-10-301 (renumbered 19-19-301) must be included in the 65-mill levy authorized by 7-6-4451. Any such special levies improperly levied in addition to the 65-mill all-purpose levy may not be used in computing the basis for a 5% increase under 15-7-122 (now repealed). 38 A.G. Op. 44 (1979).

Withholding Retirement Contributions From Temporary Officer's Compensation Not Proper: The City Treasurer may not withhold contributions for the retirement fund from a temporary officer's compensation, as the purpose of the retirement fund is to benefit active officers who have completed 20 years or more of service. 41 A.G. Op. 29 (1985).

19-19-303. Refund of officer's contribution.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made section gender neutral; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Attorney General's Opinions

No Retroactive Effect: Right to a refund of contributions of a retired police officer of the Montana Statewide Police Reserve Fund is confined to police officers whose service with the city is discontinued after July 1, 1975, as there not only was no provision for refund of contributions but a prohibition against repayments as a pension or refund. 36 A.G. Op. 57 (1976).

Prior Decision: In an opinion written before the adoption of this section, it was held that a police officer who resigns from a city police force is not entitled to withdraw his contribution from the police pension fund. 29 A.G. Op. 11 (1961).

19-19-305. Annual state payments to municipality with police department.

Compiler's Comments

1997 Amendment: Chapter 532 in (1), in second sentence after "payment", inserted "from the general fund"; deleted former (2) that read: "The payments provided for by 19-19-205 and subsection (1) of this section shall be paid from the premium tax collected on insurance sold in this state to insure against the risks enumerated in 19-18-512. Such payments may only be made after deductions have been made from the gross premium tax for cancellations and returned premiums"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

1985 Amendment: In (1) inserted last sentence referring to statutory appropriation.

1981 Amendment: Substituted "After" for "At" at the beginning of (1).

Case Notes

Conditions Attached to Appropriation: Where title of appropriation bill indicated that its purpose was to provide for annual payment to cities and towns for police reserve fund, section of statute which contained restrictions on such payments, contrary to provisions of metropolitan police law (Title 7, ch. 32, part 41), was repugnant to Art. V, sec. 23, 1889 Mont. Const. (similar to Art. V, sec. 11(4), 1972 Mont. Const.), and therefore void. Helena v. Omholt, 155 M 212, 468 P2d 764 (1970).

Attorney General's Opinions

Pension Trust for PERS Members Prohibits Use of State Funds: Subsection (8) of 19-3-403 prohibits use of annual state payments received by a city pursuant to this section for a pension trust plan for police officers who are also members of the Public Employees' Retirement System. 42 A.G. Op. 92 (1988).

Consolidated Law Enforcement Funding: Third-class cities or towns that have consolidated their police departments with county law enforcement offices may not use the funds received from the State Auditor under 19-10-305 (renumbered 19-19-305) to pay the county for their share of the consolidated law enforcement expense unless those funds are used exclusively for pensions and/or training. 37 A.G. Op. 117 (1978).

Expenditure of State Funds for Police Officers: A town may expend funds received pursuant to 19-10-305 (renumbered 19-19-305) to purchase an annuity for former members of its police department even though the town now has a consolidated department. 37 A.G. Op. 103 (1977).

Interlocal Agreement — Qualifies for State Payment: A contracting city or town under an interlocal agreement providing for cooperative law enforcement services would not forfeit the right to receive state payments as each municipality would still be provided law enforcement services through a local police department. A city or town not governed by the provisions of the police retirement system may thus properly expend the state payment received under this section for police training or to purchase pensions for members of the police department supplying police services pursuant to the interlocal agreement. 35 A.G. Op. 72 (1974).

Attorney General's Opinions

Retirement Credit for Temporary Police Duty — Contributions: Time served for temporary duty as a special officer counts toward a police officer's time requirements for the retired list under this section. The City Treasurer may not withhold contributions for the retirement fund from a temporary officer's compensation, as the purpose of the retirement fund is to benefit active officers who have completed 20 years or more of service. 41 A.G. Op. 29 (1985).

Case Notes

Employer May Decide Date of Impairment and Date of Retirement: This section makes it clear that the appropriate entity has discretion in making the determination as to whether and when an injury or disability permanently impairs ability to perform and makes it clear that a transfer to the retired list is mandatory only upon the making of an impairment determination. The section does not mandate transfer and the commencement of retirement benefits as of the date of the injury or disability. Silva v. Columbia Falls, 258 M 329, 852 P2d 671, 50 St. Rep. 556 (1993).

Grant of Retirement as of Date of Evidence of Permanent Disability Rather Than Date of Injury: A police officer was injured in January 1989 and applied for disability retirement in March 1989. Medical evidence in March and August 1989 indicated that he would be able to return to work. The first medical statement that he would not be able to return to work was received by the city on June 21, 1990, from a doctor who stated that plaintiff's disability had existed since the date of the injury. This statement conflicted with the prior medical evidence. The city's decision to grant retirement benefits as of June 21, 1990, had a reasonable basis, was not arbitrary and capricious, and was affirmed. Silva v. Columbia Falls, 258 M 329, 852 P2d 671, 50 St. Rep. 556 (1993).

Stress-Related Problems Not Compensable: A police officer was involved in two automobile accidents while on active duty, but neither injury resulted in wage loss nor did the officer mention any problems related to the injuries. The officer quit the department some years later due to stress and anxiety problems. The District Court properly affirmed the City Council decision to deny benefits because the officer's problems did not result from the active discharge of his duties but rather from stress and anxiety generally associated with his employment, neither of which is compensable as a workers' compensation injury or occupational disease. Norman v. Whitefish, 258 M 26, 852 P2d 533, 50 St. Rep. 441 (1993).
